BERLIN REDS BLAST U. S. AT RALLY

Western Allies' Plan Of Action Still Undecided

Top U. S. Diplomatic Officials Attend Sunday Conference

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12 (AP) — The Western Powers' next move in the Berlin crisis seemingly ran into delay today while the United States sought to block out a course of action with Britain and France.

Top American diplomatic officials, at a Sunday conference at the State Department, exchanged long distance views with London and Paris on the deadlocked negotiations with Russia over lifting the Soviet blockade of Berlin. The one bit of firm information to emerge was that the final decision on the next step was still under consideration.

A fateful meeting with Prime Minister Stalin is assumed by the western envoys on the fringe of the negotiations to be in prospect almost immediately. What is undisclosed thus far is whether the West is preparing to make it a showdown affair—to be followed by a final break and an appeal to the United Nations unless Russia calls off the Communist campaign to force its wartime allies from the German capital.

Undersecretary Robert A. Lovett and Counselor Charles E. Bohlen, Secretary Marshall's principal adviser on dealings with the Kremlin, were among those taking part in the Sunday conference. Both are key American figures in the long negotiations and took part in yesterday's extraordinary talks among Marshall, Chairman Vandenberg (R-Mich.) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, and Sir Oliver Franks, the British ambassador.

Soviet demands and disorders in Berlin have almost entirely convinced officials that Moscow decided, after agreeing to the general terms of the settlement, to go ahead with the drive to seize all Berlin. These officials nevertheless have remained reluctant to break off negotiations as long as a glimmer of hope remained.

Strategy Mapped In London

LONDON, Sept. 12 (AP)—Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin and the ambassadors of the United States and France considered at a meeting today the next steps to be taken by Western Powers in the Berlin crisis.

They met at Bevin's London residence.

The British Press Association said it was understood that one subject discussed was the nature of new instructions to be sent to western representatives in Moscow.

Conferring with Bevin were members of the so-called "Berlin Committee," consisting of United States Ambassador Lewis Douglas, French Ambassador Rene Massigli and Sir William Strang, the Foreign Secretary's chief adviser on Germany.

The Sunday gathering at Bevin's home was not regarded an emergency conference. American quarters explained that the talks were held today because Douglas will be in Paris for several days for the four-power talks on the disposition of the Italian prewar colonies.

Britain's Labor government faces sharp questioning on the Berlin crisis when Parliament meets Tuesday for a special 10-day session.

30 Hurt When Floor Of Church Collapses

FREDERICKSBURG, Va., Sept. 12 (AP)—Approximately 30 persons attending a service at New Hope Church, just outside of Fredericksburg, were injured today when the floor of the building collapsed.

A score of others among the 150 negro worshippers at the service were given first aid treatment by members of the Fredericksburg rescue squad.

Those taken to a Fredericksburg hospital were reported to have suffered, principally, back injuries. None was believed to be seriously hurt.

Bill Billingsley, a member of the rescue squad who visited the scene, said the church had been undergoing remodeling. A cellar had been dug recently under the structure.

Military Funeral Held For Pakistan's Leader

INDIAN LEADER DIES — Mahomed Ali Jinnah (above), Governor General of Pakistan whose death caused profound shock to members of the government, was buried last night with full military honors.

Moslem-Led Dominion Mourns Sudden Death Of Mahomed Jinnah

KARACHI, Pakistan, Sept. 12 (AP)—Sorrowing Pakistan buried Mahomed Ali Jinnah, governor general and founding father of this Moslem-led dominion, with full military honors tonight.

A half million Moslems lined the streets for the funeral procession. Shouts of "Qaideazam (great leader) is dead! Long live Pakistan!" arose as the body was borne along the streets in a gun carriage.

Jinnah, 71, died of heart disease last night.

Present for the funeral were ministers and officials of the Pakistan government and the entire diplomatic corps in this capital city.

Mrs. Dinah Wadia, only daughter of Jinnah, and his sister, Miss Fatima Jinnah, were present for the final rites.

Body Lies In State

The crowds gathered early in front of Government House, where Jinnah's body lay in state before the military funeral which Pakistan decreed for its beloved leader.

There were scenes reminiscent of the emotion that was displayed at the death almost seven months ago of another great Indian leader — Mohandas K. Gandhi.

Women started to scream. Men in the assemblage could not control their tears.

Streams of volunteers poured into the streets carrying black flags in mourning for the man whose singleness of purpose resulted in the formation of two dominions in India 13 months ago.

40-Day Mourning Period

The paraders asked the people to bear the burden of Jinnah's death "with patience and be ready to face the emergency boldly."

Death deprived the 70,000,000 people of Pakistan of their leader at a time when their government is in dispute with the Hindu-led Dominion of India over two states, Kashmir and Hyderabad.

A 40-day period of mourning was decreed by the government. The Pakistan flag was lowered to half staff over all buildings.

Premier Liaquat Ali Khan (who is a possible successor to Jinnah) pledged in a broadcast that the Cabinet will "carry on with unfaltering determination the great task to which Qaideazam (great leader) Jinnah, father of the nation, devoted himself after the achievement of Pakistan."

"Leak" May Have Put Reds Closer To Atomic Bomb

Suspicions Are Well Founded, Prober Says

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12 (AP)—A congressional spy prober said today there are "well-founded suspicions" that Russians got enough atom bomb secrets to push their own atomic research substantially ahead of schedule.

Rep. Vail (R-Ill.) said the suspicions arise from testimony the House Un-American Activities Committee has been taking secretly.

But he said there is no way of measuring whether filched atomic information means the Soviets are closer to the atomic bomb by one year, two years or any other specific amount of time.

A reporter asked whether there is reason to believe the Russians are substantially further along in their research as a result of spying. Vail replied:

"Well-Founded Suspicions"

"It's difficult to make a statement to that effect, but there are well-founded suspicions for that belief."

Vail has quoted a high Army officer associated with atomic bomb development — obviously Lt. Gen. Leslie R. Groves—as testifying to the committee:

"He has certain that in some degree Russian efforts to penetrate atomic research safeguards were successful. To what degree he could not venture an opinion."

That was in a statement Vail got out yesterday. It did not mention Groves by name. Groves, the wartime head of the project that perfected the a-bomb, testified to the committee behind closed doors Friday. He has retired from the Army.

Secret Sessions To Resume

Groves is reported to have told the spy investigators that the Russians got wind of atomic bomb research a month after it began and immediately put their espionage agents to work on it.

The committee used Groves' testimony to fire another blast at President Truman, who has said over and over the spy hearings are a "red herring" to distract attention from congressional failure to fight the high cost of living.

The committee has more witnesses lined up for secret questioning tomorrow and Tuesday. It had set Wednesday for resumption of public hearings.

But Vail said there is some doubt it can make that deadline. He said the committee has to run down "certain additional leads that have come to us through the hearings."

Poison Gas Charge

LONDON, Sept. 13 (AP)—The Free Greece radio charged in a broadcast today that the Greek army is making plans for poison gas attacks on Greek rebels in the northern mountains.

"QUEEN" RELAXES-- Miss America of 1948, Beatrice Shopp, 18-year-old brunette from Hopkins, Minn., relaxes on the beach at Atlantic City on the first day of her year-long reign. She won the beauty title Saturday night after a week of competition with 54 other girls. Miss America, who "loves to clean fish," won $16,000 in prizes.

Grass Roots Girl Begins Her Reign As Miss America

Plums Worth $16,000 Go To Miss Minnesota

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept 12 (AP)—A baby-faced, grass roots girl, who "loves to clean fish," began today a year-long career as Miss America.

Beatrice (Bebe) Shopp, Hopkins, Minn., an 18-year-old brunette, took the beauty title last night after a week of competition with 54 other girls.

When she awoke this morning after three hours sleep she found herself $16,000 richer than when she left her four-acre homesite.

These are the plums that fell at her feet: A $5,000 scholarship; a $3,000 automobile and $8,000 in contracts for personal appearances to glamorize a number of commercial products.

Plays Vibraharp, Drums, Piano

The five-foot, nine-inch Miss said in an interview she had made up her mind on these points:

She will turn down Hollywood and Broadway contracts unless they call for stage appearances in which she can play a vibraharp. That was the instrument she used to demonstrate her talent during the Miss America Pageant.

She wants to pursue an education in music with emphasis on percussion instruments.

She will not consider matrimony until "I am 24 or 25 years old."

Miss Shopp talked of home along these lines:

She tends about 100 chickens, drives a tractor to plow part of the four acres about the house, helps her mother in the kitchen, practices on her vibraharp, drums and the piano.

"I kill and clean a chicken whenever we have one for dinner," she said. "I love to clean fish whenever daddy brings them home."

Neither Drinks Nor Smokes

Miss Shopp neither drinks nor smokes.

"I don't like men who drink too much," she said. "If they are very moderate about it, that's all right. I don't mind if they smoke."

Miss Shopp said she prepared for the Miss America Pageant a year ago when she entered a Minnesota beauty contest for the experience.

"I was 17 and under age for the Miss America Pageant," she said. Elaine Campbell, Minneapolis, last year's Miss Minnesota, helped me.

Blonde Chosen Mrs. America Over 26 Rivals

ASHBURY PARK, N. J., Sept. 12 (AP)—Mrs. Maria Strohmeier—Mrs. Philadelphia—was named Mrs. America today on the basis of beauty and homemaking abilities.

The 21-year-old green-eyed blonde was chosen over 26 other rivals. The winner was named by two sets of judges — one qualified on beauty and the other on macaroni recipes.

Mrs. Strohmeier, Philadelpria, is the wife of Raymond Strohmeier. They have no children.

She is five feet, six inches tall, weighs 124 pounds, has a 36-inch bust, 25-inch waist, and 36-inch hips.

Apartment House Blast Kills Three

NEW YORK, Sept. 12—(AP)—Three persons were killed and 10 injured early today in a terrific gas explosion that wrecked the fourth and fifth floors of a 17-story Upper Manhattan apartment house.

Some of the injured were children cut by flying glass blown from shattered windows of the 110-family building at 200 West 108th Street. No one was injured seriously.

Police said the disaster apparently was caused by the determination of one of the victims—Eugene Hurley ,35—to commit suicide by gas. Hurley, unemployed, had threatened suicide, police said, and four gas jets were found turned on in his wrecked apartment.

The other victims, identified by police as Arthur Yamner, 28, and his wife, Rosetta, 26, lived in a one-room apartment above Hurley's. They were blown from their beds by the force of the explosion, police said, one body striking the ceiling.

43 Executed As Spies

LONDON, Sept. 12 (AP) — The Yugoslav news agency Tanjug said tonight 43 persons convicted recently at Zagreb of entering Yugoslavia as spies for a foreign power had been executed.

The foreign power was not named.

Atlantic Storm Picks Up Speed

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 12 (AP)—The Atlantic hurricane picked up speed tonight and at 9:15 p. m. (EST) was whirling toward the north northwest at 18 to 20 miles an hour.

With winds of 140 miles per hour near the center, the hurricane was located about 240 miles south of Bermuda and about 980 miles east of Titusville, Fla., in latitude 28.8 north longitude 64.7 west.

Picking up forward movement from an earlier 12 miles an hour, the hurricane began a slow recurve in a more northerly direction.

The storm was expected to pass 100 miles to the west of Bermuda tomorrow morning.

A 6:15 p. m. advisory placed the storm 375 miles south of Bermuda and 960 miles east of West Palm Beach, moving northwest at 12 miles an hour.

Hurricane winds extend over an area 120 miles in diameter around the center, with gales and heavy squalls extending outward 200 miles to the north and east and 120 miles to the west and south of the center.

"This is a severe hurricane," the advisory said, and all shipping to the north and northwest of the storm was advised to exercise extreme caution.

Jews Report Nine Slain By Arabs In 24 Hours

JERUSALEM, Sept. 12 (AP)—Eight Jewish civilians and a soldier were killed by gunfire and a number of others were injured during the past 24 hours, a Jewish source said tonight.

The victims included a father and his two children, this source said.

An official Israeli communique said: "Egyptian artillery today joined with Arab Legion in its indiscriminate shelling of some of Jerusalem's Jewish areas."

The communique said the Katamon, Kiriath Shmuel and Rehavia suburbs in the southwestern part of the Holy City "came under fire from Egyptian guns while Trans-Jordan forces shelled areas facing the western and southern walls of the old city.

"Our forces replied by shelling Arab gun emplacements," the communique said.

Evacuation Halted

Wallace Raps Truman For "Inconsistencies"

Progressive Party Nominee Addresses 5,500 At Baltimore

BALTIMORE, Md., Sept. 12 (AP)—Henry A. Wallace told a quiet crowd of 5,500 tonight that President Truman "managers to get on both sides of every question."

The progressive Party presidential candidate said Mr. Truman is "truly consistently inconsistent." The audience failed to fill the Fifth Regiment Armory and gave Wallace less than a minute's welcoming ovation.

About 50 silent persons were at the railroad station when Wallace arrived this morning.

At a reception later in a negro non-demoninational church, the approximately 250 persons failed to fill all the seats.

Refers To Indictment

Wallace and Paul Robeson, the singer, addressed the church audience. Wallace, referring to an indictment of 22 Young Progressives in Baltimore for an interracial tennis match, declared "the United States will not really be free until I can play doubles with these young people on any court."

As an example of what he called President Truman's inconsistencies, Wallace recalled a night two years ago at Madison Square Garden in New York City. That was when Wallace, then Secretary of Commerce, made a speech criticizing United States foreign policy—that cost him his job.

"Before delivering my speech," said Wallace, "I had gone to the White House. There I had sat down with President Truman and gone over the text—line by line. He had approved it.

"A week later, because of the speech which he had approved, he asked for my resignation from the Cabinet."

Loyalty Order Denounced

"He declared that he was happy to get rid of controls on meat prices, and then called for new controls, after saying that such controls were 'police state methods.'

"He called for anti-labor legislation at the time of the railroad strike, condemns the Taft-Hartley law, but uses it vigorously to undermine the trade union movement.

"He pays lip service to extending civil rights, but he has not abolished segregation in the armed forces, and he has invoked his notorious loyalty order to create fear among civil servants.

"He accuses Congress and his Republican opponent of launching up on an era of fear, yet it is his own hysterical messages to Congress which have produced the fear now rampant in the greatest, richest country in the world."

Wallace charged that Mr. Truman has "put Wall Street and the military in the saddle."

Big 4 Conference Will Open Today

PARIS, Sept. 12 (AP)—A Big Four conference on the fate of the Italian prewar colonies opens here tomorrow in an atmosphere of pessimism.

France is the only country sending a foreign minister.

Lewis Douglas, ambassador to Britain, will sit for the United States; Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky for Russia; Minister of State Hector McNeil for Britain, and Foreign Minister Robert Schuman for France.

The meeting will open at 3:30 p. m. (9:30 a. m. EST) in the Salon De Beauvais.

Conferees will have three days to decide the political future of Libya, Eritrea and Italian Somaliland. If no decision is reached by Wednesday on Italy's three prewar colonies the matter will go before the United Nations General Assembly opening here September 21.

Russia has taken the attitude that the conference will not be a top level review because Secretary of State George C. Marshall will not attend.

The United States said use of deputies is a procedure used at previous sessions. Marshall is expected to reach Paris about September 19, two days before the assembly opening.

Seven Army Fliers Die In New Orleans Crash

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 12 (INS)—Seven Army fliers were killed today when a twin-engined AT-11 Beechcraft plane exploded and crashed on the shore of Lake Pontchartrain, less than one mile from the New Orleans airport.

The plane was en route to New Orleans from Ellington Field, Tex.

According to Lt. Joseph Clesi, of the New Orleans Naval Air Station, the Army plane was overdue and was in an emergency condition at the time of the crash.

Fire Sweeps Batavia

BATAVIA, Java, Sept. 12 (AP) — Flames sweeping over downtown Batavia destroyed more than 200 houses and made 3,000 Indonesians homeless today. Police blamed carelessness with gasoline for the blaze.

Wallace Mentions Martin For Senate Or Md. Governor

BALTIMORE, Sept. 12 (AP)—James S. Martin, formerly with the military government in Germany, got mention tonight as a possible Progressive Party candidate for the United States Senate or Governor of Maryland in 1950—but at first it was news to him.

Martin, who was chief of decartelization for the AMG until last year, did not discourage the idea but said his own thinking had been about the United States Senate.

In the prepared text of tonight's speech by Henry A. Wallace, Progressive candidate for President, was this statement:

"When you vote for Jim Martin for Governor of Maryland, you will be voting for a man who has proven himself a real fighter against vested interests—a man who will attack the roots of bi-partisan politics in Maryland."

Asked about this, Martin said that "it is news to me."

Dopesters Await Results Of Maine Election Today

Texas Governorship Battle Will Resume

[By The Associated Press]

Maine votes today and political dopesters will eye intently the size of the expected Republican majority.

A senator—GOP leaders are confident it will be Mrs. Margaret Chase Smith—will be chosen, together with congressmen and state officers. The presidential election there will be in November as elsewhere.

Three House seats, all filled by Republicans, are at stake in the heavily GOP territory. Mrs. Smith, who has been a House member eight years, is opposed for the Senate by Dr. Adrian M. Scolten. They have borne down on the issues of the administration and the Congress.

The largest GOP majority ever recorded in Maine was 83,000.

Texas Battle To Resume

As Maine votes, Texans will be watching the second phase of the ding-dong battle between Lyndon Johnson and Coke Stevenson for the governorship. Johnson has gone to court.

Holding to an unofficial lead of 162 votes, Johnson gets a hearing in Jim Wells County in his effort to block the county Democratic committee from certifying new Jim Wells returns to the state committee. Stevenson charged fraud and an error of 200 votes in the first returns.

The state committee now has the original Jim Wells County returns.

The committee canvasses returns today and reports to the state Democratic convention in Fort Worth tomorrow. The convention names the nominee. Democratic nomination means election.

It is a busy week politically with seven weeks to go before November 2, national election day.

Truman, Dewey Ready Swings

On Tuesday, seven other states hold primaries from which will emerge candidates for five Senate, 53 House and seven governor posts.

Party opposition is faced by Sen'rs. Ball (R-Minn) and Johnson (D-Colo). Three other senators, Bridges (R-NH), Saltonstall (R-Mass), and Ferguson (R-Mich) are unopposed for nomination. Vermont and Washington hold primaries with governor races commanding attention.

The major party presidential candidates are readying their big swings westward. President Truman will leave Friday and Gov. Dewey next week on extended stump tours which will open in Iowa and carry to the West Coast.

Americans Use Armored Cars To Patrol City

Quiet Demonstration Staged By 120,000 In Russian Sector

BERLIN, Sept. 12 (AP)—American armored cars patroled Berlin's streets on riot duty today as 120,000 Germans massed in the Russian sector to listen to Communist harangues against the United States.

The Americans wheeled out more than 20 armored cars and a force of constabulary cavalry in anticipation of another march on the Allied control authority building in the United States sector of the blockaded city.

But no disorders were reported as the afternoon wore on and normal patrols finally were restored.

Communist-led throngs flooded into the Lustgarden (pleasure garden) Square at the end of Unter Den Linden. Officially, the rally was to commemorate those who died in Hitler's concentration camps. Practically, it was the Communist answer to a protest rally last Thursday against a Communist drive to overthrow Berlin's elected city government.

At the Soviet demonstration, Russian Lt. Gen. Gordejev led an attack on the United States. He told the crowd that American imperialism was plotting was against the "progressive nations headed by the Soviet Union."

Brandenbury Gate Quiet

All was quiet also at Brandenburg Gate, border of the Russian and scene of bloody street fighting Thursday when Russian soldiers and Soviet-controlled police fired upon anti-Communist demonstrators who stoned the Russians and the Communist police.

At the gate Russian and British military police stood guard with large forces of German police to prevent any clash with demonstrators returning from the Communist rally. The meeting was held a half mile inside the Soviet zone borders.

"Anybody who doesn't march is a Nazi," the Russians proclaimed in drumming up enthusiasm for the mass meeting.

Their turnout still was estimated at only about half of the more than 200,000 Berliners who joined in the anti-Communist demonstration in the British sector last week.

The Soviet-licensed German news agency ADN, however, said the crowd was estimated at 550,000.

The meeting generally was listless. Home-going demonstrators were turned off by police to side streets to prevent them from marching through the Brandenburg Gate into the British sector.

Hundreds Of Children Attend

Most marchers came in long, shuffling but orderly columns under red banners. Hundreds of children were among them, some walking barefooted on the sun-baked pavement.

Gordejev's speech was the longest of four at the rally. It was punctuated by periodic applause and occasional calls of "Pfui" when he mentioned "American imperialists" and Wall Street.

During his attacks on the United States, his words frequently were drowned out by the roar of American airlift planes carrying food and

Rita Johnson Regains Consciousness Briefly

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 12—(AP)—Film Actress Rita Johnson regained consciousness briefly today but was still in a critical condition and she did not say anything about the circumstances of a head injury she received last Monday night in her apartment.

Miss Johnson, who has been in a coma almost all of the time since last Monday, asked for a drink of water and then lapsed into unconsciousness again without saying more, her nurse at St. Vincent's Hospital reported.

Det. Lt. M. A. Stephenson, acting captain of Hollywood detectives, said he has become convinced that the 35-year-old actress was injured accidentally Monday night by the fall of a hair drier, the hood of which weighs 35 to 40 pounds.

Ex-U. S. Bomber Pilot Bids For U.N. World Citizenship

PARIS, Sept. 12 (AP)—Garry Davis parked himself at a United Nations building here today in a bid to become the first United Nations "citizen of the world."

The former United States bomber pilot, 26, renounced his American citizenship May 25. The French government ordered him to quit its territory by midnight Saturday. He sat and talked to newsmen today on the wooden steps leading to the temporary administration building being completed for the United Nations meeting here September 21.

"The United Nations," he said, "is in the half-world between a collection of soverign nations and a real international authority. I want it to take a stand, so that others can have a chance to acquire international citizenship and open the way for a federated world."

Davis is the son of an American orchestra leader, Meyer Davis.

France has ceded the Palais De Cahillot as international territory for the United Nations meeting. Technically, it is not a part of France.

A woman in the protocol section said:

"As long as he just sits on the steps, I suppose it's all right."

Davis had no pass, but he wandered about the administration building, apparently at will.

Davis carried a knacpsack, portfolio and a portable typewriter.

"I'll live here," he said.

A high representative of the United Nations secretariat in Paris later said Davis may not come inside, but will not be chased from the front steps.

This brought up the problem of food. Davis said the only thing he has had to eat since Saturday night was a sandwich given him by a French workman, who took pity on him.

New Obstacle May Delay "Cinderella's" Wedding

STEPHANIE SAJA

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Sept. 12 (INS)—A new obstacle arose today in the path of the coal miner's daughter and the millionaire's son who had planned to be married around the middle of this week.

Stephanie Saja, Windber, Pa., daughter of a poor coal miner, and Francis Hitchcock, scion of a wealthy New York family, remained in seclusion at "White Castle," the seaside home of Col. R.T.G. Wall.

Mrs. Wall discussed wedding plans with newsmen. She said Hitchcock's divorce from his second wife was final but not signed by the judge.

Under Florida laws a marriage license cannot be issued unless the divorce decree is signed so a delay in wedding plans seems probable. Mrs. Wall said they are expecting the judge to sign the papers momentarily.

Another delaying factor is that Florida law requires a three day

BERLIN REDS BLAST U. S. AT RALLY

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12 (AP) — The Western Powers' next move in the Berlin crisis seemingly ran into delay today while the United States sought to block out a course of action with Britain and France.

The crowds gathered early in front of Government House, where Jinnah's body lay in state before the military funeral which Pakistan decreed for its beloved leader.

There were scenes reminiscent of the emotion that was displayed at the death almost seven months ago of another great Indian leader — Mohandas K. Gandhi.

Women started to scream. Men in the assemblage could not control their tears.

Streams of volunteers poured into the streets carrying black flags in mourning for the man whose singleness of purpose resulted in the formation of two dominions in India 13 months ago.

40-Day Mourning Period

The paraders asked the people to bear the burden of Jinnah's death "with patience and be ready to face the emergency boldly."

Death deprived the 70,000,000 people of Pakistan of their leader at a time when their government is in dispute with the Hindu-led Dominion of India over two states, Kashmir and Hyderabad.

A 40-day period of mourning was decreed by the government. The Pakistan flag was lowered to half staff over all buildings.

Premier Liaquat Ali Khan (who is a possible successor to Jinnah) pledged in a broadcast that the Cabinet will "carry on with unfaltering determination the great task to which Qaideazam (great leader) Jinnah, father of the nation, devoted himself after the achievement of Pakistan."

"Leak" May Have Put Reds Closer To Atomic Bomb

Suspicions Are Well Founded, Prober Says

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12 (AP)—A congressional spy prober said today there are "well-founded suspicions" that Russians got enough atom bomb secrets to push their own atomic research substantially ahead of schedule.

Rep. Vail (R-Ill.) said the suspicions arise from testimony the House Un-American Activities Committee has been taking secretly.

But he said there is no way of measuring whether filched atomic information means the Soviets are closer to the atomic bomb by one year, two years or any other specific amount of time.

A reporter asked whether there is reason to believe the Russians are substantially further along in their research as a result of spying. Vail replied:

"Well-Founded Suspicions"

"It's difficult to make a statement to that effect, but there are well-founded suspicions for that belief."

Vail has quoted a high Army officer associated with atomic bomb development — obviously Lt. Gen. Leslie R. Groves—as testifying to the committee:

"He has certain that in some degree Russian efforts to penetrate atomic research safeguards were successful. To what degree he could not venture an opinion."

That was in a statement Vail got out yesterday. It did not mention Groves by name. Groves, the wartime head of the project that perfected the a-bomb, testified to the committee behind closed doors Friday. He has retired from the Army.

Secret Sessions To Resume

Groves is reported to have told the spy investigators that the Russians got wind of atomic bomb research a month after it began and immediately put their espionage agents to work on it.

The committee used Groves' testimony to fire another blast at President Truman, who has said over and over the spy hearings are a "red herring" to distract attention from congressional failure to fight the high cost of living.

The committee has more witnesses lined up for secret questioning tomorrow and Tuesday. It had set Wednesday for resumption of public hearings.

But Vail said there is some doubt it can make that deadline. He said the committee has to run down "certain additional leads that have come to us through the hearings."

Poison Gas Charge

LONDON, Sept. 13 (AP)—The Free Greece radio charged in a broadcast today that the Greek army is making plans for poison gas attacks on Greek rebels in the northern mountains.

"QUEEN" RELAXES— Miss America of 1948, Beatrice Shopp, 18-year-old brunette from Hopkins, Minn., relaxes on the beach at Atlantic City on the first day of her year-long reign. She won the beauty title Saturday night after a week of competition with 54 other girls. Miss America, who "loves to clean fish," won $16,000 in prizes.

Grass Roots Girl Begins Her Reign As Miss America

Plums Worth $16,000 Go To Miss Minnesota

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept 12 (AP)—A baby-faced, grass roots girl, who "loves to clean fish," began today a year-long career as Miss America.

Beatrice (Bebe) Shopp, Hopkins, Minn., an 18-year-old brunette, took the beauty title last night after a week of competition with 54 other girls.

When she awoke this morning after three hours sleep she found herself $16,000 richer than when she left her four-acre homesite.

These are the plums that fell at her feet: A $5,000 scholarship; a $3,000 automobile and $8,000 in contracts for personal appearances to glamorize a number of commercial products.

Plays Vibraharp, Drums, Piano

The five-foot, nine-inch Miss said in an interview she had made up her mind on these points:

She will turn down Hollywood and Broadway contracts unless they call for stage appearances in which she can play a vibraharp. That was the instrument she used to demonstrate her talent during the Miss America Pageant.

She wants to pursue an education in music with emphasis on percussion instruments.

She will not consider matrimony until "I am 24 or 25 years old."

Miss Shopp talked of home along these lines:

She tends about 100 chickens, drives a tractor to plow part of the four acres about the house, helps her mother in the kitchen, practices on her vibraharp, drums and the piano.

"I kill and clean a chicken whenever we have one for dinner," she said. "I love to clean fish whenever daddy brings them home."

Neither Drinks Nor Smokes

Miss Shopp neither drinks nor smokes.

"I don't like men who drink too much," she said. "If they are very moderate about it, that's all right. I don't mind if they smoke."

Miss Shopp said she prepared for the Miss America Pageant a year ago when she entered a Minnesota beauty contest for the experience.

"I was 17 and under age for the Miss America Pageant," she said. Elaine Campbell, Minneapolis, last year's Miss Minnesota, helped me.

Atlantic Storm Picks Up Speed

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 12 (AP)—The Atlantic hurricane picked up speed tonight and at 9:15 p. m. (EST) was whirling toward the north northwest at 18 to 20 miles an hour.

With winds of 140 miles per hour near the center, the hurricane was located about 240 miles south of Bermuda and about 980 miles east of Titusville, Fla., in latitude 28.8 north longitude 64.7 west.

Picking up forward movement from an earlier 12 miles an hour, the hurricane began a slow recurve in a more northerly direction.

The storm was expected to pass 100 miles to the west of Bermuda tomorrow morning.

A 6:15 p. m. advisory placed the storm 375 miles south of Bermuda and 960 miles east of West Palm Beach, moving northwest at 12 miles an hour.

Hurricane winds extend over an area 120 miles in diameter around the center, with gales and heavy squalls extending outward 200 miles to the north and east and 120 miles to the west and south of the center.

"This is a severe hurricane," the advisory said, and all shipping to the north and northwest of the storm was advised to exercise extreme caution.

Jews Report Nine Slain By Arabs In 24 Hours

JERUSALEM, Sept. 12 (AP)—Eight Jewish civilians and a soldier were killed by gunfire and a number of others were injured during the past 24 hours, a Jewish source said tonight.

The victims included a father and his two children, this source said.

An official Israeli communique said: "Egyptian artillery today joined with Arab Legion in its indiscriminate shelling of some of Jerusalem's Jewish areas."

The communique said the Katamon, Kiriath Shmuel and Rehavia suburbs in the southwestern part of the Holy City "came under fire from Egyptian guns while Trans-Jordan forces shelled areas facing the western and southern walls of the old city.

"Our forces replied by shelling Arab gun emplacements," the communique said.

Evacuation Halted

Blonde Chosen Mrs. America Over 26 Rivals

ASHBURY PARK, N. J., Sept. 12 (AP)—Mrs. Maria Strohmeier—Mrs. Philadelphia—was named Mrs. America today on the basis of beauty and homemaking abilities.

The 21-year-old green-eyed blonde was chosen over 26 other rivals. The winner was named by two sets of judges — one qualified on beauty and the other on macaroni recipes.

Mrs. Strohmeier, Philadelpria, is the wife of Raymond Strohmeier. They have no children.

She is five feet, six inches tall, weighs 124 pounds, has a 36-inch bust, 25-inch waist, and 36-inch hips.

Apartment House Blast Kills Three

NEW YORK, Sept. 12—(AP)—Three persons were killed and 10 injured early today in a terrific gas explosion that wrecked the fourth and fifth floors of a 17-story Upper Manhattan apartment house.

Some of the injured were children cut by flying glass blown from shattered windows of the 110-family building at 200 West 108th Street. No one was injured seriously.

Police said the disaster apparently was caused by the determination of one of the victims—Eugene Hurley ,35—to commit suicide by gas. Hurley, unemployed, had threatened suicide, police said, and four gas jets were found turned on in his wrecked apartment.

The other victims, identified by police as Arthur Yamner, 28, and his wife, Rosetta, 26, lived in a one-room apartment above Hurley's. They were blown from their beds by the force of the explosion, police said, one body striking the ceiling.

43 Executed As Spies

LONDON, Sept. 12 (AP) — The Yugoslav news agency Tanjug said tonight 43 persons convicted recently at Zagreb of entering Yugoslavia as spies for a foreign power had been executed.

The foreign power was not named.

Wallace Raps Truman For "Inconsistencies"

Progressive Party Nominee Addresses 5,500 At Baltimore

BALTIMORE, Md., Sept. 12 (AP)—Henry A. Wallace told a quiet crowd of 5,500 tonight that President Truman "managers to get on both sides of every question."

The progressive Party presidential candidate said Mr. Truman is "truly consistently inconsistent." The audience failed to fill the Fifth Regiment Armory and gave Wallace less than a minute's welcoming ovation.

About 50 silent persons were at the railroad station when Wallace arrived this morning.

At a reception later in a negro non-demoninational church, the approximately 250 persons failed to fill all the seats.

Refers To Indictment

Wallace and Paul Robeson, the singer, addressed the church audience. Wallace, referring to an indictment of 22 Young Progressives in Baltimore for an interracial tennis match, declared "the United States will not really be free until I can play doubles with these young people on any court."

As an example of what he called President Truman's inconsistencies, Wallace recalled a night two years ago at Madison Square Garden in New York City. That was when Wallace, then Secretary of Commerce, made a speech criticizing United States foreign policy—that cost him his job.

"Before delivering my speech," said Wallace, "I had gone to the White House. There I had sat down with President Truman and gone over the text—line by line. He had approved it.

"A week later, because of the speech which he had approved, he asked for my resignation from the Cabinet."

Loyalty Order Denounced

"He declared that he was happy to get rid of controls on meat prices, and then called for new controls, after saying that such controls were 'police state methods.'

"He called for anti-labor legislation at the time of the railroad strike, condemns the Taft-Hartley law, but uses it vigorously to undermine the trade union movement.

"He pays lip service to extending civil rights, but he has not abolished segregation in the armed forces, and he has invoked his notorious loyalty order to create fear among civil servants.

"He accuses Congress and his Republican opponent of launching up on an era of fear, yet it is his own hysterical messages to Congress which have produced the fear now rampant in the greatest, richest country in the world."

Wallace charged that Mr. Truman has "put Wall Street and the military in the saddle."

Big 4 Conference Will Open Today

PARIS, Sept. 12 (AP)—A Big Four conference on the fate of the Italian prewar colonies opens here tomorrow in an atmosphere of pessimism.

France is the only country sending a foreign minister.

Lewis Douglas, ambassador to Britain, will sit for the United States; Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky for Russia; Minister of State Hector McNeil for Britain, and Foreign Minister Robert Schuman for France.

The meeting will open at 3:30 p. m. (9:30 a. m. EST) in the Salon De Beauvais.

Conferees will have three days to decide the political future of Libya, Eritrea and Italian Somaliland. If no decision is reached by Wednesday on Italy's three prewar colonies the matter will go before the United Nations General Assembly opening here September 21.

Russia has taken the attitude that the conference will not be a top level review because Secretary of State George C. Marshall will not attend.

The United States said use of deputies is a procedure used at previous sessions. Marshall is expected to reach Paris about September 19, two days before the assembly opening.

Seven Army Fliers Die In New Orleans Crash

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 12 (INS)—Seven Army fliers were killed today when a twin-engined AT-11 Beechcraft plane exploded and crashed on the shore of Lake Pontchartrain, less than one mile from the New Orleans airport.

The plane was en route to New Orleans from Ellington Field, Tex.

According to Lt. Joseph Clesi, of the New Orleans Naval Air Station, the Army plane was overdue and was in an emergency condition at the time of the crash.

Fire Sweeps Batavia

BATAVIA, Java, Sept. 12 (AP) — Flames sweeping over downtown Batavia destroyed more than 200 houses and made 3,000 Indonesians homeless today. Police blamed carelessness with gasoline for the blaze.

Americans Use Armored Cars To Patrol City

Quiet Demonstration Staged By 120,000 In Russian Sector

BERLIN, Sept. 12 (AP)—American armored cars patroled Berlin's streets on riot duty today as 120,000 Germans massed in the Russian sector to listen to Communist harangues against the United States.

The Americans wheeled out more than 20 armored cars and a force of constabulary cavalry in anticipation of another march on the Allied control authority building in the United States sector of the blockaded city.

But no disorders were reported as the afternoon wore on and normal patrols finally were restored.

Communist-led throngs flooded into the Lustgarden (pleasure garden) Square at the end of Unter Den Linden. Officially, the rally was to commemorate those who died in Hitler's concentration camps. Practically, it was the Communist answer to a protest rally last Thursday against a Communist drive to overthrow Berlin's elected city government.

At the Soviet demonstration, Russian Lt. Gen. Gordejev led an attack on the United States. He told the crowd that American imperialism was plotting was against the "progressive nations headed by the Soviet Union."

Brandenbury Gate Quiet

All was quiet also at Brandenburg Gate, border of the Russian and scene of bloody street fighting Thursday when Russian soldiers and Soviet-controlled police fired upon anti-Communist demonstrators who stoned the Russians and the Communist police.

At the gate Russian and British military police stood guard with large forces of German police to prevent any clash with demonstrators returning from the Communist rally. The meeting was held a half mile inside the Soviet zone borders.

"Anybody who doesn't march is a Nazi," the Russians proclaimed in drumming up enthusiasm for the mass meeting.

Their turnout still was estimated at only about half of the more than 200,000 Berliners who joined in the anti-Communist demonstration in the British sector last week.

The Soviet-licensed German news agency ADN, however, said the crowd was estimated at 550,000.

The meeting generally was listless. Home-going demonstrators were turned off by police to side streets to prevent them from marching through the Brandenburg Gate into the British sector.

Hundreds Of Children Attend

Most marchers came in long, shuffling but orderly columns under red banners. Hundreds of children were among them, some walking barefooted on the sun-baked pavement.

Gordejev's speech was the longest of four at the rally. It was punctuated by periodic applause and occasional calls of "Pfui" when he mentioned "American imperialists" and Wall Street.

During his attacks on the United States, his words frequently were drowned out by the roar of American airlift planes carrying food and

Dopesters Await Results Of Maine Election Today

Texas Governorship Battle Will Resume

[By The Associated Press]

Maine votes today and political dopesters will eye intently the size of the expected Republican majority.

A senator—GOP leaders are confident it will be Mrs. Margaret Chase Smith—will be chosen, together with congressmen and state officers. The presidential election there will be in November as elsewhere.

Three House seats, all filled by Republicans, are at stake in the heavily GOP territory. Mrs. Smith, who has been a House member eight years, is opposed for the Senate by Dr. Adrian M. Scolten. They have borne down on the issues of the administration and the Congress.

The largest GOP majority ever recorded in Maine was 83,000.

Texas Battle To Resume

As Maine votes, Texans will be watching the second phase of the ding-dong battle between Lyndon Johnson and Coke Stevenson for the governorship. Johnson has gone to court.

Holding to an unofficial lead of 162 votes, Johnson gets a hearing in Jim Wells County in his effort to block the county Democratic committee from certifying new Jim Wells returns to the state committee. Stevenson charged fraud and an error of 200 votes in the first returns.

The state committee now has the original Jim Wells County returns.

The committee canvasses returns today and reports to the state Democratic convention in Fort Worth tomorrow. The convention names the nominee. Democratic nomination means election.

Truman, Dewey Ready Swings

On Tuesday, seven other states hold primaries from which will emerge candidates for five Senate, 53 House and seven governor posts.

Party opposition is faced by Sen'rs. Ball (R-Minn) and Johnson (D-Colo). Three other senators, Bridges (R-NH), Saltonstall (R-Mass), and Ferguson (R-Mich) are unopposed for nomination. Vermont and Washington hold primaries with governor races commanding attention.

The major party presidential candidates are readying their big swings westward. President Truman will leave Friday and Gov. Dewey next week on extended stump tours which will open in Iowa and carry to the West Coast.

Wallace Mentions Martin For Senate Or Md. Governor

BALTIMORE, Sept. 12 (AP)—James S. Martin, formerly with the military government in Germany, got mention tonight as a possible Progressive Party candidate for the United States Senate or Governor of Maryland in 1950—but at first it was news to him.

Martin, who was chief of decartelization for the AMG until last year, did not discourage the idea but said his own thinking had been about the United States Senate.

In the prepared text of tonight's speech by Henry A. Wallace, Progressive candidate for President, was this statement:

"When you vote for Jim Martin for Governor of Maryland, you will be voting for a man who has proven himself a real fighter against vested interests—a man who will attack the roots of bi-partisan politics in Maryland."

Asked about this, Martin said that "it is news to me."

Rita Johnson Regains Consciousness Briefly

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 12—(AP)—Film Actress Rita Johnson regained consciousness briefly today but was still in a critical condition and she did not say anything about the circumstances of a head injury she received last Monday night in her apartment.

Miss Johnson, who has been in a coma almost all of the time since last Monday, asked for a drink of water and then lapsed into unconsciousness again without saying more, her nurse at St. Vincent's Hospital reported.

Det. Lt. M. A. Stephenson, acting captain of Hollywood detectives, said he has become convinced that the 35-year-old actress was injured accidentally Monday night by the fall of a hair drier, the hood of which weighs 35 to 40 pounds.

Ex-U. S. Bomber Pilot Bids For U.N. World Citizenship

PARIS, Sept. 12 (AP)—Garry Davis parked himself at a United Nations building here today in a bid to become the first United Nations "citizen of the world."

The former United States bomber pilot, 26, renounced his American citizenship May 25. The French government ordered him to quit its territory by midnight Saturday. He sat and talked to newsmen today on the wooden steps leading to the temporary administration building being completed for the United Nations meeting here September 21.

"The United Nations," he said, "is in the half-world between a collection of soverign nations and a real international authority. I want it to take a stand, so that others can have a chance to acquire international citizenship and open the way for a federated world."

Davis is the son of an American orchestra leader, Meyer Davis.

France has ceded the Palais De Cahillot as international territory for the United Nations meeting. Technically, it is not a part of France.

A woman in the protocol section said:

"As long as he just sits on the steps, I suppose it's all right."

Davis had no pass, but he wandered about the administration building, apparently at will.

Davis carried a knacpsack, portfolio and a portable typewriter.

"I'll live here," he said.

A high representative of the United Nations secretariat in Paris later said Davis may not come inside, but will not be chased from the front steps.

This brought up the problem of food. Davis said the only thing he has had to eat since Saturday night was a sandwich given him by a French workman, who took pity on him.

New Obstacle May Delay "Cinderella's" Wedding

STEPHANIE SAJA

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Sept. 12 (INS)—A new obstacle arose today in the path of the coal miner's daughter and the millionaire's son who had planned to be married around the middle of this week.

Stephanie Saja, Windber, Pa., daughter of a poor coal miner, and Francis Hitchcock, scion of a wealthy New York family, remained in seclusion at "White Castle," the seaside home of Col. R.T.G. Wall.

Mrs. Wall discussed wedding plans with newsmen. She said Hitchcock's divorce from his second wife was final but not signed by the judge.

Under Florida laws a marriage license cannot be issued unless the divorce decree is signed so a delay in wedding plans seems probable. Mrs. Wall said they are expecting the judge to sign the papers momentarily.

Another delaying factor is that Florida law requires a three day

Pope Appeals To Men Of Science

VATICAN CITY, Sept. 12—(AP)—Pope Pius XII appealed to men of science today to turn their weapons of "brute force" into instruments for good.

The Pontiff, talking to about 600,000 persons massed in St. Peter's Square, called for a Christian victory over Atheism, materialism and social misery.

The universe, he said, has been changed by such scientific developments as the release of atomic energy, while only "Christ's church remains unchanged."

The leaders of this "century of technology need the guidance of religion," the Pope said.

Delivering his fifth public address in the last 12 days, the frail, 72-year-old Pontiff spoke in clear, ringing tones. Among his audience were more than 250,000 young men of the church's politically militant Catholic Action Youth, here to celebrate the 80th anniversary of its founding.

He spoke of the danger of "formidable upheavals, possibly more grave in consequence than the fall of ancient Rome."

To escape such disaster, he called for a three-fold victory—victories over the "negation of God," over the uncontrolled forces of science and matter and over "social misery."

He appealed for a front against "national hatred and class hatred" and for leadership by God-fearing men.

"Today's ultra-powerful technology becomes in the hands of violent men, of parties dominating through brutality of force, of overpowerful and oppressing states, a terrible instrument of injustice, enslavement, cruelty and increases in modern war to the limit of intolerance the people's pains and sorrows," the Pope said.

Women To Prepare For Freedom Train

Mayor Thomas S. Post has asked the women of the community to participate in the Rededication Week Program which will precede the arrival here of the Freedom Train on Wednesday, September 22.

Friday, September 17, "Constitution day," has been designated as the day on which the women of the city will unite in a program emphasizing the great heritage of freedom for which America stands. Miss Mary G. Walsh has been named chairman of the women's committee.

Fifty-three women's organizations will participate in a mass meeting to be held at 8 p .m., Friday in the Recreation Hall of the Centre Street Methodist Church. This meeting is free and open to the public.

A program featuring the massing of the colors, musical selections, group singing and several short pageants will be presented.

Naylor To Study In Switzerland

OAKLAND—Lewis Naylor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Naylor, will leave for Zurich, Switzerland, September 23 aboard the Queen Elizabeth to enroll in the university there for the next 10 months. He will major in German.

Mr. Naylor is one of 30 University of Maryland students who are studying abroad this year. Two years ago he completed two semesters at Mexico City College, Mexico, where he studied Spanish.

Bible Study Series Starts At Gilpin

FLINTSTONE—A series of Bible studies relating to "The Times and Their Relation to the Church and Her Future in the Coming Days" was begun Thursday night at Gilpin Assembly of God Church.

Rev. Henry Barton, pastor, will conduct the series each Thursday night at 7:45.

BOND EXHIBIT—A priceless exhibit, showing the part that United States Government bonds have played in the history of the nation, is viewed by Secretary of the Treasury John W. Snyder and Mrs. Snyder during the Freedom Train's stay in Washington, D. C. They are among the many historical documents that Cumberlanders may see when the train visits Cumberland September 22.

MIRROR Of Your MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Would you let an expert choose your occupation for you?

Answer: No, says Dr. Donald H. Moyer, adviser to students at Cornell University. The wise vocational counselor will help you see the meaning and importance of a right decision, estimate your qualifications, and explain the demands of various occupations and professions, but will insist that you make your own choice. For you cannot do your best at anything unless you do it on your own initiative. Dr. Moyer also feels that less weight should be given to "aptitude tests" alone, and more emphasis placed on general education.

Do effeminate men like women?

Answer: They are more apt to dislike and fear them. According to Dr. Leon J. Saul in the Psychoanalytic Quarterly, many of us see our neighbors chiefly as personifications of the qualities we like or dislike in ourselves, and take out on them our disapproval of the traits we are ashamed of. So a man who is uneasily aware that the feminine side of his own character is over-developed and that he is not the "real man" that he feels he should be may project his self-distaste onto the female sex and become the bitterest of woman-haters.

Is it childish to fear the dark?

Answer: The fear usually can be traced back to childish experiences, the effect of which the sufferer has not wholly outgrown. In a person who was told the bogeyman would get him if he was naughty, it may express an unconscious sense of guilt or a fear of temptation. To someone who was afraid that his mother might desert him—possibly because she went away and left him when another baby was born—it may imply being alone and abandoned. For of course it was when mother was about to leave you that she turned out the light.

French Ministers To Stay In Paris

PARIS, Sept. 12 (AP)—France's new Cabinet ministers were forbidden today to leave Paris for the next two months because of the seriousness of the nation's worsening economic crisis.

This was disclosed in a communique issued following today's urgent meeting of the new coalition cabinet of Premier Henri Queuille. Three more meetings to deal with economic difficulties have been scheduled for Tuesday and Wednesday.

Queuille's action in ordering his ministers to remain in the capital was taken because of their "duties and governmental obligations," the communique said.

The new Premier also ordered his key economic ministers to attend a special meeting tomorrow to draft measures for dealing with the country's growing inflation and stabilizing wages and prices.

The three full Cabinet meetings scheduled this week will complete the drafting of these bills and approve them before they are sent to the National Assembly for enactment.

Meanwhile, the government's number one critic, Gen. Charles De Gaulle, began criticizing affairs of the new Cabinet less than 24 hours after Queuille had announced his appointments to the various ministries. The Radical Socialist (conservative) leader was named last week to head the fourth Cabinet to govern France in the past seven weeks.

Central High School Enrolls 679 Pupils

LONACONING—The enrollment for the opening week of Central High school is 679, according to a report calculated Friday.

There are a total of 201 in Elementary school; 276 in Junior High school; and 202 in Senior High school.

There are 350 boys and 329 girls registered for the school term.

Railroad Board To Pass Through City

The board of directors of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad will pass through Cumberland this week on their annual inspection trip.

They will visit the new coal and ore docks at Toledo and yard improvements at Willard, O., on Friday.

At Toledo, the directors and about 150 local business and civic leaders will be luncheon guests of J. D. Biggers, president of the Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass Company and member of the B. & O. board.

The railroad's new $18,500,000 coal and ore docks, opened earlier in the year, are designed to facilitate the trans-loading of coal and ore between railroad hopper cars and lake vessels.

The yard improvement at Willard is a $3,500,000 project.

Party Celebrates 75th Birthday

MIDLAND—Members of the family of James H. Albright celebrated his 75th birthday with a party at his home. A decorated birthday cake centered the refreshment table.

MIDLAND—The members of the board of Grace Methodist Church here, plan to attend the group board meeting to be held in Centre Street Methodist Church, Cumberland, Thursday night at 8 o'clock.

Body Of Missing 13-Year-Old Girl Baby Sitter Found In Rude Grave

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 12 (AP)—The body of a missing 13-year-old girl baby sitter was found late yesterday in a shallow grave near St. Paul. Police said the child had been strangled to death.

The victum, Juanita Wendel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Wendel, St. Paul, had been missing since August 9 when she left home to answer a call for a baby sitter.

She is the second St. Paul teenage girl to meet a violent death in a month. Seventeen-year-old Geraldine Mingo, St. Paul maid and baby sitter, was found slain the day that the Wendel girl disappeared.

Police said the Wendel girl's body was found by a party of picnickers in a wooded area near Lakeville, Minn., about 15 miles south of St. Paul.

Coroner Joseph Klecatsky, of Dakota County, said the child had died of strangulation. He said a heavy piece of wrapping cord was found around her neck.

The coroner said identification was made by the father by a purse and by her clothing. The purse contained a note written by Mrs. Wendel giving directions for meeting the man who had telephoned for a baby sitter.

Police said the man identified himself as "Mr. Carson" and told Mrs. Wendel her daughter had been recommended as a baby sitter by a friend. He told Mrs. Wendel he would meet her daughter at a street car stop in St. Paul.

That was the last time the girl was seen alive.

Local Man Appears On Quiz Program

A local man Saturday night lost a chance to win $14,000 in merchandise when he failed to identify the "mystery voice" on the "Sing It Again" quiz show.

He was Robert Nicholls, 778 MacDonald Terrace, a chemist at the Celanese plant. He said he was notified in the afternoon that he would be called on the program.

However, he had not been listening to the program regularly and could not identify the voice. He did win a hope chest for his efforts.

Purse Stolen From Local Store Saturday

City Police are investigating the theft of a purse containing a wallet and $35 Saturday from the Julian Goldman Store here.

Miss Jean Taite, Buffalo Mills, Pa., a clerk at the store, said she placed the purse on a desk in the rear of the store. Detectives Thomas J. See and Ernest M. Powell said a rear door of the establishment was open at the time.

Three Building Permits Granted

Permits for $4,450 worth of building were issued at the office of City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer.

C. E. Roeder, 808 Trost Avenue, was granted a permit to build a two-story five-room stone and concrete block house with an asphalt shingle roof at Lot No. 27 on Trost Avenue.

The structure will be 26 feet wide and 29 feet long. Work will be done by the owner at an estimated cost of $4,000.

Charles W. Shaffer, 156 Polk Street, received a permit to build a one-room concrete block addition to his home. The structure will be a one-story building 11 feet wide and 12 feet long and will have a composition roof. Work will be done by Thomas Hudson at an estimated cost of $350.

Leo T. Powers was issued a permit to build a one-story frame garage 10 feet wide and 20 feet long at the rear of his home, 310 Vine Place. The building will be covered with inselbric and work will be done by the owner at an estimated cost of $100.

Woman Subdues Large Buck Deer

JARRETTOWN, Pa., Sept. 12—(AP)—A 22-year-old woman charged by a buck deer on a lonely road subdued the animal by grasping its antlers and hanging on for nearly half an hour until her screams were heard.

Theresa Rowe, switchboard operator at the Huntingdon Valley (Pa.) Country Club, stood alone yesterday at a bus stop when she saw a large deer approaching through a thick ground most. The animal lowered its head and charged Miss Rowe across the road and into a ditch.

After a buffeting which left her covered with cuts and bruises, the 105-pound daughter of a golf instructor finally subdued the animal by grasping its antlers and hanging on for dear life.

Joseph Weller, a farmhand, heard Miss Rowe's frantic screams and with his employed, Russel Megargee, ran to her side. The deer bounded away.

AMERICAN FAMILY CLOSE-UP
As they go; so goes the nation!

Postwar problems haven't licked the Lanks!

The Lank family of Harrisburg, Pa.: Navy veteran Dick, 28; his wife, Ruth, 27; and baby Deborah.

Back home from service in the Navy, Dick Lank faced a problem. Like so many other veterans with no business or professional training, he had to find a job that would be fun to learn . . . with a good future. He talked it over with his two brothers and his father.

Each put up $1500 of their savings and founded the electrical appliance firm of O. B. Lank & Sons. But even with a promising job, Dick and Ruth still have the problem of getting ahead in spite of high prices on a salary of $65 a week.

Dick met Ruth in this church in 1939! Five years later they were married in this same church by Ruth's father, a minister.

The Lanks love music! A major source of entertainment, their modest record collection costs little. They have fun, too, in church and community work.

Anything electrical interests Dick. Home repair work earns him $15—$20 extra a month.

Ruth saves food money by careful buying, clever cooking. They also save by having Sunday dinners at their family's. Dick's business lunches, too, help keep home food costs to about $55 a month. Rent is $65, clothing costs $16, recreation $10 a month.

Yes, the Lanks are getting ahead . . . making their way toward their goals despite the difficulties and problems everyone has been facing since the war. With their life insurance agents, the Lanks have worked out a program which now includes $15,660 of life insurance protection. They go over this program with an agent every two years to decide whether family circumstances call for any changes to keep it up to date, make it more useful.

They're saving money, too, for the home they plan to build some day . . . already have $1800 in the bank. By working hard, managing their money wisely, enjoying inexpensive things, Dick and Ruth have found one way to happiness.

For travel—a new car some day! Ruth would like to own a children's shop. Dick wants to set up a retirement plan. "They're all on our dream list!"

THE LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES AND THEIR AGENTS

BRING YOU THIS STORY BECAUSE... families like the Lanks show us one way that happiness is earned! You, yourself, probably know a family, right in your own town, that is getting ahead in the same typically American way. Such families prove to all of us that we can solve our own problems by our own efforts.... Their example shows too why it is so important for us to hold to our rights to think for ourselves, to work at what we like, to live as we choose. Pope Appeals To Men Of Science

VATICAN CITY, Sept. 12—(AP)—Pope Pius XII appealed to men of science today to turn their weapons of "brute force" into instruments for good.

The Pontiff, talking to about 600,000 persons massed in St. Peter's Square, called for a Christian victory over Atheism, materialism and social misery.

The universe, he said, has been changed by such scientific developments as the release of atomic energy, while only "Christ's church remains unchanged."

The leaders of this "century of technology need the guidance of religion," the Pope said.

Delivering his fifth public address in the last 12 days, the frail, 72-year-old Pontiff spoke in clear, ringing tones. Among his audience were more than 250,000 young men of the church's politically militant Catholic Action Youth, here to celebrate the 80th anniversary of its founding.

He spoke of the danger of "formidable upheavals, possibly more grave in consequence than the fall of ancient Rome."

To escape such disaster, he called for a three-fold victory—victories over the "negation of God," over the uncontrolled forces of science and matter and over "social misery."

He appealed for a front against "national hatred and class hatred" and for leadership by God-fearing men.

"Today's ultra-powerful technology becomes in the hands of violent men, of parties dominating through brutality of force, of overpowerful and oppressing states, a terrible instrument of injustice, enslavement, cruelty and increases in modern war to the limit of intolerance the people's pains and sorrows," the Pope said.

Women To Prepare For Freedom Train

Mayor Thomas S. Post has asked the women of the community to participate in the Rededication Week Program which will precede the arrival here of the Freedom Train on Wednesday, September 22.

Friday, September 17, "Constitution day," has been designated as the day on which the women of the city will unite in a program emphasizing the great heritage of freedom for which America stands. Miss Mary G. Walsh has been named chairman of the women's committee.

Fifty-three women's organizations will participate in a mass meeting to be held at 8 p .m., Friday in the Recreation Hall of the Centre Street Methodist Church. This meeting is free and open to the public.

A program featuring the massing of the colors, musical selections, group singing and several short pageants will be presented.

Mr. Naylor is one of 30 University of Maryland students who are studying abroad this year. Two years ago he completed two semesters at Mexico City College, Mexico, where he studied Spanish.

Bible Study Series Starts At Gilpin

FLINTSTONE—A series of Bible studies relating to "The Times and Their Relation to the Church and Her Future in the Coming Days" was begun Thursday night at Gilpin Assembly of God Church.

Rev. Henry Barton, pastor, will conduct the series each Thursday night at 7:45.

BOND EXHIBIT—A priceless exhibit, showing the part that United States Government bonds have played in the history of the nation, is viewed by Secretary of the Treasury John W. Snyder and Mrs. Snyder during the Freedom Train's stay in Washington, D. C. They are among the many historical documents that Cumberlanders may see when the train visits Cumberland September 22.

MIRROR Of Your MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Would you let an expert choose your occupation for you?

Answer: No, says Dr. Donald H. Moyer, adviser to students at Cornell University. The wise vocational counselor will help you see the meaning and importance of a right decision, estimate your qualifications, and explain the demands of various occupations and professions, but will insist that you make your own choice. For you cannot do your best at anything unless you do it on your own initiative. Dr. Moyer also feels that less weight should be given to "aptitude tests" alone, and more emphasis placed on general education.

Do effeminate men like women?

Answer: They are more apt to dislike and fear them. According to Dr. Leon J. Saul in the Psychoanalytic Quarterly, many of us see our neighbors chiefly as personifications of the qualities we like or dislike in ourselves, and take out on them our disapproval of the traits we are ashamed of. So a man who is uneasily aware that the feminine side of his own character is over-developed and that he is not the "real man" that he feels he should be may project his self-distaste onto the female sex and become the bitterest of woman-haters.

Is it childish to fear the dark?

Answer: The fear usually can be traced back to childish experiences, the effect of which the sufferer has not wholly outgrown. In a person who was told the bogeyman would get him if he was naughty, it may express an unconscious sense of guilt or a fear of temptation. To someone who was afraid that his mother might desert him—possibly because she went away and left him when another baby was born—it may imply being alone and abandoned. For of course it was when mother was about to leave you that she turned out the light.

French Ministers To Stay In Paris

PARIS, Sept. 12 (AP)—France's new Cabinet ministers were forbidden today to leave Paris for the next two months because of the seriousness of the nation's worsening economic crisis.

This was disclosed in a communique issued following today's urgent meeting of the new coalition cabinet of Premier Henri Queuille. Three more meetings to deal with economic difficulties have been scheduled for Tuesday and Wednesday.

Queuille's action in ordering his ministers to remain in the capital was taken because of their "duties and governmental obligations," the communique said.

The new Premier also ordered his key economic ministers to attend a special meeting tomorrow to draft measures for dealing with the country's growing inflation and stabilizing wages and prices.

The three full Cabinet meetings scheduled this week will complete the drafting of these bills and approve them before they are sent to the National Assembly for enactment.

Meanwhile, the government's number one critic, Gen. Charles De Gaulle, began criticizing affairs of the new Cabinet less than 24 hours after Queuille had announced his appointments to the various ministries. The Radical Socialist (conservative) leader was named last week to head the fourth Cabinet to govern France in the past seven weeks.

DR. H. P. SLOAN TO SPEAK HERE

Rev. Dr. Harold Paul Sloan, noted Methodist clergyman and editor, will speak at a luncheon meeting at the Central YMCA on Monday, September 27, to which all religious leaders and laymen of the Christian faiths in this area have invited.

Dr. Sloan will speak on participation in a nationwide spiritual mobilization movement to revive the essential spirit of the Christian faith and to promote new loyalty to the spiritual ideals underlying the democratic system.

Arrangements for the meeting were made by Rev. Charles M. LeFew, pastor of Washington Street Methodist Church, Hagerstown, who served as pastor of Grace Methodist Church here for several years.

Dr. Sloan is the author of a number of religious works and is a former editor of the New York "Christian Advocate," a Methodist publication. He has been a member of General Conferences of the Methodist Church since 1920.

Izzetts Win Land Tract In Suit

A 2.3 acre tract of land near Dash Valley Road was ordered turned over to Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Izzett on the bases of an oral agreement with William B. Dean and Robert E. Paul in April 1947.

According to the bill of complaint Dean entered upon an agreement with Paul, owner of the land whereby he would pay $1,450 for the land which the Izzetts claim they were to share with Dean.

Dean however, was unable to sell a home in Philadelphia, and was therefore unable to deliver the required money. Whereupon, the Izzetts, with the full knowledge of Dean and Paul moved on to the land and erected several small houses.

Chief Judge William A. Huster ruled that Paul by his action in permitting the Izzetts to take possession of the land, would make it unfair now for them to repossess the land with the buildings having been erected thereon.

He ordered a deed signed and delivered to the Izzetts upon payment to Paul of $1,450.

PARK PETS-- Keith Ellis Thomas, 21 - month - old grandson of Robert R. Golden, superintendent of Constitution Park, visits Mike and Ike, eight-week-old racoons who were added to the park menagerie August 31. Leonard W. Thomas, 320 Crawford Street, found the coons nearly dead six weeks ago while swimming in a near-by river. He nursed them back to health with teaspoon feedings and presented them to the park. The once-wild animals now recognizes Thomas' son, Bobby, 11, who sometimes comes up to feed them. Mike and Ike run to the wires of their cage to greet him. Keith Thomas is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thomas, 314 Reservoir Avenue.

The other night I found myself at one of those walkie-talkie parties where the conversation would come to a dead stop if the guests were forbidden to use pronouns in the first person singular. A playwright with a voice to match his stomach had the floor and he was sounding off on how to write a successful play.

Billy Rose

"The ear's the important thing," he oracled. "Unless a person can evaluate the subtle nuances of sound, he can't write good dialogue."

"I'm an old nuance fancier myself," I cut in, "but don't you think there's more to playwriting than meets the ear?"

"Of course," said the playwright. "Plot structure, characterization, suspense—they've all got to be in the pot if the soup is to taste right."

"You wouldn't add luck to that recipe, would you?" I asked.

"Not a pinch," said the dramatist. "Luck plays the same part in writing a play as it does in putting together a fine watch."

I opened my mouth to tell him a story, but he was already broadcasting the secret of his success to some new arrivals. Well, you know how it is when you want to tell a story and can't. It's got to come out sometime, someplace, and I'm afraid the time is now and the place is here.

Thirty-some years ago, there was a fellow who ran a prosperous hay-and-feed business up in Farmington, Connecticut, but though it was netting him more than $1,000 a week, he wasn't happy. All his life, he had wanted to be a playwright.

On one of his trips to New York, he met an actor who got him a guest card to the Lambs Club, and for the next few weeks the feed merchant sat there, listening to theatrical shop talk and dreaming of the night when an audience would holler, "Author, author!" and mean him.

Then one day he met up with a young songwriter who also wanted to write plays. Together they drank a lot of coffee and hatched a lot of plots, but none of the plots seemed to jell. Finally the feed merchant said, "Maybe a change of atmosphere will help. Let's go camping in the Berkshires and stay there until we hit on a notion."

The songwriter was willing, and so they piled into the merchant's big red touring car and set out. Their first stop was a downtown department store where they bought a tent, cooking utensils, provisions and several cartons of cigarettes. Then they proceeded up Broadway for one last look at the avenue they were determined to bust wide open.

There weren't many cars on the streets of New York in those days, and the big, red jalopy attracted a lot of attention as it rolled uptown. Outside the Astor, a drunk in a tuxedo jumped in front of the car and began waving his hands.

"Halt and desist!" he yelled. "Desist and likewise halt! What is this steel-ribbed monster, this devil's device that befouls and besmirches the pure air of this peaceful village?"

A policeman was about to arrest the drunk when the songwriter spoke up. "Leave him be, officer," he said. "That's John Hazzard, the actor, and he's an old friend of mine."

"Okay," said the cop, "but if he's such a good friend of yours, why don't you take him along and sober him up? Otherwise, I'll have to run him in."

"Let's take him up to the country with us," said the songwriter to his collaborator. "Hazzard is a smart fellow and we can try out our plots on him."

Between hiccups, the drunk tried to protest, but the songwriter wrassled him into the car, and in a few moments he was snoring in the back seat. Six hours later when he awoke, he found himself deep in the Connecticut woods inside a tent.

"Kidnapped!" Hazzard roared, "Trapped in the impenetrable forest. I shall report this whole sorry episode to the authorities!"

Next morning, wobbly from his hangover, the actor was told the purpose of this literary expedition. He sulked all that day and night, but the following morning he seemed much brighter.

"Gentlemen," he announced, "I'm ready to make a deal with you. As I understand it, you don't intend to leave this mosquito-infested paradise until you have a worth-while plot for a play. Well, I have such a plot, and I'm willing to trade it for immediate transportation to a certain bistro on Broadway."

Hazzard then outlined, scene by scene, a plot about some crooks who were hiding out on a farm that was about to be foreclosed. In the third act, after many cockeyed complications, the crooks saved the old homestead by selling jelly made out of the farmer's apples.

When he had finished, the would-be playwrights looked at each other, nodded, struck camp and drove back to town with the actor. And that night they went to work on the play.

Well, if you're up on your theatre, you know that the play I'm talking about was "Turn to the Right," that it ran several years and was the comedy hit of its generation. The young songwriter was my old friend John Golden who has been producing hits ever since, and the hay-and-feed merchant was the late Winchell Smith who was connected with a dozen distinguished successes before he died . . .

Chances are that if the playwright with the voice to match his stomach had listened to this story, he would have argued that Golden and Smith were talented fellows and would eventually have made good without the tipsy actor and the red jalopy. And chances are I would have agreed with him.

But even while I was agreeing, chances are I would have been playing with the lucky coin I've been carrying in my pocket since 1918.

Mother Of 10 Wins Suit Over Estate

The mother of 10 children who "left her home and fireside," to care for an aged Garrett County couple. Saturday was awarded their estate over protest of living heirs, in an opinion handed down by retiring Judge William A. Huster.

The opinion gave Mrs. Pearl Shultz, the farm property and possessions of John Calvin and Julia D. Lint, for whom she cared in their declining years. She testified that a verbal agreement was reached between her and the elderly couple whereby she would care for them until death and in return they would leave her all of their positions.

Testimony showed that at the time of Lint's death his estate was valued at $10,000 which included a 160-acre-farm.

B. And O. To Have Record Payroll

The Cumberland Division employes of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad will receive a record payroll today on their semi-monthly payday. Unofficial estimates place the amount at $1,100,000.

Retroactive pay to locomotive engineers, firemen and switchmen reaching an estimate of $250,000 will be added to the approximate $800,000 the Cumberland Division payroll amounts to, according to reliable estimates.

The strike settlement made on July 9 agreed to a pay increase of 15½ an hour, and was retroactive to November 1, 1947, thus covering a 10-month period.

Since Cumberland is the headquarters for the Third Division, much of the pay is expected to be distributed locally.

Marylander Elected To Shriner Post

A Maryland man, L. K. Stielman, Hagerstown, was elected third vice president of the Mid-Atlantic Association of Shriners at a three-day meeting at Virginia Beach, Va., Saturday.

Renah F. Camalier, Washington, was named president and Washington was chosen as the next meeting place. Ralph Wolfe, also of Washington, was elected secretary-treasurer.

The elections were part of the closing business session of the Mid-Atlantic Association, which met jointly with the Southeastern Association. The groups decided not to meet jointly next year.

DR. H. P. SLOAN TO SPEAK HERE

Rev. Dr. Harold Paul Sloan, noted Methodist clergyman and editor, will speak at a luncheon meeting at the Central YMCA on Monday, September 27, to which all religious leaders and laymen of the Christian faiths in this area have invited.

Dr. Sloan will speak on participation in a nationwide spiritual mobilization movement to revive the essential spirit of the Christian faith and to promote new loyalty to the spiritual ideals underlying the democratic system.

Arrangements for the meeting were made by Rev. Charles M. LeFew, pastor of Washington Street Methodist Church, Hagerstown, who served as pastor of Grace Methodist Church here for several years.

Dr. Sloan is the author of a number of religious works and is a former editor of the New York "Christian Advocate," a Methodist publication. He has been a member of General Conferences of the Methodist Church since 1920.

Izzetts Win Land Tract In Suit

A 2.3 acre tract of land near Dash Valley Road was ordered turned over to Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Izzett on the bases of an oral agreement with William B. Dean and Robert E. Paul in April 1947.

According to the bill of complaint Dean entered upon an agreement with Paul, owner of the land whereby he would pay $1,450 for the land which the Izzetts claim they were to share with Dean.

Dean however, was unable to sell a home in Philadelphia, and was therefore unable to deliver the required money. Whereupon, the Izzetts, with the full knowledge of Dean and Paul moved on to the land and erected several small houses.

Chief Judge William A. Huster ruled that Paul by his action in permitting the Izzetts to take possession of the land, would make it unfair now for them to repossess the land with the buildings having been erected thereon.

He ordered a deed signed and delivered to the Izzetts upon payment to Paul of $1,450.

Alma Taylor Heads Fort Hill Players

Fort Hill High School players elected Alma Taylor, president; Charles Bujac, vice-president, and Joanne Kilroy, secretary, Friday.

The once-wild animals now recognizes Thomas' son, Bobby, 11, who sometimes comes up to feed them. Mike and Ike run to the wires of their cage to greet him. Keith Thomas is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thomas, 314 Reservoir Avenue.

PITCHING HORSESHOES by Billy Rose

The other night I found myself at one of those walkie-talkie parties where the conversation would come to a dead stop if the guests were forbidden to use pronouns in the first person singular. A playwright with a voice to match his stomach had the floor and he was sounding off on how to write a successful play.

Billy Rose

"The ear's the important thing," he oracled. "Unless a person can evaluate the subtle nuances of sound, he can't write good dialogue."

"I'm an old nuance fancier myself," I cut in, "but don't you think there's more to playwriting than meets the ear?"

"Of course," said the playwright. "Plot structure, characterization, suspense—they've all got to be in the pot if the soup is to taste right."

"You wouldn't add luck to that recipe, would you?" I asked.

"Not a pinch," said the dramatist. "Luck plays the same part in writing a play as it does in putting together a fine watch."

I opened my mouth to tell him a story, but he was already broadcasting the secret of his success to some new arrivals. Well, you know how it is when you want to tell a story and can't. It's got to come out sometime, someplace, and I'm afraid the time is now and the place is here.

Thirty-some years ago, there was a fellow who ran a prosperous hay-and-feed business up in Farmington, Connecticut, but though it was netting him more than $1,000 a week, he wasn't happy. All his life, he had wanted to be a playwright.

On one of his trips to New York, he met an actor who got him a guest card to the Lambs Club, and for the next few weeks the feed merchant sat there, listening to theatrical shop talk and dreaming of the night when an audience would holler, "Author, author!" and mean him.

Then one day he met up with a young songwriter who also wanted to write plays. Together they drank a lot of coffee and hatched a lot of plots, but none of the plots seemed to jell. Finally the feed merchant said, "Maybe a change of atmosphere will help. Let's go camping in the Berkshires and stay there until we hit on a notion."

The songwriter was willing, and so they piled into the merchant's big red touring car and set out. Their first stop was a downtown department store where they bought a tent, cooking utensils, provisions and several cartons of cigarettes. Then they proceeded up Broadway for one last look at the avenue they were determined to bust wide open.

There weren't many cars on the streets of New York in those days, and the big, red jalopy attracted a lot of attention as it rolled uptown. Outside the Astor, a drunk in a tuxedo jumped in front of the car and began waving his hands.

"Halt and desist!" he yelled. "Desist and likewise halt! What is this steel-ribbed monster, this devil's device that befouls and besmirches the pure air of this peaceful village?"

A policeman was about to arrest the drunk when the songwriter spoke up. "Leave him be, officer," he said. "That's John Hazzard, the actor, and he's an old friend of mine."

"Okay," said the cop, "but if he's such a good friend of yours, why don't you take him along and sober him up? Otherwise, I'll have to run him in."

"Let's take him up to the country with us," said the songwriter to his collaborator. "Hazzard is a smart fellow and we can try out our plots on him."

Between hiccups, the drunk tried to protest, but the songwriter wrassled him into the car, and in a few moments he was snoring in the back seat. Six hours later when he awoke, he found himself deep in the Connecticut woods inside a tent.

Gambling Scale As It Is Carried On In Cities

"Business Week," a national magazine, recently made a nationwide survey of in-plant gambling activities. It reported that one of every 250 industrial workers in America is a numbers writer, bookmaker, or agent of some other form of gambling. It estimated the "take" of this gambling activity at a billion dollars a year.

Cumberland was not included in the survey—at least it was not listed—but that does not, in itself, give us a clean bill of health insofar as number writing, bookies, mechanical gambling machines and other forms of wagering are concerned.

One of the nearby cities to be studied was Pittsburgh. Plenty of in-plant gambling was found in the Steel City and it also found plenty of such agents on the outside. This is what the report had to say, according to the Pittsburgh Press.

"Numbers is the biggest racket here. A bet can be placed anywhere: in a plant, a taxicab, a movie, theatre, or at the corner newsstand. It's so easy to put down a bet that in-plant gambling is operated as a pure convenience to the bettors.

"It is not unusual to see, across the street from three large manufacturing plants, a block-long line before 'smoke shops' during the plant lunch hour. The line is made up of in-plant writers who are filing their slips with the neighborhood office of the syndicate. Estimated numbers 'take' is over $2,000,000 a week."

It would, indeed, be interesting to see what a survey of Cumberland would turn up.

Looking Forward And Back From September

September is the changing month, the time of year when summer bids farewell and winter can be seen, trudging up the long road that will be lined by trees and new-found color before the month is out. It is a month that can contain extremes of heat and cold, and aftermath of summer and a foretaste of icy days to come.

In Cumberland the normal average temperature for September is 66 degrees—at least that's what it was a year ago. But heat waves are not uncommon. On September 1, 1932, for instance, the mercury soared to 104 degrees. On the otherhand, as recently as September 29, 1942 a temperature of 29 was recorded. And, to be in tune with things, the average rainfall for the month is 2.72 inches. But that mark has almost been equaled during the first ten days of September, so it probably will be far surpassed before October arrives.

September, however, has just begun. Behind it lies August, a month which was both a delight and a disappointment this year. It started out cool and pleasant, with temperatures, on the whole, below normal. But it finished with a bang and in a blaze of heat, as Cumberlanders will not soon forget. Its maximum was no record, to be sure, but the mercury spilled over into the 100 degree mark on two consecutive days, while remaining in the high nineties for a week.

The month now at hand can or cannot make amends, as it sees fit. If it is normal, no one will complain. In fact its rains will help late crops and its cooler temperatures will be welcome. Cumberland, while not complaining over the month just ended, asks no favors of September other than that the treatment which it gives be fair and square.

Gangster Tactics Being Employed By The Russians

By their actions in Berlin the Russians have done their best to destroy the last faint hope that the crisis in that city can be settled by negotiations. While top Soviet leaders have been talking about currency problems with the West in Moscow, their agents in the German capital have been playing a gangster game.

They have used Russian troops and Russian-directed mobs to drive the city government out of the city hall. Russian-controlled German police have invaded the office of the American liaison officer in the city hall, rifled his files, and seized 21 German policemen under American protection.

In addition, 19 German policemen have been kidnaped after leaving the city hall under a Russian safe-conduct guarantee. Chicago, in the worst days of Al Capone, never saw more insolent, arrogant lawlessness.

The object of these gangster tactics is plain. The Russian aim is to intimidate the Germans and discredit the Americans and British. While the representatives of the West are negotiating in Moscow for restoration of four-power control, the Russians are deliberately destroying the last vestige of four-power rule in Berlin.

Moscow was once told that the United States would not negotiate at the point of a gun. But the gun is cocked and pointed now. In the face of this continued, deliberate provocation, the United States must take steps to maintain its position in the German capital and to protect the Germans under its care.

This is a time that calls for firmness rather than conciliation or vacillation.

Ten Choices

If all the candidates for President were on the ballots of every state next November, the American voter would make his choice from 10. But under the two-party system the voters will decide between Dewey and Truman.

The splintered Democratic party also offers Wallace and Thurmond. Aside from these four there are the perennial Socialist and Prohibition party candidates. And four others of whom most Americans never heard.

There is a Socialist Labor party which in 1944 polled 45,000 votes in 16 states. It follows Karl Marx. A Socialist Workers party, which believes in the Trotzky version of Russian communism, is proposing a national ticket for the first time.

The Greenback party, founded in 1874, proposes to cancel the national debt by issuing paper money without interest. Finally, there is the American Vegetarian party, headed by Dr. John Maxwell of Chicago. He demands that cattle be abolished and grasslands diverted to field crops.

Henry Wallace says he will not purge any members of the third party. Or plow 'em under, either?

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Jet Injection Of Medicine

Our modern hypodermic syringe has been in existence for about a century and has remained essentially unchanged except for improvements here and there. It was news, therefore, when a hypospray or jet injection was announced recently. At present the gadget is not available for general use but it has been tried on several hundred individuals and, as a result, we know what to expect.

Dr. Van Dellen

The apparatus was devised to eliminate the pain and anxiety associated with introducing medicine beneath the skin. "Fear of the needle" always has been a handicap especially with children and is often bothersome to diabetics, for example, who are required to take insulin several times daily. It may prove a boon also to patients who must be given penicillin every few hours during an acute infection.

The new method is based upon the fact that the skin can be pierced with a minimum of distress by extremely fine, high-pressure jets. Substances are forced through an opening 0.003 inches in diameter, which is about the size of a human hair. The jet injector looks like a hollow cylinder with a button on one end and a small, bluntnosed bullet containing the drug on the other. By pressing on the former, a previously wound, high-tension spring is released. This in turn forces a metal plunger against the rubber plug in the butt end of the bulletlike capsule, forcing the liquid contents through a minute opening at the point where insertion into the skin is desired.

The pressure created at this opening varies from 2,300 to 3,500 pounds per square inch, depending upon the instrument employed. Furthermore, by means of a calibrated mechanism, from 0.001 cc. to 0.25 cc. may be injected. In other words, by turning certain attachments, the machine can be made to insert at a high velocity a given dosage of medicine at varying depths beneath the surface.

The invention is far from perfect and, according to Hingson and Hughes, a painless injection can be anticipated more than half the time. A high percentage of the remainder experience slight discomfort but it is far less than that produced by the regular hypodermic needle. On the other hand, when utilized improperly, the stream of liquid can cut or bruise the skin. This occurred to several individuals who were first injected because the cylinder was not pressed firmly against the skin or was held in such a way that the material entered at an angle. If the alcohol applied in cleansing the area is not allowed to dry, the instrument may slip and spray its contents over the surface.

It is interesting to speculate whether jet injection will replace the needle and syringe. This is doubtful unless certain changes are made but the principle is sound and, after several years, the present device may well become obsolete. Much depends upon the tiny capsule containing the drug; as yet it is so small that the amount of material that can be conveyed is limited. Furthermore, many of our pharmaceuticals are dissolved in oil and require a larger opening or greater pressure. The cost too is a factor because the machine is expensive and so are the medicines when they have to be prepared in special containers.

SIGHT AND LIGHT

O. S. writes: If dim light is detrimental to vision, what part of the eye becomes damaged?

Reply

Poor illumination when reading or working is no more harmful than using the eyes when walking in twilight. The eye is a wonderful instrument. In the circumstances you mention, the pupils dilate and allow a maximum amount of light to reach the retina (the seeing part). This requires the use of the muscles of accommodation and when they contract for too long a period, strain may occur. This is only temporary even though it may produce headache. After all, these muscles are no different from those of the arms and legs which tire after prolonged use.

EMPLOYED IN DIABETES

R. B. writes: What is a glucose tolerance test?

Reply

This is a procedure to determine the efficiency of the pancreas. The individual reports to the laboratory before breakfast and specimens of blood and urine are collected. These are analyzed for sugar. The patient is then given a certain amount of carbohydrate by mouth and at periodic intervals thereafter blood and urine are again secured and examined. This method is valuable in diagnosing diabetes and hyperinsulinism.

PARASITIC INFECTIONS

P. K. writes: Is strongyloidiasis a form of hookworm disease?

Reply

No, but the worms responsible for these conditions are very similar in their life cycle and method of invasion of man. In addition, both parasites may exist in one individual at the same time.

UNRELATED

K. S. writes: How is it that some people with low blood pressure can develop a heart attack?

Reply

The blood pressure may have nothing to do with heart attacks. Coronary thrombosis, for example, is due to arteriosclerosis and occurs just as often in individuals with normal readings as when the tension is too high or too low.

Big Republican Blowup Sigation; Dealers Violate Corrupt Practice Act Michigan Under Investigation; Big Michigan Auto Dealers Violate Corrupt

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Sept 12—Detroit's Masonic Temple, in which Harold Stassen delivered the GOP reply to President Truman last week, seats 5,500 people. But about 3,000 were all Republican leaders could muster for the occasion.

Michigan's chief GOP leader, who was supposed to drum up a crowd for Stassen, is Arthur Summerfield, one of the largest Chevrolet dealers in the world. Summerfield helped lead the stop-Dewey movement at Philadelphia, but that probably was not the reason he failed to drum up a crowd last week.

Real fact is that Summerfield is now under investigation by a Federal Grand Jury and has become one of the most controversial figures in Republican politics. GOP Michigan leaders have pooh-poohed this probe, but nevertheless, the average Michigan voter has an uneasy hunch that something is going on.

Not only is the Federal Government investigating, but Michigan's Attorney General, Eugene Black, himself a Republican, attempted to investigate—until he was hamstrung by Governor Sigler and the local courts. Many other Republicans quietly agree with Black that a cleanup is due in Michigan's Republicanism.

General Motors Men Involved

Meanwhile, this columnist has secured photostats of canceled checks indicating that Michigan businessmen thumbed their noses at the Corrupt Practices Act in raising money for the Republican Party. Two General Motors officials are implicated, plus eleven General Motors dealers in Genesee County and Arthur Summerfield himself.

One photostat is check no. 40299 for $500 by the Genessee Motors Co., signed by Ralph Burgess, president, and dated Aug. 29, 1946. It is brazenly made payable to the Republican State Committee. This is an open-and-shut violation of both the Federal Corrupt Practices Act and of the laws of Michigan. Mr. Burgess is a Cadillac and Pontiac dealer.

Another check is even more interesting. Dater Oct. 30, 1946, it is signed by Otto P. Graff of Flint, Mich., a Ford and Lincoln dealer.

The check is for $500 and is payable to the Ford Motor Company. On the back, the check is endorsed in longhand "Ford Motor Co. H. Lincoln."

A comparison of this check and others signed by Otto Graff to the Ford Motor Company show that the endorsement is an obvious forgery. Furthermore, investigators have obtained an admission from Mr. Graff that the $500 went not to Ford but to the GOP campaign chest. The Ford Motor Company never endorsed the check, never saw the check, and was not involved.

But by making the check payable to Ford, the $500 was tax-deductible as a business expense, whereas a campaign contribution from a corporation is not only illegal, but not tax-deductible.

How GOP Won Congress

Through this and other means, Michigan Republicans raised a huge campaign chest in the Congressional campaign of 1946. It is interesting to note that this was the year which GOP won control of Congress.

One of the most active GOP money-raising committees was that in Genesee County, where General Motors Buicks are built. Mainsprings of this committee were GOP National Committeeman Arthur Summerfield, W. F. Hufsteader, general sales manager for Buick, who was a GOP delegate to the Philadelphia Convention; plus Harry Gault, a General Motors lawyer.

These three raised thousands of dollars for the GOP campaign. But examination of their bank records shows that in many cases they failed to file with the State or the Federal Government stating where the money came from. This again was in violation of the Corrupt Practices Act, both State and Federal.

These are a few of the facts which some Michigan Republicans have tried to bring out, but have been squelched by the GOP machine. These are also some of the facts which will rock the nation with a major political scandal—if the Justice Department has the courage to dig into them.

More Housing Frauds

J. Edgar Hoover's efficient G-men have quietly joined the hunt to uncover housing frauds against veterans.

One case they have unearthed is against William Muller, a Pennsauken, N. J., real estate dealer, accused of overcharging veteran George McCann for a home. An appraisal value of $5,000 was placed on the home by the Veterans Administration, but Muller charged $5,500, adding the extra $500 for "payment for delivery of agreement of sale."

Muller's alibi, when confronted by G-man James B. Oakley, was: "There was so much of this sort of thing going on, I did what everyone else was doing."

Russian Arms To Palestine

There was little talk about Palestine when President Truman met with leaders of the Jewish war veterans the other day. National Commander Julius Klein of Chicago and his associates were chiefly interested in promoting action on a Federal public-housing program and other vet-aid measures.

The President, however, again stressed the responsibility of the United States in settling the bitter conflict between Jewish and Arab forces. Pointing to a world globe in his office, he remarked:

"Unless we can prevent further hostilities in the Near East it may be the starting point of another war that could easily spread all over that globe."

Truman also told Klein that the United States was "running into a little Russian competition" in Palestine. He referred to newspaper reports that satellite Czechoslovakia was secretly sending arms to the Israeli army.

"Mr. President," replied Klein, "my organization is not a Zionist group. Its members are Jews whose chief purpose is advancing the welfare of the United States. As such, we hate like the devil for the Jews in Palestine to be getting arms from a nondemocratic source."

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK, Sept. 12—(INS)—Sideglances at celebrities:

President Truman has taken under consideration a suggestion that he fly to Berlin to confer with Gen. Clay and make a personal investigation of the war now being fought there—at 30 paces—by the once loving allies.

The plan, the most dramatic move the President has been asked to make since it was left up to him whether to use the atomic bomb on Japanese civilians, was laid before him recently by the former head of his O.S.S., Gen. Bill Donovan.

The "Sacred Cow" was suggested as his means of conveyance.

Whether he will entertain the suggestion remains to be seen. Some who are familiar with it believe that Mr. Truman might reject it because of the political implications of such a move.

The King of England paid his first visit to the luxury liner Queen Elizabeth during one of its recent stops at Southampton. He was accompanied by the Queen, who launched the good ship during one of the darker hours of her country's history.

The royal couple were given the grand tour of the huge vessel by its towering and enormously able skipper, Capt. "Babe" Ford. The King thanked Capt. Ford warmly when the tour was done and luncheon finished.

He started out of the dining room but the Queen tarried to speak to Capt. Ford.

"May I ask you a great favor, captain?" her majesty inquired.

The captain was at her service.

"I wonder if I can take along some of the ship's white bread . . . for Elizabeth," she asked.

The election of an imposing heap of young muscles named Steve Reeves to the enviable position of "Mr. World" recalls a meeting the youthful muscle-man had last winter with our man Jimmy Kilgallen.

At that time, Steve was only "Mr. America" and seemed to be developing a slight complex over that cramped state. He had his eye on the bigger title, however, and recently won it in some overseas competition by dint of making his muscles samba, or some such.

Anyway, Steve showed up at Toots Shor's one night to interrupt — coincidentally—a story Jimmy was telling about his favorite strong man, Mysterious John Montague. We arranged to move Steve and his muscles to an upstairs room, where he stripped to the waist for Jimmy and gave him the classical poses of the late Lionel Strongfort.

Jimmy looked him over for a long time and then said, "But what do you do?"

"I do this," the startled young man said, striking another pose that would have made Dempsey look like a 4-F.

"Yeah, yeah," our man insisted, "But what do you do?"

Steve was too perplexed to answer, so Jimmy began rattling off some questions about the games the mighty young man played. To each question, Steve shook his head negatively.

"But you must have played football, at least?" Jimmy demanded.

Steve shook his head again. "Mother wouldn't let me," he sighed.

Baseball men who know the story are rooting sincerely for Billy Southworth to lead the Boston Braves to their first pennant in umphy-eight years.

Few men have had more personal vicissitude, Billy's own playing career was cut short by a tragic inability to take care of himself physically. Forlorn and almost forgotten he joined AA and courageously fought his way back to the top of the game as manager of the Cards. Then, at the top, he lost his beloved son in a B-29 crash in the water near LaGuardia, and it was such a shocking blow to him that for a long time thereafter he made a practice of hiring a little boat and rowing over the spot where his son died.

Now the scars are healing and the nicest guy in baseball seems on his way to a peace and security that have so long evaded him.

The lunatic fringe is still waving in the breeze. This time it is backing Hank Wallace. Let me tell you one thing. When you run Hank for President you are kidding the product.

If Hank keeps his magnificent promises we will all have eight tons of coal in the bank, we will all be doing picket duty around the pickle factory and we will all be eating forty-eight caliber caviar.

One thing I must say for Hank when he has the wind back of his big, red ears, nothing is too good for us.

And, figuring from Hank's record, nothing is exactly what we will get.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

State Aid

EDUCATION was, until a century ago in this country, a human activity limited to those who really wanted it. Largely through the efforts of such pedagogues as Horace Mann, more and more states adopted the rule of compulsory general education by which all children up to a certain age are required to remain in school. The age limit runs from as low as 14 to as high as 18 years of age. The state thus undertakes to enforce schooling upon the capable and incapable, the genius, the apt and the moron. This has complicated our educational system no end.

In New York State, for instance, 1,647,100 children attend school daily, of whom 744,850 are in New York City. This does not include the free colleges which are part of the school system but are called "Higher Education." The total expenditure has risen from $251,000,000 in 1926-27 to $448,000,000 in 1947-48. The local areas have not been able altogether to carry this burden and require state aid. This aid has risen, again using New York State as an example, from $55,000,000 in 1926-27 to $155,000,000 in 1947-48; or percentage-wise from 22.1 percent in 1926-27 to 34.6 percent in 1947-47.

The purpose of this article is not to question the wisdom of compulsory general education nor the nature of state aid. It is merely to survey the facts, using New York as an example and indicating from the facts, the colossal nature of the problem and the degree to which the state, rather than the local government, is becoming involved in it.

New York City, for instance, is a huge tax-collecting area for the Federal, the State and the city governments. By no possible implication is the Federal Government or the State required to expend in New York City the amounts collected there. For instance, the area on Manhattan Island from 59th Street to the Battery houses the offices of the principal corporations of this country who pay a large share of their taxes from those offices. It would be financial chaos to return to New York City this accumulation of tax income. Nor does New York City run its own books in this manner; it does not only expend in Brooklyn what it collects only in Brooklyn. It bases its budget on a city-wide concept of tax collections. Yet the state aid; for all purposes, for New York City during the past four years has increased by 92 percent, from $114,000,000 in 1944 to $218,700,000 in 1948.

During the 1947-47 fiscal year, New York City received state aid for education amounting to $56,400,000. One of the most serious factors in these huge figures is the teacher's salary. If we base our concept of salaries upon comparisons, we run wild as between, let us say, Louis B. Mayer's salary and that which we pay to the President of the United States or a Supreme Court Justice. Lana Turner receives more for her work than Albert Einstein. Similarly a carpenter receives more today than a schoolteacher. In a period of rising prices and high taxes, this becomes a very important matter to the individual and to the family dependent upon him. On the other hand, the cumulated cost of teachers' salaries to the taxpayer is reaching a point which causes the taxpayer at least to pause and in some cases to object.

The question arises as to the fiscal capacity of the local community or the state to carry the burden. Even more it gives rise to some general consideration as to the character of education provided the pupil, the value and cost of tenure, which guarantees the teacher the job, fit or unfit, after a stated period.

In a word, here is another American institution that has grown terrifyingly large. Nobody wants to reduce educational opportunities; no one wants teachers to starve; no one wants inadequate school facilities. Also, no one wants taxes to be increased. Certainly a problem of such magnitude requires objective study, not the excitement of political campaigning. Here is a matter that requires a balance among several factors:

1. The interests of the child must be paramount;
2. Teaching must be an honorable and decently paid profession;
3. The finances of state and municipality must not be bankrupted;
4. Education must be under local control.

Statistician Suggests Means Of Continuing Good Business

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass., Sept. 12—I am a statistician and not a politician. Moreover, I always vote the Prohibition Ticket rather than that of either of the two big parties. Hence, perhaps I am not worthy to discuss politics. But—as my mother used to say—"I like to see even the devil get his due." Therefore, as the Presidential Campaign is now opening, the members of both parties should ponder over the following figures.

With all the cussing we give President Truman, statistics show that since his administration this country has had the highest national income in its history. At the risk of repeating some facts which I have already stated, let me emphasize that the volume of U. S. business has been above normal for the last ten years (including four of war effort). In fact, the national income for 1948 will be about $215,000,000,000 compared with $40,000,000,000 when Roosevelt became President. This fourfold increase consists of a doubling of goods and services produced and a doubling of prices.

This record really outdistances the boom era of 1922-1930. The volume almost fell to the normal line in 1940 as in 1924; it came within four points of the normal line in 1945. From this point, however, it recovered to a new all-time high within a period of one year. During 1947 and so far in 1948 the volume has run at record highs. The volume of business today stands at 28% above normal. This is close to the April 1947 all-time high and 24 points above the low point of 1945.

Comparing The '40's With The '20's

There is considerable difference between the boom period of the past ten years and the so-called Coolidge boom of the twenties. The prosperity period of the twenties was a post-war boom culminating in a period of drastic uncontrolled stock market inflation and frenzied speculation. The business of the last ten years consisted of a war and post-war boom cluminating in a period of uncontrolled wage inflation which may result in a similar collapse.

During both the early 20's and 40's peacetime goods were reduced to a minimum creating a pent-up demand for consumers goods which to this day is not completely satisfied. This is further being aggravated somewhat now by stockpiling of war material again and the shipping of billions of supplies to Europe.

So far there is as yet no overproduction of consumers' goods; but in some few instances the supply is beginning to catch up with the demand. There are still shortages in automobiles, non-ferrous metals, electrical equipment, new homes and several other capital goods. The inflation at the present time is not in the stock market but in wages and the concimitant high prices

If this country is headed for a lower national income and the natural decline in business going therewith, I cannot imagine why either Mr. Truman or Mr. Dewey wants to be President. If I were Mr. Truman I would want to retire in my glory; while if I were Mr. Dewey, I had rather wait four years and see what happens to the country in the meantime. Based upon Newton's Law of Action and Reaction, whichever is elected is sure to face hard times and—unless "saved" by World War III—will probably be defeated in 1952.

What John Q. Public Should Do

Yet if we all—employers and wageworkers—would be willing to work harder and give the consumer more for his dollar, the United States could continue to enjoy present good business for sometime to come. If we consumers would be willing to change our buying habits in acordance with demand and supply, this would prevent prices from going any higher.

If we would encourage the government to cut its pay and relief rolls in halves and put millions of people back into industry, it would both reduce taxes and the labor shortage. There is much that each reader of this column do to prolong prosperity; but are we willing to do so? Remember that politics are only an echo of what we ourselves are willing to do. A river does not run higher than its source.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

Readiness

In every emergency the eyes of all are toward those in whom they have confidence, and whom they consider worthy of leadership—because of their readiness. We are always looking up to someone, for there are those who are always ready and waiting to serve when called upon.

None of us should be confined to one job in life. We should so live and prepare that we may be ready to do any number of tasks, essential to the hour. Washington was wise in his day—and undoubtedly would be wise in this day. In his first annual address to both houses of Congress he said: "To be prepared for war is one of the most effectual means of preserving peace." Note that he didn't say the only way! There are other ways of avoiding war. The most important, I would say, would be for a nation to be in readiness, in mind and heart, to accept peace.

We are at this moment in the midst of what is termed a "cold war." Simply because one great nation refuses to be in readiness to accept peace. A nation cannot sign a pact of peace with ink that is diluted with hatred, jealousy and revenge. There must be readiness—or no peace.

The Hon. John Hay, at one time Lincoln's Secretary, and later a great Secretary of State for the United States, once said that the Golden Rule embodied everything essential for a peace among nations. Who is to say that he was not right?

In every emergency in life, when volunteers are called for, those with readiness within them are the ones who promptly step forward. God is always on the side of such people, as though each were to say: "Lord, here I am—take me!"

On every hand, in business, in politics and affairs of state, and internationally, the cry and the loud call are for men and women imbued with readiness, which is to say, prepared, with the will and courage to act, and without fear. And the best way to be prepared for the big things is to daily prepare by doing the small things with enthusiastic efficiency.

Gambling Scale As It Is Carried On In Cities

"Business Week," a national magazine, recently made a nationwide survey of in-plant gambling activities. It reported that one of every 250 industrial workers in America is a numbers writer, bookmaker, or agent of some other form of gambling. It estimated the "take" of this gambling activity at a billion dollars a year.

Cumberland was not included in the survey—at least it was not listed—but that does not, in itself, give us a clean bill of health insofar as number writing, bookies, mechanical gambling machines and other forms of wagering are concerned.

One of the nearby cities to be studied was Pittsburgh. Plenty of in-plant gambling was found in the Steel City and it also found plenty of such agents on the outside. This is what the report had to say, according to the Pittsburgh Press.

"Numbers is the biggest racket here. A bet can be placed anywhere: in a plant, a taxicab, a movie, theatre, or at the corner newsstand. It's so easy to put down a bet that in-plant gambling is operated as a pure convenience to the bettors.

"It is not unusual to see, across the street from three large manufacturing plants, a block-long line before 'smoke shops' during the plant lunch hour. The line is made up of in-plant writers who are filing their slips with the neighborhood office of the syndicate. Estimated numbers 'take' is over $2,000,000 a week."

It would, indeed, be interesting to see what a survey of Cumberland would turn up.

Looking Forward And Back From September

September is the changing month, the time of year when summer bids farewell and winter can be seen, trudging up the long road that will be lined by trees and new-found color before the month is out. It is a month that can contain extremes of heat and cold, and aftermath of summer and a foretaste of icy days to come.

In Cumberland the normal average temperature for September is 66 degrees—at least that's what it was a year ago. But heat waves are not uncommon. On September 1, 1932, for instance, the mercury soared to 104 degrees. On the otherhand, as recently as September 29, 1942 a temperature of 29 was recorded. And, to be in tune with things, the average rainfall for the month is 2.72 inches. But that mark has almost been equaled during the first ten days of September, so it probably will be far surpassed before October arrives.

September, however, has just begun. Behind it lies August, a month which was both a delight and a disappointment this year. It started out cool and pleasant, with temperatures, on the whole, below normal. But it finished with a bang and in a blaze of heat, as Cumberlanders will not soon forget. Its maximum was no record, to be sure, but the mercury spilled over into the 100 degree mark on two consecutive days, while remaining in the high nineties for a week.

The month now at hand can or cannot make amends, as it sees fit. If it is normal, no one will complain. In fact its rains will help late crops and its cooler temperatures will be welcome. Cumberland, while not complaining over the month just ended, asks no favors of September other than that the treatment which it gives be fair and square.

Gangster Tactics Being Employed By The Russians

By their actions in Berlin the Russians have done their best to destroy the last faint hope that the crisis in that city can be settled by negotiations. While top Soviet leaders have been talking about currency problems with the West in Moscow, their agents in the German capital have been playing a gangster game.

They have used Russian troops and Russian-directed mobs to drive the city government out of the city hall. Russian-controlled German police have invaded the office of the American liaison officer in the city hall, rifled his files, and seized 21 German policemen under American protection.

In addition, 19 German policemen have been kidnaped after leaving the city hall under a Russian safe-conduct guarantee. Chicago, in the worst days of Al Capone, never saw more insolent, arrogant lawlessness.

The object of these gangster tactics is plain. The Russian aim is to intimidate the Germans and discredit the Americans and British. While the representatives of the West are negotiating in Moscow for restoration of four-power control, the Russians are deliberately destroying the last vestige of four-power rule in Berlin.

Moscow was once told that the United States would not negotiate at the point of a gun. But the gun is cocked and pointed now. In the face of this continued, deliberate provocation, the United States must take steps to maintain its position in the German capital and to protect the Germans under its care.

This is a time that calls for firmness rather than conciliation or vacillation.

Ten Choices

If all the candidates for President were on the ballots of every state next November, the American voter would make his choice from 10. But under the two-party system the voters will decide between Dewey and Truman.

The splintered Democratic party also offers Wallace and Thurmond. Aside from these four there are the perennial Socialist and Prohibition party candidates. And four others of whom most Americans never heard.

There is a Socialist Labor party which in 1944 polled 45,000 votes in 16 states. It follows Karl Marx. A Socialist Workers party, which believes in the Trotzky version of Russian communism, is proposing a national ticket for the first time.

The Greenback party, founded in 1874, proposes to cancel the national debt by issuing paper money without interest. Finally, there is the American Vegetarian party, headed by Dr. John Maxwell of Chicago. He demands that cattle be abolished and grasslands diverted to field crops.

Henry Wallace says he will not purge any members of the third party. Or plow 'em under, either?

HOW TO KEEP WELL

Jet Injection Of Medicine

Our modern hypodermic syringe has been in existence for about a century and has remained essentially unchanged except for improvements here and there. It was news, therefore, when a hypospray or jet injection was announced recently. At present the gadget is not available for general use but it has been tried on several hundred individuals and, as a result, we know what to expect.

Dr. Van Dellen

The apparatus was devised to eliminate the pain and anxiety associated with introducing medicine beneath the skin. "Fear of the needle" always has been a handicap especially with children and is often bothersome to diabetics, for example, who are required to take insulin several times daily. It may prove a boon also to patients who must be given penicillin every few hours during an acute infection.

The new method is based upon the fact that the skin can be pierced with a minimum of distress by extremely fine, high-pressure jets. Substances are forced through an opening .0.003 inches in diameter, which is about the size of a human hair. The jet injector looks like a hollow cylinder with a button on one end and a small, bluntnosed bullet containing the drug on the other. By pressing on the former, a previously wound, high-tension spring is released. This in turn forces a metal plunger against the rubber plug in the butt end of the bulletlike capsule, forcing the liquid contents through a minute opening at the point where insertion into the skin is desired.

The pressure created at this opening varies from 2,300 to 3,500 pounds per square inch, depending upon the instrument employed. Furthermore, by means of a calibrated mechanism, from 0.001 cc. to 0.25 cc. may be injected. In other words, by turning certain attachments, the machine can be made to insert at a high velocity a given dosage of medicine at varying depths beneath the surface.

The invention is far from perfect and, according to Hingson and Hughes, a painless injection can be anticipated more than half the time. A high percentage of the remainder experience slight discomfort but it is far less than that produced by the regular hypodermic needle. On the other hand, when utilized improperly, the stream of liquid can cut or bruise the skin. This occurred to several individuals who were first injected because the cylinder was not pressed firmly against the skin or was held in such a way that the material entered at an angle. If the alcohol applied in cleansing the area is not allowed to dry, the instrument may slip and spray its contents over the surface.

It is interesting to speculate whether jet injection will replace the needle and syringe. This is doubtful unless certain changes are made but the principle is sound and, after several years, the present device may well become obsolete. Much depends upon the tiny capsule containing the drug; as yet it is so small that the amount of material that can be conveyed is limited. Furthermore, many of our pharmaceuticals are dissolved in oil and require a larger opening or greater pressure. The cost too is a factor because the machine is expensive and so are the medicines when they have to be prepared in special containers.

SIGHT AND LIGHT

O. S. writes: If dim light is detrimental to vision, what part of the eye becomes damaged?

Reply

Poor illumination when reading or working is no more harmful than using the eyes when walking in twilight. The eye is a wonderful instrument. In the circumstances you mention, the pupils dilate and allow a maximum amount of light to reach the retina (the seeing part). This requires the use of the muscles of accommodation and when they contract for too long a period, strain may occur. This is only temporary even though it may produce headache. After all, these muscles are no different from those of the arms and legs which tire after prolonged use.

EMPLOYED IN DIABETES

R. B. writes: What is a glucose tolerance test?

Reply

This is a procedure to determine the efficiency of the pancreas. The individual reports to the laboratory before breakfast and specimens of blood and urine are collected. These are analyzed for sugar. The patient is then given a certain amount of carbohydrate by mouth and at periodic intervals thereafter blood and urine are again secured and examined. This method is valuable in diagnosing diabetes and hyperinsulinism.

PARASITIC INFECTIONS

P. K. writes: Is strongyloidiasis a form of hookworm disease?

Reply

No, but the worms responsible for these conditions are very similar in their life cycle and method of invasion of man. In addition, both parasites may exist in one individual at the same time.

UNRELATED

K. S. writes: How is it that some people with low blood pressure can develop a heart attack?

Reply

The blood pressure may have nothing to do with heart attacks. Coronary thrombosis, for example, is due to arteriosclerosis and occurs just as often in individuals with normal readings as when the tension is too high or too low.

Big Republican Blowup Sigation; Dealers Violate Corrupt Practice Act Michigan Under Investigation; Big Michigan Auto Dealers Violate Corrupt

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Sept 12—Detroit's Masonic Temple, in which Harold Stassen delivered the GOP reply to President Truman last week, seats 5,500 people. But about 3,000 were all Republican leaders could muster for the occasion.

Michigan's chief GOP leader, who was supposed to drum up a crowd for Stassen, is Arthur Summerfield, one of the largest Chevrolet dealers in the world. Summerfield helped lead the stop-Dewey movement at Philadelphia, but that probably was not the reason he failed to drum up a crowd last week.

Real fact is that Summerfield is now under investigation by a Federal Grand Jury and has become one of the most controversial figures in Republican politics. GOP Michigan leaders have pooh-poohed this probe, but nevertheless, the average Michigan voter has an uneasy hunch that something is going on.

Not only is the Federal Government investigating, but Michigan's Attorney General, Eugene Black, himself a Republican, attempted to investigate—until he was hamstrung by Governor Sigler and the local courts. Many other Republicans quietly agree with Black that a cleanup is due in Michigan's Republicanism.

General Motors Men Involved

Meanwhile, this columnist has secured photostats of canceled checks indicating that Michigan businessmen thumbed their noses at the Corrupt Practices Act in raising money for the Republican Party. Two General Motors officials are implicated, plus eleven General Motors dealers in Genesee County and Arthur Summerfield himself.

One photostat is check no. 40299 for $500 by the Genessee Motors Co., signed by Ralph Burgess, president, and dated Aug. 29, 1946. It is brazenly made payable to the Republican State Committee. This is an open-and-shut violation of both the Federal Corrupt Practices Act and of the laws of Michigan. Mr. Burgess is a Cadillac and Pontiac dealer.

Another check is even more interesting. Dater Oct. 30, 1946, it is signed by Otto P. Graff of Flint, Mich., a Ford and Lincoln dealer.

The check is for $500 and is payable to the Ford Motor Company. On the back, the check is endorsed in longhand "Ford Motor Co. H. Lincoln."

A comparison of this check and others signed by Otto Graff to the Ford Motor Company show that the endorsement is an obvious forgery. Furthermore, investigators have obtained an admission from Mr. Graff that the $500 went not to Ford but to the GOP campaign chest. The Ford Motor Company never endorsed the check, never saw the check, and was not involved.

But by making the check payable to Ford, the $500 was tax-deductible as a business expense, whereas a campaign contribution from a corporation is not only illegal, but not tax-deductible.

How GOP Won Congress

Through this and other means, Michigan Republicans raised a huge campaign chest in the Congressional campaign of 1946. It is interesting to note that this was the year which GOP won control of Congress.

One of the most active GOP money-raising committees was that in Genesee County, where General Motors Buicks are built. Mainsprings of this committee were GOP National Committeeman Arthur Summerfield, W. F. Hufsteader, general sales manager for Buick, who was a GOP delegate to the Philadelphia Convention; plus Harry Gault, a General Motors lawyer.

These three raised thousands of dollars for the GOP campaign. But examination of their bank records shows that in many cases they failed to file with the State or the Federal Government stating where the money came from. This again was in violation of the Corrupt Practices Act, both State and Federal.

These are a few of the facts which some Michigan Republicans have tried to bring out, but have been squelched by the GOP machine. These are also some of the facts which will rock the nation with a major political scandal—if the Justice Department has the courage to dig into them.

More Housing Frauds

J. Edgar Hoover's efficient G-men have quietly joined the hunt to uncover housing frauds against veterans.

One case they have unearthed is against William Muller, a Pennsauken, N. J., real estate dealer, accused of overcharging veteran George McCann for a home. An appraisal value of $5,000 was placed on the home by the Veterans Administration, but Muller charged $5,500, adding the extra $500 for "payment for delivery of agreement of sale."

Muller's alibi, when confronted by G-man James B. Oakley, was: "There was so much of this sort of thing going on, I did what everyone else was doing."

Russian Arms To Palestine

There was little talk about Palestine when President Truman met with leaders of the Jewish war veterans the other day. National Commander Julius Klein of Chicago and his associates were chiefly interested in promoting action on a Federal public-housing program and other vet-aid measures.

The President, however, again stressed the responsibility of the United States in settling the bitter conflict between Jewish and Arab forces. Pointing to a world globe in his office, he remarked:

"Unless we can prevent further hostilities in the Near East it may be the starting point of another war that could easily spread all over that globe."

Truman also told Klein that the United States was "running into a little Russian competition" in Palestine. He referred to newspaper reports that satellite Czechoslovakia was secretly sending arms to the Israeli army.

"Mr. President," replied Klein, "my organization is not a Zionist group. Its members are Jews whose chief purpose is advancing the welfare of the United States. As such, we hate like the devil for the Jews in Palestine to be getting arms from a nondemocratic source."

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK, Sept. 12—(INS)—Sideglances at celebrities:

President Truman has taken under consideration a suggestion that he fly to Berlin to confer with Gen. Clay and make a personal investigation of the war now being fought there—at 30 paces—by the once loving allies.

The plan, the most dramatic move the President has been asked to make since it was left up to him whether to use the atomic bomb on Japanese civilians, was laid before him recently by the former head of his O.S.S., Gen. Bill Donovan.

The "Sacred Cow" was suggested as his means of conveyance.

Whether he will entertain the suggestion remains to be seen. Some who are familiar with it believe that Mr. Truman might reject it because of the political implications of such a move.

The King of England paid his first visit to the luxury liner Queen Elizabeth during one of its recent stops at Southampton. He was accompanied by the Queen, who launched the good ship during one of the darker hours of her country's history.

The royal couple were given the grand tour of the huge vessel by its towering and enormously able skipper, Capt. "Babe" Ford. The King thanked Capt. Ford warmly when the tour was done and luncheon finished.

He started out of the dining room but the Queen tarried to speak to Capt. Ford.

"May I ask you a great favor, captain?" her majesty inquired.

The captain was at her service.

"I wonder if I can take along some of the ship's white bread . . . for Elizabeth," she asked.

The election of an imposing heap of young muscles named Steve Reeves to the enviable position of "Mr. World" recalls a meeting the youthful muscle-man had last winter with our man Jimmy Kilgallen.

At that time, Steve was only "Mr. America" and seemed to be developing a slight complex over that cramped state. He had his eye on the bigger title, however, and recently won it in some overseas competition by dint of making his muscles samba, or some such.

Anyway, Steve showed up at Toots Shor's one night to interrupt — coincidentally—a story Jimmy was telling about his favorite strong man, Mysterious John Montague. We arranged to move Steve and his muscles to an upstairs room, where he stripped to the waist for Jimmy and gave him the classical poses of the late Lionel Strongfort.

Jimmy looked him over for a long time and then said, "But what do you do?"

"I do this," the startled young man said, striking another pose that would have made Dempsey look like a 4-F.

"Yeah, yeah," our man insisted, "But what do you do?"

Steve was too perplexed to answer, so Jimmy began rattling off some questions about the games the mighty young man played. To each question, Steve shook his head negatively.

"But you must have played football, at least?" Jimmy demanded.

Steve shook his head again. "Mother wouldn't let me," he sighed.

Baseball men who know the story are rooting sincerely for Billy Southworth to lead the Boston Braves to their first pennant in umphy-eight years.

Few men have had more personal vicissitude, Billy's own playing career was cut short by a tragic inability to take care of himself physically. Forlorn and almost forgotten he joined AA and courageously fought his way back to the top of the game as manager of the Cards. Then, at the top, he lost his beloved son in a B-29 crash in the water near LaGuardia, and it was such a shocking blow to him that for a long time thereafter he made a practice of hiring a little boat and rowing over the spot where his son died.

Now the scars are healing and the nicest guy in baseball seems on his way to a peace and security that have so long evaded him.

Baering Down On The News

The lunatic fringe is still waving in the breeze. This time it is backing Hank Wallace. Let me tell you one thing. When you run Hank for President you are kidding the product.

If Hank keeps his magnificent promises we will all have eight tons of coal in the bank, we will all be doing picket duty around the pickle factory and we will all be eating forty-eight caliber caviar.

One thing I must say for Hank when he has the wind back of his big, red ears, nothing is too good for us.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

State Aid

EDUCATION was, until a century ago in this country, a human activity limited to those who really wanted it. Largely through the efforts of such pedagogues as Horace Mann, more and more states adopted the rule of compulsory general education by which all children up to a certain age are required to remain in school. The age limit runs from as low as 14 to as high as 18 years of age. The state thus undertakes to enforce schooling upon the capable and incapable, the genius, the apt and the moron. This has complicated our educational system no end.

In New York State, for instance, 1,647,100 children attend school daily, of whom 744,850 are in New York City. This does not include the free colleges which are part of the school system but are called "Higher Education." The total expenditure has risen from $251,000,000 in 1926-27 to $448,000,000 in 1947-48. The local areas have not been able altogether to carry this burden and require state aid. This aid has risen, again using New York State as an example, from $55,000,000 in 1926-27 to $155,000,060 in 1947-48; or percentage-wise from 22.1 percent in 1926-27 to 34.6 percent in 1947-47.

The purpose of this article is not to question the wisdom of compulsory general education nor the nature of state aid. It is merely to survey the facts, using New York as an example and indicating from the facts, the colossal nature of the problem and the degree to which the state, rather than the local government, is becoming involved in it.

New York City, for instance, is a huge tax-collecting area for the Federal, the State and the city governments. By no possible implication is the Federal Government or the State required to expend in New York City the amounts collected there. For instance, the area on Manhattan Island from 59th Street to the Battery houses the offices of the principal corporations of this country who pay a large share of their taxes from those offices. It would be financial chaos to return to New York City this accumulation of tax income. Nor does New York City run its own books in this manner; it does not only expend in Brooklyn what it collects only in Brooklyn. It bases its budget on a city-wide concept of tax collections. Yet the state aid; for all purposes, for New York City during the past four years has increased by 92 percent, from $114,000,000 in 1944 to $218,700,000 in 1948.

During the 1947-47 fiscal year, New York City received state aid for education amounting to $56,400,000. One of the most serious factors in these huge figures is the teacher's salary. If we base our concept of salaries upon comparisons, we run wild as between, let us say, Louis B. Mayer's salary and that which we pay to the President of the United States or a Supreme Court Justice. Lana Turner receives more for her work than Albert Einstein. Similarly a carpenter receives more today than a schoolteacher. In a period of rising prices and high taxes, this becomes a very important matter to the individual and to the family dependent upon him. On the other hand, the cumulated cost of teachers' salaries to the taxpayer is reaching a point which causes the taxpayer at least to pause and in some cases to object.

The question arises as to the fiscal capacity of the local community or the state to carry the burden. Even more it gives rise to some general consideration as to the character of education provided the pupil, the value and cost of tenure, which guarantees the teacher the job, fit or unfit, after a stated period.

In a word, here is another American institution that has grown terrifyingly large. Nobody wants to reduce educational opportunities; no one wants teachers to starve; no one wants inadequate school facilities. Also, no one wants taxes to be increased. Certainly a problem of such magnitude requires objective study, not the excitement of political campaigning. Here is a matter that requires a balance among several factors:

1. The interests of the child must be paramount;
2. Teaching must be an honorable and decently paid profession;
3. The finances of state and municipality must not be bankrupted;
4. Education must be under local control.

Statistician Suggests Means Of Continuing Good Business

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass., Sept. 12—I am a statistician and not a politician. Moreover, I always vote the Prohibition Ticket rather than that of either of the two big parties. Hence, perhaps I am not worthy to discuss politics. But—as my mother used to say—"I like to see even the devil get his due." Therefore, as the Presidential Campaign is now opening, the members of both parties should ponder over the following figures.

With all the cussing we give President Truman, statistics show that since his administration this country has had the highest national income in its history. At the risk of repeating some facts which I have already stated, let me emphasize that the volume of U. S. business has been above normal for the last ten years (including four of war effort). In fact, the national income for 1948 will be about $215,000,000,000 compared with $40,000,000,000 when Roosevelt became President. This fourfold increase consists of a doubling of goods and services produced and a doubling of prices.

This record really outdistances the boom era of 1922-1930. The volume almost fell to the normal line in 1940 as in 1924; it came within four points of the normal line in 1945. From this point, however, it recovered to a new all-time high within a period of one year. During 1947 and so far in 1948 the volume has run at record highs. The volume of business today stands at 28% above normal. This is close to the April 1947 all-time high and 24 points above the low point of 1945.

Comparing The '40's With The '20's

There is considerable difference between the boom period of the past ten years and the so-called Coolidge boom of the twenties. The prosperity period of the twenties was a post-war boom culminating in a period of drastic uncontrolled stock market inflation and frenzied speculation. The business of the last ten years consisted of a war and post-war boom cluminating in a period of uncontrolled wage inflation which may result in a similar collapse.

During both the early 20's and 40's peacetime goods were reduced to a minimum creating a pent-up demand for consumers goods which to this day is not completely satisfied. This is further being aggravated somewhat now by stockpiling of war material again and the shipping of billions of supplies to Europe.

So far there is as yet no overproduction of consumers' goods; but in some few instances the supply is beginning to catch up with the demand. There are still shortages in automobiles, non-ferrous metals, electrical equipment, new homes and several other capital goods. The inflation at the present time is not in the stock market but in wages and the concimitant high prices

If this country is headed for a lower national income and the natural decline in business going therewith, I cannot imagine why either Mr. Truman or Mr. Dewey wants to be President. If I were Mr. Truman I would want to retire in my glory; while if I were Mr. Dewey, I had rather wait four years and see what happens to the country in the meantime. Based upon Newton's Law of Action and Reaction, whichever is elected is sure to face hard times and—unless "saved" by World War III—will probably be defeated in 1952.

What John Q. Public Should Do

Yet if we all—employers and wageworkers—would be willing to work harder and give the consumer more for his dollar, the United States could continue to enjoy present good business for sometime to come. If we consumers would be willing to change our buying habits in acordance with demand and supply, this would prevent prices from going any higher.

If we would encourage the government to cut its pay and relief rolls in halves and put millions of people back into industry, it would both reduce taxes and the labor shortage. There is much that each reader of this column do to prolong prosperity; but are we willing to do so? Remember that politics are only an echo of what we ourselves are willing to do. A river does not run higher than its source.

Today's Talk

Readiness

In every emergency the eyes of all are toward those in whom they have confidence, and whom they consider worthy of leadership—because of their readiness. We are always looking up to someone, for there are those who are always ready and waiting to serve when called upon.

None of us should be confined to one job in life. We should so live and prepare that we may be ready to do any number of tasks, essentfal to the hour. Washington was wise in his day—and undoubtedly would be wise in this day. In his first annual address to both houses of Congress he said: "To be prepared for war is one of the most effectual means of preserving peace." Note that he didn't say the only way! There are other ways of avoiding war. The most important, I would say, would be for a nation to be in readiness, in mind and heart, to accept peace.

We are at this moment in the midst of what is termed a "cold war." Simply because one great nation refuses to be in readiness to accept peace. A nation cannot sign a pact of peace with ink that is diluted with hatred, jealousy and revenge. There must be readiness—or no peace.

The Hon. John Hay, at one time Lincoln's Secretary, and later a great Secretary of State for the United States, once said that the Golden Rule embodied everything essential for a peace among nations. Who is to say that he was not right?

In every emergency in life, when volunteers are called for, those with readiness within them are the ones who promptly step forward. God is always on the side of such people, as though each were to say: "Lord, here I am—take me!"

On every hand, in business, in politics and affairs of state, and internationally, the cry and the loud call are for men and women imbued with readiness, which is to say, prepared, with the will and courage to act, and without fear. And the best way to be prepared for the big things is to daily prepare by doing the small things with enthusiastic efficiency.

Richard Clower Weds Katharine E. Harter

The marriage of Miss Katherine Eva Harter to Richard Alan Clower, son of Mrs. R. C. Clower, 506 Woodlawn Terrace, and the late Mr. Clower, has been announced by Mr. and Mrs. Seth W. Harter, Braddock Road.

The ceremony was performed September 2 in the parsonage of St. Mark's Evangelical and Reformed Church by Rev Carl H. Clapp. Miss Patricia Anderson and Linn Sheetz were the attendants.

The bride is a graduate of Allegany High School and attended University of Maryland, where she was a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma. The bridegroom, also an alumnus of Allegany, is a student at Western Maryland College, Westminster, where the couple is residing.

W. Va. Couple Wed

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Mary Ellen Randolph, Washington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Brady Randolph, Sutton, W. Va., to Robert D. Shank, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Shank, Burlington, W. Va., August 28. The ceremony was performed in Mt. Vernon Methodist Chapel, Baltimore, by Rev. A. N. Warner.

Mrs. Eugene P. Weitzel was matron of honor and Mrs. Charles Allwine, Mrs. Thomas Ernest and Miss Wilma June Randolph were the bridesmaids. Nancy Shank was junior bridesmaid. Paul B. Hood served as best man, Charles Allwine, Lawrence Abreo and John Hoffman were ushers. Miss Edith Gottwals was organist and Miss Mildred Weatherspoon, vocalist.

The bride wore a gown of French lace with fingertip length veil. Her matron of honor wore peach net and the bridesmaids, blue. All had matching headdress.

The bride attended Salem College, Salem, W. Va., and the bridegroom graduated from National School of Photography, Silver Spring. After a trip to Colonial Beach, Va., the couple will reside in Kingwood, W. Va.

Club Has Canning Survey

The Bedford Road Homemakers Clubs had a survey of canning by members and Mrs. Thomas Wotring won first prize with 324 quarts of vegetables, meats and fruits she had preserved. The meeting was held at the fire hall earlier in the week.

Plans were discussed for a Halloween party and a flower show was held. Mrs. Bertha Brant and Mrs. Edward Loible were judges and Mrs. J. R. Earsom won first prize and Mrs. Robert Street, honorable mention.

A spelling bee and singing featured the entertainment. Mrs. Otis Wiseman won first prize in the former and Mrs. C. C. Boor, Mrs. T. T. Shaffer and Mrs. Brant, in the latter. Approximately 25 members attended and Mrs. Gordon H. Hall and Mrs. Gene Herman were guests.

STEPHEN-GERDEMAN PARTY—Mr. and Mrs. William M. Stephen are shown leaving SS. Peter and Paul's Church, following their marriage, August 28. The bride is the former Miss Eleanor Ann Gerdeman, daughter of Anthony R. Gerdeman, 526 Riehl Avenue and the late Mrs. Eleanor Hannon Gerdeman. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Stephen, St. Mary's Terrace, Lonaconing. Their bridal party includes Miss Kathryn Gerdeman, her sister's maid of honor; Joseph Devlin, best man; William Keating, Miss Phyllis Athey, Mrs. Frank Simpson and Frank Simpson, bridesmaids and ushers.

Junkins Clan Elects

The third reunion of the Junkins family was held at Burlington, W. Va., and elected Fred Holsberry, Vanderlip, W .Va., president; Paul Junkins, Cresaptown, vice president; Mrs. J. E. Minnicks, city, secretary; Jack Hutson, city, treasurer; Mrs. Milton Pritts, Kitzmiller, Miss Vivian Junkins, Keyser, and Mrs. Mildred Loar, Arlington, Va., Program committee.

Plans were formulated for the reunion September 5, 1949. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Rebecca Hutson, the oldest member present; Mrs. James Wilson, largest family; Mr. and Mrs. J. Elton Baughman, Baltimore, coming the greatest distance; and Mrs. Althea Tichnell, Keyser, mother of the youngest baby.

Just Between Us

What Every Girl Who Is Off For College Should Know Now

By NANCY MOTTRAM

Nancy Mottram

If it's college for you this fall, there's usually a certain amount of distance you'll have to cover to get there and you'll probably travel by train. For any trip, you need to buckle down and start to plan almost step by step, but a long voyage takes a bit of forethought.

You can't expect everything to go smoothly if you wait till the last minute to think about it.

There are friends to bid goodby and last-minute going-away parties, and unless you keep a close eye on the calendar, you're likely to wind up with nothing done on the day before you're scheduled to take off. And you won't feel perfectly cool and confident if you stay up until 3 a. m. the night before trying to do it all at once, and just manage to make the station at the last "All aboard."

First, get out a pencil and paper and begin listing the things you're planning to take. Pack them carefully in your trunk, and ship it off according to the directions sent to you by the college. If you're set on taking a suitcase with you, bear one thing in mind. If the red cap situation is grim, and it's likely to be if you're starting and arriving at a large and crowded station, you may wind up carrying it yourself. So, don't overburden yourself unnecessarily.

The things you'll really need on the train depend on how long you'll be traveling. Check your heavy luggage before you board, and pack your night clothes, slippers, and toilet articles in a small bag or case, if you'll be on the sleeper. Writing paper and a book can go in, too, and your topper can serve as a wrap through the aisles to the dressing room before you turn in.

If you're not an experienced traveler, don't shy from asking questions of the man behind the ticket window or the porter when you're not sure of anything. Get things straightened out before you leave—that's what the information desk is for—and with the knowledge that all's right, you'll be able to settle down for a wonderful trip.

When the pangs of hunger set in, the dining car waiter will provide you with a menu and a check on which you write your choice. After the meal, leave the amount you owe and the tip on the plate on which he'll place the bill. The 10 per cent average has all but disappeared, and 15 per cent is the minimum these days.

When you're ready to retire for the night, ask the porter to make up the berth you arranged for when you bought your ticket. Before you crawl in and button the curtains, tell the porter when you'd like to be awakended in the morning. For just a day trip, a quarter is a fair trip, but for an overnight journey, you might multiply that by two or three.

Once you've made all your connections and bone up on what to do and when you can carry off your journey with the poise of a seasoned traveler, instead of a lot of false stops, starts and doubts, you'll enjoy the whole experience. Bon voyage!

Miss Mottram wants to help with your problems. Write her in care of this newspaper.

Union Grove Club Wants School Bus Change

Members of the Union Grove Homemakers Club decided to write the school board requesting the bus drivers pick up the children in the locality of White's store instead of the Bedford-Union Grove Roads intersection. Plans were discussed at the meeting Wednesday at the home of Mrs. William Welsh. Bottle Run Road.

It also was announced that Ethel Gillum, one of the club's 4-H Girls, was first runner-up in the Farmerette contest. A Red Cross safety course was discussed and members asked to bring filled pocketbooks for overseas.

Mrs. T. A. Frommeyer introduced Miss Winona Garber, Bedford, Pa., who demonstrated refinishing furniture and hand painting on wood. She exhibited a 125-year-old rocker and hand-painted cupboard door.

Mrs. John Wentling, Reading chairman, gave a synopsis of "Wild Orchard"; Mrs. Lloyd Keller, Food chairman, explained how to keep hard boiled eggs from sticking to the shell; and Mrs. J. J. Lydinger, Fair chairman, urged members to enter exhibits in the fair. Mrs. Ruthella Fey gave the Sunshine report. The program consisted of readings by Mrs. Steve Bowling and Mrs. George Yeargan and group singing.

The recreational hour was conducted by Mrs. Edward Eichner and prizes won by Mrs. Albert Windish and Mrs. Margaret McMakin. A Halloween party was planned, for which members must be in costume and masked. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. C. N. Wilkinson with Mrs. Edward Lundien co-hostess.

Guests attending were Miss Jean Yeargan and Miss Lyla Murphy. Other members present were Miss Nyna Fey, Mrs. Charles Gillum, Mrs. Alburtus White, Mrs. Verna Hicks, Mrs. John Wentling, Mrs. Elva Brotemarkle and Mrs. Margaret Douglas. Mrs. Albertis White and Mrs. George Yearger were co-hostesses with Mrs. Welsh.

THE FAMILY

(Submitted by Jeannette L. Bonig, Executive Secretary of Associated Charities)

Can a man starve to death on a full stomach?

Strangely enough, the answer is yes. And the living proof of this strange fact this family service agency of the Community Chest just the other day.

The "living proof" was a man about 50. He was starved—nearly to death—yet he had had three square meals every day of his life.

Pitifully weak, emaciated, walking stiff-legged, gesturing with long, scrawny, shaking fingers, he resembled the human wrecks released from Nazi prison camps by American troops just a few years ago. Yet, far from being a prisoner in a horror camp, he had never been outside the bosom of his family.

His condition is the result of a problem common to all American families. From childhood, he "didn't like" the foods that were good for him. Pampered by his parents, he was permitted to eat only the things he liked—usually corn, potatoes, beans, sweets, and similar foods. He didn't want to eat spinach, kale, broccoli, and other green vegetables —so he didn't have to.

His eating habits were bad from the start. Acquired when he was very young, they were never changed as he grew older.

For years and years he suffered no ill effects. From all outward appearances, this spinach-eating stuff was the bunk.

Then he had an accident. Following an injury to his leg, the results of poor diet began to show up. The leg wouldn't heal. At one time it was thought he would lose it.

The reason? He had no resistence to infection. No stamina, no healing power in his blood.

Months dragged by. And eventually a cure was effected. But the deeply rooted dietary habits went on and on. There were always three meals on the table. But the slow process of starvation continued.

Then followed the dread disease of the stomach known as "Sprue." It is a direct result of a diet deficiency. Now, with his body weakened and withered, the man HAD to change his eating habits—or die.

He had always liked bread, and he ate too much of it. Now he can have only one slice of dry toast a day. He had never liked milk. Now skim milk—with every bit of the cream removed—is a must on his diet. He never cared for green vegetables. And fruit was taboo. Now he can eat both, but little of anything else. He can never hope to touch potatoes or sweets.

Expensive liver extract and vitamins must be taken along with his strict diet.

The story of the man's life came out when he was examined at Johns Hopkins clinic not long ago. He told it truthfully—and regretfully. Poor training at the dinner table had taken its toll.

The man in question was never poor—starved himself into ill health in the midst of plenty.

Ellis Broadwater Weds Vera Swartzwelder

The marriage of Miss Vera Swartzwelder, daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth R. Wilkins, 822 Columbia Avenue, to Ellis Broadwater, son of C. M. Broadwater, Hillcrest Drive, and the late Mrs. Broadwater, has been announced. The ceremony was performed by Rt. Rev. Harold E. VanBuskardt in St. Mark's Church, Buffalo, N. Y.

Mrs. Glen Sarver, Buffalo, was matron of honor and Miss Janette Kleinfelder, bridesmaid. Glenn Sarver served as best man and William Sarver, usher.

The bride wore an ice blue satin gown with white accessories. Her matron of honor wore pale orchid satin and the bridesmaid wore pale green satin.

Mr. and Mrs. Broadwater left for a trip to Canada after a reception at the Hotel Statler. Later this month they will visit the bride's mother here and be at home to friends at 154 Peach Tree Road, Buffalo, after September 15.

Club Plans Supper

a new kind of school

School-time again. And we here at the Hagan Ice Cream Company would like to start a school to teach folks the fine art of ice cream tasting.

—how to let ice cream melt on your tongue for flavor;

—to try it on the roof of your mouth for texture;

In short, how to be sure the ice cream you buy is every bit the luscious treat it can be.

Just Between Us

By NANCY MOTTRAM

If it's college for you this fall, there's usually a certain amount of distance you'll have to cover to get there and you'll probably travel by train. For any trip, you need to buckle down and start to plan almost step by step, but a long voyage takes a bit of forethought.

Nancy Mottram

You can't expect everything to go smoothly if you wait till the last minute to think about it.

There are friends to bid goodby and last-minute going-away parties, and unless you keep a close eye on the calendar, you're likely to wind up with nothing done on the day before you're scheduled to take off. And you won't feel perfectly cool and confident if you stay up until 3 a. m. the night before trying to do it all at once, and just manage to make the station at the last "All aboard."

First, get out a pencil and paper and begin listing the things you're planning to take. Pack them carefully in your trunk, and ship it off according to the directions sent to you by the college. If you're set on taking a suitcase with you, bear one thing in mind. If the red cap situation is grim, and it's likely to be if you're starting and arriving at a large and crowded station, you may wind up carrying it yourself. So, don't overburden yourself unnecessarily.

The things you'll really need on the train depend on how long you'll be traveling. Check your heavy luggage before you board, and pack your night clothes, slippers, and toilet articles in a small bag or case, if you'll be on the sleeper. Writing paper and a book can go in, too, and your topper can serve as a wrap through the aisles to the dressing room before you turn in.

If you're not an experienced traveler, don't shy from asking questions of the man behind the ticket window or the porter when you're not sure of anything. Get things straightened out before you leave—that's what the information desk is for—and with the knowledge that all's right, you'll be able to settle down for a wonderful trip.

When the pangs of hunger set in, the dining car waiter will provide you with a menu and a check on which you write your choice. After the meal, leave the amount you owe and the tip on the plate on which he'll place the bill. The 10 per cent average has all but disappeared, and 15 per cent is the minimum these days.

When you're ready to retire for the night, ask the porter to make up the berth you arranged for when you bought your ticket. Before you crawl in and button the curtains, tell the porter when you'd like to be awakended in the morning. For just a day trip, a quarter is a fair trip, but for an overnight journey, you might multiply that by two or three.

Once you've made all your connections and bone up on what to do and when you can carry off your journey with the poise of a seasoned traveler, instead of a lot of false stops, starts and doubts, you'll enjoy the whole experience. Bon voyage!

Miss Mottram wants to help with your problems. Write her in care of this newspaper.

The "living proof" was a man about 50. He was starved—nearly to death—yet he had had three square meals every day of his life.

Pitifully weak, emaciated, walking stiff-legged, gesturing with long, scrawny, shaking fingers, he resembled the human wrecks released from Nazi prison camps by American troops just a few years ago. Yet, far from being a prisoner in a horror camp, he had never been outside the bosom of his family.

His condition is the result of a problem common to all American families. From childhood, he "didn't like" the foods that were good for him. Pampered by his parents, he was permitted to eat only the things he liked—usually corn, potatoes, beans, sweets, and similar foods. He didn't want to eat spinach, kale, broccoli, and other green vegetables—so he didn't have to.

His eating habits were bad from the start. Acquired when he was very young, they were never changed as he grew older.

For years and years he suffered no ill effects. From all outward appearances, this spinach-eating stuff was the bunk.

Then he had an accident. Following an injury to his leg, the results of poor diet began to show up. The leg wouldn't heal. At one time it was thought he would lose it.

The reason? He had no resistence to infection. No stamina, no healing power in his blood.

Months dragged by. And eventually a cure was effected. But the deeply rooted dietary habits went on and on. There were always three meals on the table. But the slow process of starvation continued.

Then followed the dread disease of the stomach known as "Sprue." It is a direct result of a diet deficiency. Now, with his body weakened and withered, the man HAD to change his eating habits—or die.

He had always liked bread, and he ate too much of it. Now he can have only one slice of dry toast a day. He had never liked milk. Now skim milk—with every bit of the cream removed—is a must on his diet. He never cared for green vegetables. And fruit was taboo. Now he can eat both, but little of anything else. He can never hope to touch potatoes or sweets.

Expensive liver extract and vitamins must be taken along with his strict diet.

The story of the man's life came out when he was examined at Johns Hopkins clinic not long ago. He told it truthfully—and regretfully. Poor training at the dinner table had taken its toll.

The man in question was never poor—starved himself into ill health in the midst of plenty.

Ellis Broadwater Weds Vera Swartzwelder

The marriage of Miss Vera Swartzwelder, daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth R. Wilkins, 822 Columbia Avenue, to Ellis Broadwater, son of C. M. Broadwater, Hillcrest Drive, and the late Mrs. Broadwater, has been announced. The ceremony was performed by Rt. Rev. Harold E. VanBuskardt in St. Mark's Church, Buffalo, N. Y.

Mrs. Glen Sarver, Buffalo, was matron of honor and Miss Janette Kleinfelder, bridesmaid. Glenn Sarver served as best man and William Sarver, usher.

The bride wore an ice blue satin gown with white accessories. Her matron of honor wore pale orchid satin and the bridesmaid wore pale green satin.

Mr. and Mrs. Broadwater left for a trip to Canada after a reception at the Hotel Statler. Later this month they will visit the bride's mother here and be at home to friends at 154 Peach Tree Road, Buffalo, after September 15.

Club Plans Supper

The Hap-O-Happy Club will hold a covered dish supper October 1 at 6 o'clock at the Purple Heart Centre. Mrs. Pauline Shaffer was named chairman at a recent meeting. She will be assisted by Mrs. Lena Owens, Mrs. Pearl Bachman, Mrs. Ilda Gauntz and Mrs. Edna Ziler.

Plans were also discussed for a Halloween party the first meeting in November and Mrs. Florence Wiers was named chairman. A card party followed the meeting and prizes were won by Mrs .Shaffer, Mrs. Alice Trout, Mrs. Owens, Mrs. Busky, Mrs. Marie Paine and Mrs. Mary Zembower.

Honored On Birthday

Robert Gilbert Hausman was honored by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Hausman, recently, in celebration of his seventh birthday at their home, Uhl Highway.

Guests were Shirley Twigg, Eloise and Marjorie Brookman, Carolyn and Constance Sooper, Joann, Richard and Fred Knight, Norma Lee Schade, Jacqueline Peterson, Joseph Brookman, Kenneth Hausman, Michael Keller, David Brown, David and Terry Talley, Miss Elaine Brookman, Miss Christina Hausman, Mrs. Edward Brookman, Mrs. Malvin Keller, Mrs. Edward Cooper, Mrs. Joseph Talley and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Knight.

If you have stale bread on hand, combine it with one of the fresh fruits in season in a brown betty dessert served with cream or fruit sauce.

Mr., Mrs. W. L. Price Mark Wedding Anniversary

An informal reception celebrating their 45th wedding anniversary was given by Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Price, LaVale, recently. Assorted flowers were used throughout the house, and a tiered cake centered the table.

The former Miss Josephine Gibbs, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gibbs, Cumberland, and Mr. Price, a native of Hancock, were married September 5, 1903, in the parsonage of First Methodist Church, Hancock.

Mr. and Mrs. Price are the parents of five children, A. M. Price, Mrs. G. A. Reuschlein, Mrs. F. A. McCullough, Cumberland; W. F. Price, Baltimore, and C. E. Price, Philadelphia.

Crowd Attends Outing

More than 100 members and friends attended the corn-wiener roast and dance. J. Paul Nose and John Aaron, Robert F. Mackert, Daniel Mathews and John Spiker were in charge of arrangements.

Joy Largent Is Honored At Party

Miss Barbara Coleman and Miss Betty Jean Harper entertained in honor of Miss Joy Largent, Tuesday with a miscellaneous bridal shower at the home of Miss Harper, Patterson Avenue.

Miss Largent, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Largent, 521 Beall Street, is to become the bride of Herman A. Cunningham, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest E. Cunningham, 675 Fayette Street, September 18.

A pink and blue color scheme was carried out in the decorations, with the shower gifts concealed under a white umbrella and "Joy" and "Herman" traced on the tiered cake centering the table.

Guests were Miss Winona Ides, Miss Rose Marie Grabenstein, Miss Helene Smith, Miss Delores Stewart, Miss Ruth Stewart, Miss Myna Bucy, Miss Dorothy Lease, Miss Norma Lee Davis, Miss Ursula Lindner, Miss Dorothy Coleman, Miss Margaret Baker, Miss Mary Luhrman, Miss Nancy Largent, Mrs. Thomas Minke, Mrs. Largent and Mrs. C. W. Harper.

Marriage Announced

The marriage of Miss Tiny Lou Bailey, daughter of Mrs. Lavina Dailey, Paw Paw, W. Va., and the late Ashby Bailey, to Thomas Glenn Delawder, son of Mrs. T. C. Robertson, Paw Paw, and the late Alston Delawder, has been announced. The ceremony was performed June 30 by Rev. M. A. Keesecker in Kingsley Methodist parsonage. Mrs. Bailey and Mrs. Shannon Whitacre, mother and sister of the bride, were the attendants.

Both the bride and bridegroom attended Paw Paw High School and the latter is employed by the Appalachian Orchard Company.

Employes Entertained

P. W. Weaver, manager of the Singer Sewing Machine Company here, entertained the sales personnel and their families at an outing at his summer camp on the Juniata River recently. Recreational games were played and a picnic dinner served.

Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Eackles, Vicki Eackles, Mr. and Mrs. Orwin DuVall, Carol DuVall, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Connell, Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Leasure, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Barncord, Mr. and Mrs. William Raymond, Mrs. Mary Chaney and Miss Marjorie Wolfe.

a new kind of school

School-time again. And we here at the Hagan Ice Cream Company would like to start a school to teach folks the fine art of ice cream tasting.

—how to let ice cream melt on your tongue for flavor;

—to try it on the roof of your mouth for texture;

—how to recognize real richness, true vanilla, and choice chocolate.

In short, how to be sure the ice cream you buy is every bit the luscious treat it can be.

Allegany, LaSalle, Fort Hill Play Home Games This Week

Eight Games Listed For District Elevens

Sentinels Win, 21-7; LaSalle Loses, 25-12

Allegany High School's football team will launch it 1948 campaign on Friday night when it plays Beall High School of Frostburg at the local stadium at 8 o'clock.

LaSalle High School, defeated on Saturday by St. Mary's High School Stripers at Clarksburg, W. Va., by the score of 25-12, will make its home debut under Coaches Jim Gaffney and Phil Carolan when it plays Berlin-Brothersvalley (Pa.) High School here Thursday under the lights at 8 o'clock.

Fort Hill's Sentinels, victorious over Washington and Lee High School of Arlington, Va., here Saturday night by the score of 21 to 7, will play hosts to Johnny Paugh's Moorefield Yellow Jackets on Saturday night at 8 o'clock.

Eight Games Listed

A total of eight scholastic games are billed for this weekend in the tri-state district. Six of the contests are set for Friday.

In Addition to the Beall-AHS tilt, other Friday engagements include:

Berkeley Springs at Romney.

Thomas at Petersburg.

Fort Hill, winner of its last nine games in 1947, extended its victory streak to 10 contests by turning back Coach Harry Deming's Little Generals from Virginia before approximately 7,000 persons at the local stadium on Saturday night.

Tucker Runs 65 Yards

Touchdowns were scored by Marvin Luttrell, Larry McKenzie and Edgar Tucker of the Sentinels, the latter's coming on a 65-yard sprint in the final period. A 33-yard pass by Jack Gilfillan to Eddie Fowler and ran 15 yards to the goal line produced Washington and Lee's touchdown in the final stanza. Glenn Burke scored Fort Hill's three points after touchdowns on placements while Hillenbrand ran the visitors' extra point.

Wash-Lee reeled off 15 first downs to 11 for Fort Hill and the visitors completed 13 of 27 passes for a total of 210 yards. The Sentinels failed to click on two passes but piled up 309 net yards rushing compared to 124 for the visitors. Fort Hill was penalized 50 yards and the Little Generals 39.

Stripers Gain 405 Yards

St. Mary's piled up 405 yards on running plays to LaSalle's 240 in the contest at Clarksburg in which Kenny Hamilton scored three of the Stripers' touchdowns. The teams battled to a 12-12 deadlock in the first half and the West Virginians sewed up the game by registering touchdowns in the third and final quarters.

Bill Hudson accounted for both LaSalle touchdowns and Newbrough made St. Mary's fourth six-pofnter. Hamilton plunged the extra point after St. Mary's final touchdown.

The Explorers completed three of seven passes for 35 yards while the winners connected thrice in five tries for ten yards.

Pass Interception Wins

Halfback Charley Emery registered the lone touchdown in the third period in intercepting a pass and running 20 yards as Coach Fred Clark's Keyser High's Golden Tornado scored a 6-0 triumph over the Alumni. Each team racked up seven first downs. The victors accumulated 111 yards on running plays to the Alumni's 105.

Allegany, LaSalle, Fort Hill Play Home Games This Week

Eight Games Listed For District Elevens

Sentinels Win, 21-7; LaSalle Loses, 25-12

Allegany High School's football team will launch it 1948 campaign on Friday night when it plays Beall High School of Frostburg at the local stadium at 8 o'clock.

LaSalle High School, defeated on Saturday by St. Mary's High School Stripers at Clarksburg, W. Va., by the score of 25-12, will make its home debut under Coaches Jim Gaffney and Phil Carolan when it plays Berlin-Brothersvalley (Pa.) High School here Thursday under the lights at 8 o'clock.

Fort Hill's Sentinels, victorious over Washington and Lee High School of Arlington, Va., here Saturday night by the score of 21 to 7, will play hosts to Johnny Paugh's Moorefield Yellow Jackets on Saturday night at 8 o'clock.

Eight Games Listed

A total of eight scholastic games are billed for this weekend in the tri-state district. Six of the contests are set for Friday.

In Addition to the Beall-AHS tilt, other Friday engagements include:

Berkeley Springs at Romney.

Thomas at Petersburg.

Fort Hill, winner of its last nine games in 1947, extended its victory streak to 10 contests by turning back Coach Harry Deming's Little Generals from Virginia before approximately 7,000 persons at the local stadium on Saturday night.

Tucker Runs 65 Yards

Touchdowns were scored by Marvin Luttrell, Larry McKenzie and Edgar Tucker of the Sentinels, the latter's coming on a 65-yard sprint in the final period. A 33-yard pass by Jack Gilfillan to Eddie Fowler and ran 15 yards to the goal line produced Washington and Lee's touchdown in the final stanza. Glenn Burke scored Fort Hill's three points after touchdowns on placements while Hillenbrand ran the visitors' extra point.

Wash-Lee reeled off 15 first downs to 11 for Fort Hill and the visitors completed 13 of 27 passes for a total of 210 yards. The Sentinels failed to click on two passes but piled up 309 net yards rushing compared to 124 for the visitors. Fort Hill was penalized 50 yards and the Little Generals 39.

Stripers Gain 405 Yards

St. Mary's piled up 405 yards on running plays to LaSalle's 240 in the contest at Clarksburg in which Kenny Hamilton scored three of the Stripers' touchdowns. The teams battled to a 12-12 deadlock in the first half and the West Virginians sewed up the game by registering touchdowns in the third and final quarters.

Bill Hudson accounted for both LaSalle touchdowns and Newbrough made St. Mary's fourth six-pointer. Hamilton plunged the extra point after St. Mary's final touchdown.

The Explorers completed three of seven passes for 35 yards while the winners connected thrice in five tries for ten yards.

Pass Interception Wins

Halfback Charley Emery registered the lone touchdown in the third period in intercepting a pass and running 20 yards as Coach Fred Clark's Keyser High's Golden Tornado scored a 6-0 triumph over the Alumni. Each team racked up seven first downs. The victors accumulated 111 yards on running plays to the Alumni's 105.

•Moorefield And Fort Cumberland Reach Finals

Hardy County Tossers Beat Romney, 5 To 4

Local Legion Tops Centerville, 9 To 3

Two American Legion teams—Moorefield and Cumberland — became finalists in the Interstate Baseball League playoffs by eliminating Romney's Rockets and the Centerville Reds in games played yesterday at Moorefield and Community Park, this city.

Moorefield made it two straight in the best-of-three-games series by tripping Romney by the score of 5-4 while Fort Cumberland Post reached the finals in a hurry by defeating the Reds for the second straight day by the score of 9-3.

Cumbersand won the opener on Saturday by the score of 8-3 at Centerville while Moorefield emerged triumphant at Romney by the same score.

Same Teams Met In 1947

The Moorefield-Fort Cumberland series will likely get under way next Sunday. The same clubs battled it out in the finals last year with Moorefield being returned the victor.

Moorefield scored what proved to be the deciding run in the 7th inning when Johnny Seymour doubled and came home on Bob Keller's single.

Al Swick, Romney's starting and losing pitcher, batted in three of the losers' runs with two hits. "Ossie" Raines, veteran righthander, was credited with the victory although Marshall Yeider came on as relief hurler to throttle a threatening rally in the 8th frame.

Charley High contributed two nice one-handed catches and Dane McGee made a running catch in left field for the victors. Coppe and Seymour shared four of Moorefield's hits while Dick McElwee and Swick had two hits each for the Rockets.

Norman Geatz Is Winner

Norman Geatz kept ten hits well scattered and struck out a half dozen as the local Legion team put Centerville out of the running at the Wineow Street park.

Manager Bill Bracey's aggregation put the game on ice with a four-hit, five-run rally in the fourth inning. Elmer Freeland belted a two-run triple that knocked Holobinko out of the box and the veteran Milt Rose finished on the mound for the Reds.

The outstanding fielding play was contributed by Bob Pence, Legion shortstop. He took Veryl Nave's low liner on one bounce and hurried his throw to nip the runner by a half-step. Johnny Cox ad Glentis Streett also starred afield. D. W. Rose of Centerville paced the batters with three hits. The boxen:

Congregational Nine Defeats Eagles, 9-4

FROSTBURG, Sept. 12—Manager Fred Entler's Congregational Boys Club won the second game of the series for the championship of the Western Maryland Boys' Baseball League oy defeating the Frostburg Eagles today by the score of 9-4 at the Frostburg Ball Park.

The Eagles won the opener last week by the score of 7-6.

The third and deciding contest is set for next Sunday at 2:30 at the local park.

Lions Notch 38-10 Win Over Steelers

Dudley Scores Twice, Ray Evans Is Injured

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 12 (INS) — The Detroit Lions smothered the ineffective Pittsburgh Steelers, 38 to 10, in a National Football League exhibition today.

Bullet Bill Dudley, a former Steeler, scored two of the Lion touchdowns, one on a plunge and the other on a 36-yard pass from Clyde Laforce.

Cecil Souders, Ivan Schottel and Guard Bill Ward contributed the others. Ward recovered a Pittsburgh punt blocked by Kelley Mote for his, and Schottel ran a Steeler fumble 70 yards to the end zone.

Marvin Pregulman chalked up eight points, five of them conversions and the remainder a 33-yard field goal.

Joe Glamp scored all of Pittsburgh's points. His 18-yard field goal in the first period stood up until the last minute, when Joe Gasparella passed to Elbie Nickell, who laterallaed to Glamp for the score. Glamp added the conversion.

Ray Evans, Pittsburgh's high-priced rookie from Kansas University, went out early with a fractured rib cartilege. It was not known how long he would be sidelined. Score by periods:

DETROIT	7	3	14	14—38
PITTSBURGH	3	0	0	7—10

BRAVES STRENGTHEN LEAD

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 12—(INS)—Alvin Dark's single, his daring race to third on Earl Torgeson's sacrifice and Bill Salkeld's fly to right gave the Boston Braves a 2 to 1 victory in 13 innings over the Phillies in the second game of a double header today. The Phillies won the first game 6-4 in regulation innings.

In the first game the Phillies bunched 12 hits off three Boston pitchers, including Del Ennis' 26th homer to win. The second game was nip and tuck from the start with each team scoring a run in the third. Box:

Sewell Pitches Five-Hit Game, Beats Cubs, 7-3

Chicago Hurlers Pass Out 14 Free Tickets

CHICAGO, Sept. 12 (AP)—Truett (Rip) Sewell, who beats the Cubs almost by force of habit, pitched the second-place Pittsburgh Pirates to a 7-3 victory over Chicago today.

A crowd of 27,967 saw the veteran righthander record his seventh decision of the year over the Cubs on a yield of five hits.

Sewell got off to a shaky start but through the last seven innings allowed only two hits, one of them a homer by Hal Jeffcoat, a pinch batter. He walked no one, struck out four. One of the two early Cub runs was unearned, arising from a wild throw by Eddie Bockman on a made-to-order double play grounder.

Sewell now has a lifetime record of 33 victories over the Cubs, who have beaten him 19 times, once this season.

The Pirates took advantage of amazing generosity on the part of four pitchers to smooth Sewell's path. Among them, the Cub hurlers passed out 14 bases on balls, four of which arrived with the bases loaded and forced runners across the plate. Box:

GIANTS TRIP DODGERS

NEW YORK, Sept. 12 (INS) — The Brooklyn Dodgers continued to get good pitching today but also continued to lose to the New York Giants.

This time the score was 5 to 3 as the New Yorkers won their third straight from the Dodgers although they got only six hits off five Brooklyn pitchers.

Brooklyn stole New York's home run thunder when Duke Snider and Gene Hermanski hit for the circuit, but the bases were empty on both occasions.

Cleveland Browns Trounce Buffalo

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 12 (INS) —The Cleveland Browns continued their three-year supremacy over the Buffalo Bills today with a 42-13 trouncing before 35,340 fans in All-America Football Conference game.

The Browns took an early lead and were never headed.

Other Cleveland touchdowns were scored by Motley, Speedie, Graham, Colella and Sensanbaugher. The Buffalo tallies came from Chet Mutryn and Julie Rykovich.

Yankees Lose, 41-0

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 12 (AP) — San Francisco's Forty Niners, scoring in every period, crushed the powerful New York Yankees, 41-0, in an All America Conference football game, before an overflow crowd of 60,927.

It was the third straight league win for the Forty Niners and stamped Coach Buck Shaw's team as one of the strongest contenders for this year's championship.

CARDS EDGE REDS

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 12 (INS) — Marty Marion belted the eighth-inning single that gave the St. Louis Cardinals a 7 to 6 victory over Cincinnati today and moved the Cards past Brooklyn and into third place in the National League scramble.

The Redbirds blew a 5-0 lead before 18,391 moaning fans, but came back strong, breaking a 6-6 tie in the eighth on a walk, a sacrifice and Marion's hit. Reliefer Howie Pollet was the winner. Box:

Scheib Racks Up 13th Win Of Year Over Boston, 10-4

Athletics Top Bosox 7th Time In 11 Games

BOSTON, Sept. 12 (INS)—The Philadelphia Athletics scored nine runs in the last three innings, six of them in the ninth, to defeat the league-leading Boston Red Sox 10 to 4 today.

A crowd of 29,100 saw the Macks win their seventh games in eleven Boston starts by pounding Joe Dobson, Dave Ferriss, Earl Johnson and Tex Hughson for 15 hits.

Carl Scheib, 21-year-old righthander, went the route for the A's to annex his 13th triumph, despite being tagged for 12 safeties.

Moorefield And Fort Cumberland Reach Finals

Local Legion Tops Centerville, 9 To 3

Two American Legion teams—Moorefield and Cumberland — became finalists in the Interstate Baseball League playoffs by eliminating Romney's Rockets and the Centerville Reds in games played yesterday at Moorefield and Community Park, this city.

Moorefield made it two straight in the best-of-three-games series by tripping Romney by the score of 5-4 while Fort Cumberland Post reached the finals in a hurry by defeating the Reds for the second straight day by the score of 9-3.

Cumbersand won the opener on Saturday by the score of 8-3 at Centerville while Moorefield emerged triumphant at Romney by the same score.

Same Teams Met In 1947

The Moorefield-Fort Cumberland series will likely get under way next Sunday. The same clubs battled it out in the finals last year with Moorefield being returned the victor.

Moorefield scored what proved to be the deciding run in the 7th inning when Johnny Seymour doubled and came home on Bob Keller's single.

Al Swick, Romney's starting and losing pitcher, batted in three of the losers' runs with two hits. "Ossie" Raines, veteran righthander, was credited with the victory although Marshall Yeider came on as relief hurler to throttle a threatening rally in the 8th frame.

Charley High contributed two nice one-handed catches and Dane McGee made a running catch in left field for the victors. Coppe and Seymour shared four of Moorefield's hits while Dick McElwee and Swick had two hits each for the Rockets.

Norman Geatz Is Winner

Norman Geatz kept ten hits well scattered and struck out a half dozen as the local Legion team put Centerville out of the running at the Wineow Street park.

Manager Bill Bracey's aggregation put the game on ice with a four-hit, five-run rally in the fourth inning. Elmer Freeland belted a two-run triple that knocked Holobinko out of the box and the veteran Milt Rose finished on the mound for the Reds.

The outstanding fielding play was contributed by Bob Pence, Legion shortstop. He took Veryl Nave's low liner on one bounce and hurried his throw to nip the runner by a half-step. Johnny Cox ad Glentis Streett also starred afield. D. W. Rose of Centerville paced the batters with three hits. The boxen:

Congregational Nine Defeats Eagles, 9-4

FROSTBURG, Sept. 12—Manager Fred Entler's Congregational Boys Club won the second game of the series for the championship of the Western Maryland Boys' Baseball League by defeating the Frostburg Eagles today by the score of 9-4 at the Frostburg Ball Park.

The Eagles won the opener last week by the score of 7-6.

The third and deciding contest is set for next Sunday at 2:30 at the local park.

Lions Notch 38-10 Win Over Steelers

Dudley Scores Twice, Ray Evans Is Injured

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 12 (INS) — The Detroit Lions smothered the ineffective Pittsburgh Steelers, 38 to 10, in a National Football League exhibition today.

Bullet Bill Dudley, a former Steeler, scored two of the Lion touchdowns, one on a plunge and the other on a 36-yard pass from Clyde Laforce.

Cecil Souders, Ivan Schottel and Guard Bill Ward contributed the others. Ward recovered a Pittsburgh punt blocked by Kelley Mote for his, and Schottel ran a Steeler fumble 70 yards to the end zone.

Marvin Pregulman chalked up eight points, five of them conversions and the remainder a 33-yard field goal.

Joe Glamp scored all of Pittsburgh's points. His 18-yard field goal in the first period stood up until the last minute, when Joe Gasparella passed to Elbie Nickell, who lateralled to Glamp for the score. Glamp added the conversion.

Ray Evans, Pittsburgh's high-priced rookie from Kansas University, went out early with a fractured rib cartilege. It was not known how long he would be sidelined. Score by periods:

DETROIT	7	3	14	14—38
PITTSBURGH	0	0	0	7—10

BRAVES STRENGTHEN LEAD

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 12—(INS)—Alvin Dark's single, his daring race to third on Earl Torgeson's sacrifice and Bill Salkeld's fly to right gave the Boston Braves a 2 to 1 victory in 13 innings over the Phillies in the second game of a double header today. The Phillies won the first game 6-4 in regulation innings.

In the first game the Phillies bunched 12 hits off three Boston pitchers, including Del Ennis' 26th homer to win. The second game was nip and tuck from the start with each team scoring a run in the third. Box:

Sewell Pitches Five-Hit Game, Beats Cubs, 7-3

Chicago Hurlers Pass Out 14 Free Tickets

CHICAGO, Sept. 12 (AP)—Truett (Rip) Sewell, who beats the Cubs almost by force of habit, pitched the second-place Pittsburgh Pirates to a 7-3 victory over Chicago today.

A crowd of 27,967 saw the veteran righthander record his seventh decision of the year over the Cubs on a yield of five hits.

Sewell got off to a shaky start but through the last seven innings allowed only two hits, one of them a homer by Hal Jeffcoat, a pinch batter. He walked no one, struck out four. One of the two early Cub runs was unearned, arising from a wild throw by Eddie Bockman on a made-to-order double play grounder.

Sewell now has a lifetime record of 33 victories over the Cubs, who have beaten him 19 times, once this season.

The Pirates took advantage of amazing generosity on the part of four pitchers to smooth Sewell's path. Among them, the Cub hurlers passed out 14 bases on balls, four of which arrived with the bases loaded and forced runners across the plate. Box:

GIANTS TRIP DODGERS

NEW YORK, Sept. 12 (INS) — The Brooklyn Dodgers continued to get good pitching today but also continued to lose to the New York Giants.

This time the score was 5 to 3 as the New Yorkers won their third straight from the Dodgers although they got only six hits off five Brooklyn pitchers.

Brooklyn stole New York's home run thunder when Duke Snider and Gene Hermanski hit for the circuit, but the bases were empty on both occasions.

The Dodgers dropped from third place in the National League standing to fourth, below the St. Louis Cardinals, who beat Cincinnati. Box:

Cleveland Browns Trounce Buffalo

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 12 (INS) —The Cleveland Browns continued their three-year supremacy over the Buffalo Bills today with a 42-13 trouncing before 35,340 fans in All-America Football Conference game.

The Browns took an early lead and were never headed.

Other Cleveland touchdowns were scored by Motley, Speedie, Graham, Colella and Sensanbaugher. The Buffalo tallies came from Chet Mutryn and Julie Rykovich.

Yankees Lose, 41-0

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 12 (AP) — San Francisco's Forty Niners, scoring in every period, crushed the powerful New York Yankees, 41-0, in an All America Conference football game, before an overflow crowd of 60,927.

It was the third straight league win for the Forty Niners and stamped Coach Buck Shaw's team as one of the strongest contenders for this year's championship.

CARDS EDGE REDS

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 12 (INS) — Marty Marion belted the eighth-inning single that gave the St. Louis Cardinals a 7 to 6 victory over Cincinnati today and moved the Cards past Brooklyn and into third place in the National League scramble.

The Redbirds blew a 5-0 lead before 18,391 moaning fans, but came back strong, breaking a 6-6 tie in the eighth on a walk, a sacrifice and Marion's hit. Reliefer Howie Pollet was the winner. Box:

Scheib Racks Up 13th Win Of Year Over Boston, 10-4

Athletics Top Bosox 7th Time In 11 Games

BOSTON, Sept. 12 (INS)—The Philadelphia Athletics scored nine runs in the last three innings, six of them in the ninth, to defeat the league-leading Boston Red Sox 10 to 4 today.

A crowd of 29,100 saw the Macks win their seventh games in eleven Boston starts by pounding Joe Dobson, Dave Ferriss, Earl Johnson and Tex Hughson for 15 hits.

Carl Scheib, 21-year-old righthander, went the route for the A's to annex his 13th triumph, despite being tagged for 12 safeties.

Three Frostburg Soldiers Buried At Arlington

Interred At Mass Military Funeral

FROSTBURG — Three Frostburg area soldiers, Pvt. Robert E. Hawkins, Cpl. James T. Hawkins, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Watkin Hawkins, Grahamtown, and Sgt. George W. Hitchins, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Hitchins, Carlos, were buried with full military honors Friday at Arlington National Cemetery, Arlington, Va., with 17 of their comrades, at a mass military funeral in which a Protestant clergyman, a Catholic priest and a Jewish rabbi officiated at graves of members of their respective faiths.

Pvt. Robert E. Hawkins, attached to Company D, 262d Infantry, lost his life while crossing the English Channel December 24, 1944. He was 18 years old at the time of his death. Before he entered the military service, he was employed as a helper on the Layman Farm, Grahamtown.

Cpl. James T. Hawkins, attached to the Third Army Spearhead Division, was killed in action January 7, 1945 in the battle of the Belgian Bulge. He was 20 years old at the time of his death. Before being inducted into the military service, he was employed at the Celanese plant.

Sgt. George W. Hitchins, a former Celanese employe, was attached to the 175th Infantry. He was killed in Germany November 19, 1944. His remains were interred in Holland.

The remains of the three local soldiers arrived in this country August 22.

Cemetery Lot Holders Asked To Aid In Cleanup

Group To Mail Letters Soon

OAKLAND — Around 500 letters are being sent out to lot holders in Oakland Cemetery as the result of a recent meeting when an organization was formed to take over the care of the cemetery to preserve its beauty and to keep in a clean condition.

These letters are to be sent out early this week and will seek the cooperation of all lot owners in addition to contributions to carry on the work.

Mrs. E. Z. Tower, chairman of the committee, remarked that there were many loyal families who kept their lots in good condition but there were also a number of lots which were neglected because in some cases the last member of a family had died with no perpetual funds set aside, and because a number of families had moved from Oakland, with members not able to return to look after their lots.

She said there was much work to be done, dead trees to be removed, grass to be cut, graves to be kept clean, fallen tombstones that must be re-set; walks to be kept up, shrubbery and flowers to be looked after.

Clubs and fraternal organizations have offered to help but much depends on the lot owners, she said. Contributions are to be sent to John Treacy, treasurer. The letter also said it planned to have P. R. Maroney as regular sexton on a yearly basis, and that it was hoped that some day there would be a war memorial erected there.

Miss Julia Rowan is secretary of the organization. Herbert C. Leighton and Harry L. Stemple are members of the executive committee.

Lonaconing VFW Will March In Freedom Parade

LONACONING — Alvin C. Neat Post No. 5280, Veterans of Foreign Wars, is planning to have its drill team and members of the post in the parade to be held in Cumberland on September at 7:30 p. m. during the Rededication Program.

Elks' Treasurer And Wife Observe 50th Wedding Date With Reception

FROSTBURG—Scores of friends and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Casey, 121 Wood Street, called at their home yesterday afternoon to congratulate this well-known couple on their 50th wedding anniversary. The guests included many members of Frostburg Lodge No. 270, B. P. O. Elks, and Frostburg Council No. 1442, Knights of Columbus.

Mr. Casey, treasurer of the Frostburg Elks for many years, was head of the committee which purchased the historic building on East Main Street, now one of the most attractive Elks homes in Western Maryland. The purchase was made February 14, 1939 by Mrs. Casey's committee, subject to the approval of the Grand Lodge of Elks, which was later obtained.

Mr. Casey served Frostburg Council, Knights of Columbus, as Grand Knight for 11 years. He was a member of the group which reorganized the council in 1935 and was awarded an honorary membership in 1936 and a gold medal for outstanding service to the order.

The Casey home was decorated in a color scheme of gold and white for the reception held yesterday from 3 to 5 p. m. The refreshment table was centered with a large three-tiered wedding cake.

Misses Kathleen and Genevieve Footen, Anna and Helen Comer, Bernice Winner, Orpha Clark, Mrs. Nellie Thompson and Mrs. Gertrude Williams assisted in serving at the reception.

Tuesday morning the immediate family will attend a nuptial mass at 8 a. m. in St. Michael's Catholic Church, solemnized by Rev. Francis E. Montgomery, administrator. Mrs. Giles Maurey will be the soloist accompanied by Mrs. Richard Goldsworthy, organist.

Cemetery Lot Holders Asked To Aid In Cleanup

Group To Mail Letters Soon

OAKLAND — Around 500 letters are being sent out to lot holders in Oakland Cemetery as the result of a recent meeting when an organization was formed to take over the care of the cemetery to preserve its beauty and to keep in a clean condition.

These letters are to be sent out early this week and will seek the cooperation of all lot owners in addition to contributions to carry on the work.

Mrs. E. Z. Tower, chairman of the committee, remarked that there were many loyal families who kept their lots in good condition but there were also a number of lots which were neglected because in some cases the last member of a family had died with no perpetual funds set aside, and because a number of families had moved from Oakland, with members not able to return to look after their lots.

She said there was much work to be done, dead trees to be removed, grass to be cut, graves to be kept clean, fallen tombstones that must be re-set; walks to be kept up, shrubbery and flowers to be looked after.

Clubs and fraternal organizations have offered to help but much depends on the lot owners, she said. Contributions are to be sent to John Treacy, treasurer. The letter also said it planned to have P. R. Maroney as regular sexton on a yearly basis, and that it was hoped that some day there would be a war memorial erected there.

Homemakers Club At Flintstone Gets Five New Members

FLINTSTONE—Members of the Flintstone Homemakers Club were guests of Mrs. J. S. Roland at their September meeting Friday night at her home. Eighteen members and six visitors were present.

Five of the six visitors became members. They are Mrs. Clyde Bennett, Mrs. Chester Robinette, Mrs. Franklin H. Roland, Mrs. Howard Robinette and Miss Catherine Robinette.

Mrs. Roland explained community plans to sponsor a chicken supper Friday, October 1, at the Flintstone Fire Hall. Proceeds will go to the street lighting project, the date of the event being the first anniversary of the illumination of the town's first 10 street lights.

Plans are being made for the installation of four more lights soon. Members of the Homemakers Club will work on the project are Mrs. C. M. Nash, Mrs. D. W. Koontz, Mrs. Chester Robinette, Mrs. Guy Thompson and Miss Catherine Robinette.

Mrs. B. C. Robinette told the group of the meeting of the Allegany Council of Homemakers at the Cumberland Free Public Library last Thursday.

Flower arrangements were judged at the meeting, with entries being separated into two classes, small displays and large variety displays.

Mrs. B. C. Robinette and Miss Pearl Wilson won first place in the respective classes. Second place winners were Mrs. Robinette and Mrs. D. W. Robinette. Third place winners were Mrs. Leah B. Twigg and Mrs. H. V. Bender.

Mrs. R. O. Dolly read a paper on the Scarlet Tanager and the Cardinal.

RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

Marriage In Distress

Somewhere about the middle of N.B.C.'s recent hourlong documentary "Marriage in Distress," narrator Ben Grauer spoke out with some vehemence against the contemporary and peculiarly American habit of acquisitiveness. We drive ourselves harder and harder, Mr. Grauer said, in order to be able to afford cars, refrigerators, deep freezes — objects once considered luxuries but now found to be necessities. This acquisitive passion, Mr. Grauer lamented, is one of the reasons why so many modern marriages founder.

John Crosby

It's hardly a new idea but it's a decidedly strange one to find on N.B.C., which devotes much of its time—virtually all of it, in fact—to stimulating a thirst for cars, refrigerators and deep freezes. Mr. Grauer himself has been known to speak with enthusiasm about almost every mass-produced luxury there is; here he is deploring them.

To the historians of ideas, the fact that this particular one has crept on to the radio is some sort of milestone. The notion that there was something wrong in wanting to own the very newest car, the very latest style radio first bobbed up in the '20s when mass production first hit its stride. It was a new idea then, shiny as a '48 Kelvinator, and under the exclusive auspices of the latest model intellectuals — Huxley, Mencken, Nathan and Sinclair Lewis. In the last quarter century it has filtered down through the various strata of culture until it has now reached radio or bedrock. (Well, there's still the comic books.) At any rate, you must admit it's a durable idea and you'd think it had attained wide public acceptance in America, like democracy, but I see no evidence of it.

"Marriage in Distress," which incidentally was a very workmanlike job, was full of other ideas which are not at all new but, as I remarked earlier, rather surprising to find on N.B.C. There was, for example, a progressive lecture on Sex, a phenomenon discovered recently by Dr. Kinsey, delivered by a lusty old character known simply as Grandma. Grandma heartily agreed that sex was necessary for a number of reasons in addition to procreation, certainly a liberal point of view for her generation.

Perhaps the most treasonable expression of all was a glancing blow struck by Mr. Grauer at soap opera. Soap opera, Mr. Grauer observed, had given people the idea that matrimony consisted largely of infidelity, heartbreak and physical suffering, which, he pointed out, is a little exaggerated—a handsome admission from a network which derives a large part of its income from that source.

Lou Hazam, the author of the documentary, plunged into the various ills afflicting marriage with such profound scholarship that he came dangerously close to proving that there really wasn't much purpose in the silly business. Then apparently feeling guilty about reaching such a grim and anti-social conclusion, he made a hurried attempt in the last fifteen minutes to place marriage in a more hospitable light. Grandma delivered a spirited speech about procreation and happiness; Mendelssohn contributed his best known melody; and, in spite of it all, matrimony still lost on points.

Chief victims of this connubial bliss were a young married couple who were employed to illustrate all the less palatable aspects of modern marriage. There has been some criticism in other quarters that the couple was not typical enough. Well, they weren't but I sympathize with Mr. Hazam's problem. If he'd made them typical, they'd have been insipid; since he didn't, they weren't universal enough to meet the problem. The characters in any documentary are just demonstration models like the refrigerators in the ads; you can't expect them to resemble the people in your own home.

Nevertheless, I found "Marriage in Distress" an honest, thorough and interesting job of reporting and I'm happy to find N.B.C. grappling with such a thing. N.B.C. hasn't paid a great deal of attention to social problems in the past. Been too busy selling cars, refrigerators and deep freezes.

One last note: It appears to be impossible to produce a documentary any more without including a few quotes from Dr. Kinsey's manual on you-know. Some instinct tells me the celebrated doctor has already become the indisputable, almost sacrosanct authority that Dr. Freud once was. Literature, I suspect, will teem with Kinsetic observation to the point where sex ultimately is going to be as dull as somebody's psychoanalysis.

Cavalcade Of America Returns To Airway Tonight

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NE WYORK, Sept. 12—The waning summer is to bring back some more of radio's shows. For instance, on NBC there is Cavalcade of America, which at 8 p. m. Monday is winding up a rest period. In reintroducing itself, there will be Dick Powell to play in "Gettysburg" with Joan Loring.

On MBS at 1:15 Canada's Happy Gang will be back in action for a five-day schedule of half-hour music varieties.

A couple of new NBC daytimers will include a weekly concert, Contrasts, using music of the masters and the moderns, at 1 p. m. The other, songs by Jack Kilty, will be at 1:45 for five days a week. On ABC Challenge of the Yukon is rearranging itself, on behalf of a sponsor, into three half-hours a week on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays at 5 p . m.

Political broadcasting has been scheduled on two networks. At 8 on ABC from Philadelphia is to come a discussion of the Taft-Hartley labor law under auspices of the International Brotherhood of Boilermakers, Iron Ship Builders and Helpers.

Then at 10:30 on NBC Henry Wallace, president candidate on the Progressive ticket, is to start a series of seven weekly broadcasts, each to be for 15 minutes.

The Andrews sisters, just back from London, rejoin the Club Crosby of CBS at 7:30. Also Martha Tilton becomes the Monday and Thursday singer in the Jack Smith show, also CBS but at 7:15.

RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

Marriage In Distress

Somewhere about the middle of N.B.C.'s recent hourlong documentary "Marriage in Distress," narrator Ben Grauer spoke out with some vehemence against the contemporary and peculiarly American habit of acquisitiveness.

John Crosby

We drive ourselves harder and harder, Mr. Grauer said, in order to be able to afford cars, refrigerators, deep freezes — objects once considered luxuries but now found to be necessities. This acquisitive passion, Mr. Grauer lamented, is one of the reasons why so many modern marriages founder.

It's hardly a new idea but it's a decidedly strange one to find on N.B.C., which devotes much of its time—virtually all of it, in fact—to stimulating a thirst for cars, refrigerators and deep freezes. Mr. Grauer himself has been known to speak with enthusiasm about almost every mass-produced luxury there is; here he is deploring them.

To the historians of ideas, the fact that this particular one has crept on to the radio is some sort of milestone. The notion that there was something wrong in wanting to own the very newest car, the very latest style radio first bobbed up in the '20s when mass production first hit its stride. It was a new idea then, shiny as a '48 Kelvinator, and under the exclusive auspices of the latest model intellectuals — Huxley, Mencken, Nathan and Sinclair Lewis. In the last quarter century it has filtered down through the various strata of culture until it has now reached radio or bedrock. (Well, there's still the comic books.) At any rate, you must admit it's a durable idea and you'd think it had attained wide public acceptance in America, like democracy, but I see no evidence of it.

"Marriage in Distress," which incidentally was a very workmanlike job, was full of other ideas which are not at all new but, as I remarked earlier, rather surprising to find on N.B.C. There was, for example, a progressive lecture on Sex, a phenomenon discovered recently by Dr. Kinsey, delivered by a lusty old character known simply as Grandma. In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear Mother, Mrs. Rena Alice Jordan, who died Sept. 13, 1943.

There is not a day that passes, Mom,
We do not think of you.
Your face is in our memories still,
Your voice, your footsteps too.

There's many a lonely heartache,
There's many a silent tear,
God only knows how we miss you, Mom,
At the end of the 5th year.

Sadly missed by her children,
Mrs. John E. Robinette,
Mrs. Roy T. Charlton.

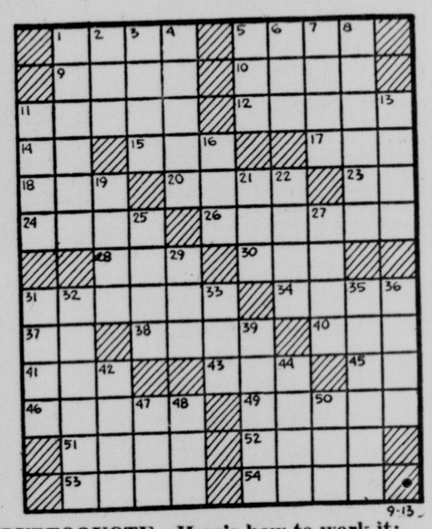
Saturday's Answer



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W
One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

D S K G J L K Y G Y H O K H X K N S X G-
N K E Q, D S K G J L K A X E E S K J U D Y X H
Q L J G D S K R J O N — S J L Y T K.

INDIA DENIES TROOPS INVADED HYDERABAD

NEW DELHI, India, Sept. 12 (AP)—India has announced anew her determination to take whatever action she considers necessary in the Hyderabad crisis, but a report that Indian troops have invaded the princely state was officially denied today.

V. P. Menon, states ministry secretary, wrote what was termed a final letter Saturday to Premier Mir Laik Ali, of Hyderabad, which is holding out against union with India.

The Nizam (ruler) of Hyderabad is a Moslem. About 80 per cent of the population of the state, which is entirely surrounded by the territory of Indian, is Hindu.

Menon wrote the Hyderabad Premier that "in the prevailing circumstances, the government of India hold themselves free now to take whatever action they consider necessary" to disband private armies and end what the Indians call disorder within the state.

Woman Has Her Third Straight Set Of Twins

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 12 (AP)—Mrs. Norman Williams, 36, of nearby Baldwinsville, has given birth to her third consecutive set of twins.

The babies, both boys, weighed five pounds, 12 ounces, and four pounds, six ounces at their birth yesterday. They have been named James and Martin, respectively.

Jap Storm Kills Scores

TOKYO, Monday, Sept. 13 (AP)—The newspaper Asahi reported today 33 Japanese killed and 70 missing in a storm which struck Sasebo, former naval base on Northwest Kyushu Island.

Other Japanese press dispatches reported 39 additional persons were killed elsewhere in Nagasaki Prefecture, in which Sasebo is situated.

waiting period after issuance of the license.

Mrs. Wall said she was going to "try to put on a very beautiful wedding with a lavish party following at the Sheraton Plaza Hotel."

Another problem which the couple faces is that Stephanie is of the Greek Orthodox faith but Hitchcock has been married twice before.

Stephanie, who has achieved the goal of most poor girl's dreams by winning the love of a handsome millionaire, has been noticably reluctant to speak about it. She refused to show newsmen her engagement ring and protested angrily at being compared to "Bobo" Rockefeller.

Miss Saja, who is 25, left the small mining town where she was born and went to New York to seek success and fortune. There she met the handsome millionaire whom she is to marry. Hitchcock is 43.

This year she tipped me off to what the pageant was like, helped me select my gowns."

Miss Shopp will leave for Minneapolis tomorrow with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward R. Shopp. After a few days at home, she will return to New York for a personal appearance, then go to the West Coast for a fashion show.

supplies to Western Berlin. Many of his listeners craned their necks to watch the C-54 Skymasters.

Gordejev declared the Red army had "liberated the world from Hitlerism" and that the Soviet Union was the strongest bulwark for peace.

"A new threat faces the world—American imperialism," he said.

The Soviet General contended that the splitting of Germany and Berlin was being fostered by American policies. On the other hand he said that Russia supported German desires for unity, return of sovereignity and withdrawal of all occupation forces.

DEATHS

MONROE KREGER

Monroe Kreger, 45, of 652 Baker Street, died Saturday in Memorial Hospital where he was admitted a few hours earlier. He had been ill only a short time.

Born at Confluence, Pa., he had worked as a barber here in recent years. He was a son of Mrs. Frances Kreger, this city, and the late Samuel Kreger.

Surviving, besides his mother, are four sisters, Mrs. Rebecca Baldwin, Dunbar, Pa.; Mrs. Eugene McNabb and Miss Betty Kreger, this city, and Mrs. Norris Jones, Ridgeley, and five brothers, George L. Kreger, Baltimore, and Charles A., William M., Roy J., and Joseph E. Kreger, all of Cumberland.

The body is at the Kight Funeral Home where a brief service will be held today at 12 o'clock noon with Rev. Frederick D. Oberkucher, pastor of Zion Reformed Church, officiating. Then the funeral cortege will leave for Ursina, Pa., for final rites at 3 p. m. in Jersey Church with Rev. Mr. Coffman officiating. Burial will be in the church cemetery.

DIBERT SERVICES

Services were held Saturday afternoon in Murley's Branch Methodist Church for Mrs. Susanna Dean Dibert, 83, Rush, who died Tuesday. Rev. B. F. Hartman, pastor of Flintstone Methodist Circuit, officiated and burial was in Rush Cemetery.

Pallbearers Ward and Dennis Yaider, Roland, Harold and Lecnard Dibert and Richard Twigg.

BAGEANT RITES

A funeral service for Cornelius Jackson Bageant, 55, of 44 South Street, who died Friday, will be conducted today at 2 p. m. from the home by Rev. Robert M. Campbell, pastor of Southminister Presbyterian Church. Interment will be in Hillcrest Burial Park.

MRS. MARGARET MALLON

Mrs. Margaret A. Mallon died yesterday at 5:30 a. m. in Gallanger Hospital, Washington, D. C. A native of Westernport, she was a daughter of the late James and Margaret Murphy Donohue.

Mrs. Mallon was a member of St. Stephen's Catholic Church, Washington, and the Sodality. She is survived by a sister, Mrs. Rose A. Huth, this city.

The body will arrive in Cumberland today.

MRS. MARTHA DUGAN

Mrs. Martha Ella Dugan, 86, aunt of Henry S. Morrissey, this city, died yesterday at 1 p. m. at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Mary Howard, Frederick. She had been in ill health for two years.

Mrs. Dugan was born in Cumberland, a daughter of the late John and Amanda Morrissey. Her husband was the late John Dugan.

Besides her daughter, she is survived by a sister, Mrs. Sims Shuck, Frederick, and a brother, James Morrissey, Baltimore.

The body will be taken to Stein Funeral Home here, Tuesday. A funeral service will be held Wednesday at 9 a. m. in St. Patrick's Catholic Church. Burial will be in the church cemetery.

REV. BECKER

A solemn requiem high mass for Rev. Bonaventure Becker, O.F.M. Cap., will be celebrated in St. Augustine's Church, Pittsburgh, at 10:15 a. m. tomorrow. Rev. Becker died Friday. A priest for over 50 years, he was 74.

A native of Pittsburgh, Father Becker entered the Capuchin Franciscan order at St. Mary's Monastery, Herman, Pa., in 1892. He entered the priesthood July 14, 1898.

Father Becker was stationed at SS. Peter and Paul Church here for several years, coming here in 1937. He served parishes at Herman, Wheeling and Charleston, W. Va. He was chaplain of St. Francis Hospital, Pittsburgh, for some years.

His body will lie in state in St. Anthony's Chapel in St. Augustine's Church until time for the service. Interment will be in St. Augustine's Cemetery, Millvale.

PHILLIPS RITES

A funeral service for Benjamin P. Phillips, 62, Bedford Road, who died Friday in Allegany Hospital was conducted yesterday in Stein's Funeral Chapel by Rev. David C. Watson, rector of Emmanuel Episcopal Church. Burial was in Allegany Cemetery, Frostburg.

Pallbearers were Clarence Andrews, Joseph Willison, Frank McKenzie, Charles Welsh, William Wampler and Charles Reuschlein.

MRS. BLANCHE LIZER

Mrs. Blanche M. Lizer, 69, former resident and native of Oldtown, died yesterday at 1:30 a. m. at her home, 14 West Potomac Street, Williamsport.

She was the daughter of the late Mrs. Lottie Haugh and a member of the Williamsport United Brethren Church and Daughters of Liberty.

She is survived by her husband, Joseph Wesley Lizer, Williamsport; the following children, Charles, Orville, Theodore and George Lizer, all of Williamsport; Mrs. Charles Davis, Frank E. Lizer and Mrs. Paul Strumbaugh, all of this city, and Mrs. Annabelle Palmer, Williamsport, and 17 grandchildren.

A funeral service will be held tomorrow at 2 p. m. in the Leaf Funeral Home, Williamsport. Rev. F. T. Kohler, pastor of the United Brethren Church, will officiate assisted by Rev. Cyril Hoover, pastor of the Williamsport Methodist Church. Burial will be in Riverview Cemetery.

Reserves Staff Members To Learn Firefighting

Both the Marine and Naval Reserve will send their station keepers, soon to be stationed at the new Marine and Naval Reserve training center, to a one-week fire fighters school at Norfolk Naval Base, members of the two staffs have announced.

Robert B. Horstman, chief shipfitter, USNR, and Sgt. Paul A. Divico, USMCR, will report at the school Sunday.

Completes Goodwill Tour

Clifford Lajoie Flanagan, chief machinist's mate, USN, husband of Mrs. Pauline Flanagan, Brants Road, Cresaptown, is among crew members of the heavy cruiser USS Macon to earn a "Well done" from Capt. Olin Scroggins, USN, commanding officer, for his part in a goodwill tour this summer to Europe and Cuba.

Subsistence Checks Due In November

Most veterans attending school in Maryland under the GI Bill will receive their first subsistence checks for the fall term early in November, W. A. Burns, officer in charge of the Cumberland Veterans Administration Office announced yesterday.

These checks will represent subsistence allowance for the period from the day the veteran enters school through October 31, he explained. The next checks will be delivered on or about December 1 to cover November allowances, and payments will be made monthly thereafter during the remainder of the school year.

In some instances, veterans will receive checks during October to cover September subsistence. This will be true where registration is completed and their papers are received by the Veterans Administration not later than September 20. However, the total of such payments is expected to be small.

Driver Who Lost Car Finds It

The man who told police he couldn't find his car Saturday night, did just that shortly after he left Police Station, according to officers.

George Blair Zufall, this city, who told police he had the same trouble before, called shortly before midnight to say he located the "lost vehicle" on Hanover Street.

In making the complaint, Zufall told police he drove a friend to Ridgeley and then returned to Cumberland and parked his car. Where he parked it was a big question for a brief period. But the answer, he told police, was "Hanover Street."

ROTC Graduates Subject To Call

Approximately 700 recent graduates of the Reserve Officers Training Corps will be ordered to active duty by the Department of Army under the 1948 Selective Service Act.

These ROTC graduates hold Reserve Commissions as 2nd Lieutenants and have had less than 90 days of continuous service. Most of them will report to duty about October 15th.

If the officer is a student of medicine or dentistry he will be allowed to complete his schooling before reporting to duty.

Area Youths To Enter Navy Airman's School

Malcolm W. Howard, Paw Paw, W. Va., and Clarence J. Shea, Jr., Frostburg, have entered the Navy for three years under the high school graduate training program, according to Torpedoman Edgar L. Schrader of the Cumberland recruiting office.

After basic training at Great Lakes Naval Training Station, the two will enter Airman's School.

Archbishop Goes Home

NEW BRITAIN, Conn., Sept. 12 (AP)—The Most Rev. Francis P. Keough, Archbishop of Baltimore, returned here today—"a local boy who has made good"—to preach the sermon at the 100th anniversary of St. Mary's Church during a high mass. It was the Archbishop's first appearance in his home town since his elevation to that high position earlier this year.

Baltimore Awaits Influx Of 7,000 State Teachers

County Children Get Holiday Oct. 7, 8

About 7,000 Maryland teachers are expected to attend the 81st annual convention of the Maryland State Teachers' Association October 7, 8 and 9 in Baltimore.

Allegany County School children will have their first vacation Thursday and Friday of that week as most of the teachers from this area are planning to go to the convention to be held in the Baltimore Fifth Regiment Armory.

The highpoint of the three-day gathering will be an extensive teachers' workshop October 8. It will include teaching demonstrations, discussions concerning improvements in special branches of education and talks by experts in their particular fields.

Musical groups from all over the state will be represented in the All-State chorus and All-State band which will perform before the teachers at the general sessions.

Actual business of the general session will begin at 2 p. m. with a concert of the All-Maryland High School band in the Armory Drill Hall following which Governor William Preston Lane, Jr., will greet the assembled teachers.

Pearl S. Buck, internationally known writer and lecturer, Nobel Prize winner and president of the East and West Association, will give the main address, "America Looks at Asia," closing the first general session.

The second general session Friday at 9:30 a. m. in the Armory Drill Hall will begin with a talk by Dr. Otto F. Kraushaar, new president of Goucher College. He will speak on "Educating for International Understanding." The All-Maryland High School Chorus, directed by Dr. Lara Hoggard, choral director of Fred Waring's "Pennsylvanians," will present a concert.

John W. Vandercook, news analyst and explorer, will give a talk entitled "Is the Marshall Plan Working" at the last general session Saturday morning. The band and chorus will give a concert before convention adjournment at noon.

W. Lee Elgin Gets National Office

W. Lee Elgin, commissioner of motor vehicles, was elected to the Executive Board of the American Association of Motor Vehicle Administrators at its annual meeting September 7-10 at the Book-Cadillac Hotel, Detroit, Mich. This national organization is comprised of motor vehicle commissioners of all of the states and the District of Columbia.

Two College Students Die In Auto Accident

MAHAFFEY, Pa., Sept. 12—(AP)—Two college students were killed and four other young persons injured today when their car failed to negotiate a curve and crashed into a tree.

The group was returning to their homes in Clearfield, 20 miles southwest of here, after attending a Saturday night dance in Carrolltown.

INDIA DENIES TROOPS INVADED HYDERABAD

NEW DELHI, India, Sept. 12 (AP)—India has announced anew her determination to take whatever action she considers necessary in the Hyderabad crisis, but a report that Indian troops have invaded the princely state was officially denied today.

V. P. Menon, states ministry secretary, wrote what was termed a final letter Saturday to Premier Mir Laik Ali, of Hyderabad, which is holding out against union with India.

The Nizam (ruler) of Hyderabad is a Moslem. About 80 per cent of the population of the state, which is entirely surrounded by the territory of Indian, is Hindu.

Menon wrote the Hyderabad Premier that "in the prevailing circumstances, the government of India hold themselves free now to take whatever action they consider necessary" to disband private armies and end what the Indians call disorder within the state.

Woman Has Her Third Straight Set Of Twins

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 12 (AP)—Mrs. Norman Williams, 36, of nearby Baldwinsville, has given birth to her third consecutive set of twins.

The babies, both boys, weighed five pounds, 12 ounces, and four pounds, six ounces at their birth yesterday. They have been named James and Martin, respectively.

Jap Storm Kills Scores

TOKYO, Monday, Sept. 13 (AP)—The newspaper Asahi reported today 33 Japanese killed and 70 missing in a storm which struck Sasebo, former naval base on Northwest Kyushu Island.

Other Japanese press dispatches reported 39 additional persons were killed elsewhere in Nagasaki Prefecture, in which Sasebo is situated.

Mrs. Wall said she was going to "try to put on a very beautiful wedding with a lavish party following at the Sheraton Plaza Hotel."

Another problem which the couple faces is that Stephanie is of the Greek Orthodox faith but Hitchcock has been married twice before.

Stephanie, who has achieved the goal of most poor girl's dreams by winning the love of a handsome millionaire, has been noticably reluctant to speak about it. She refused to show newsmen her engagement ring and protested angrily at being compared to "Bobo" Rockefeller.

Miss Saja, who is 25, left the small mining town where she was born and went to New York to seek success and fortune. There she met the handsome millionaire whom she is to marry. Hitchcock is 43.

Gordejev declared the Red army had "liberated the world from Hitlerism" and that the Soviet Union was the strongest bulwark for peace.

"A new threat faces the world—American imperialism," he said.

The Soviet General contended that the splitting of Germany and Berlin was being fostered by American policies. On the other hand he said that Russia supported German desires for unity, return of sovereignity and withdrawal of all occupation forces.

DEATHS

MONROE KREGER

Monroe Kreger, 45, of 652 Baker Street, died Saturday in Memorial Hospital where he was admitted a few hours earlier. He had been ill only a short time.

Born at Confluence, Pa., he had worked as a barber here in recent years. He was a son of Mrs. Frances Kreger, this city, and the late Samuel Kreger.

Surviving, besides his mother, are four sisters, Mrs. Rebecca Baldwin, Dunbar, Pa.; Mrs. Eugene McNabb and Miss Betty Kreger, this city, and Mrs. Norris Jones, Ridgeley, and five brothers, George L. Kreger, Baltimore, and Charles A., William M., Roy J., and Joseph E. Kreger, all of Cumberland.

The body is at the Kight Funeral Home where a brief service will be held today at 12 o'clock noon with Rev. Frederick D. Oberkucher, pastor of Zion Reformed Church, officiating. Then the funeral cortege will leave for Ursina, Pa., for final rites at 3 p. m. in Jersey Church with Rev. Mr. Coffman officiating. Burial will be in the church cemetery.

DIBERT SERVICES

Services were held Saturday afternoon in Murley's Branch Methodist Church for Mrs. Susanna Dean Dibert, 83, Rush, who died Tuesday. Rev. B. F. Hartman, pastor of Flintstone Methodist Circuit, officiated and burial was in Rush Cemetery.

Pallbearers Ward and Dennis Yaider, Roland, Harold and Lecnard Dibert and Richard Twigg.

BAGEANT RITES

A funeral service for Cornelius Jackson Bageant, 55, of 44 South Street, who died Friday, will be conducted today at 2 p. m. from the home by Rev. Robert M. Campbell, pastor of Southminister Presbyterian Church. Interment will be in Hillcrest Burial Park.

MRS. MARGARET MALLON

Mrs. Margaret A. Mallon died yesterday at 5:30 a. m. in Gallanger Hospital, Washington, D. C. A native of Westernport, she was a daughter of the late James and Margaret Murphy Donohue.

Mrs. Mallon was a member of St. Stephen's Catholic Church, Washington, and the Sodality. She is survived by a sister, Mrs. Rose A. Huth, this city.

The body will arrive in Cumberland today.

MRS. MARTHA DUGAN

Mrs. Martha Ella Dugan, 86, aunt of Henry S. Morrissey, this city, died yesterday at 1 p. m. at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Mary Howard, Frederick. She had been in ill health for two years.

Mrs. Dugan was born in Cumberland, a daughter of the late John and Amanda Morrissey. Her husband was the late John Dugan.

Besides her daughter, she is survived by a sister, Mrs. Sims Shuck, Frederick, and a brother, James Morrissey, Baltimore.

The body will be taken to Stein Funeral Home here, Tuesday. A funeral service will be held Wednesday at 9 a. m. in St. Patrick's Catholic Church. Burial will be in the church cemetery.

REV. BECKER

A solemn requiem high mass for Rev. Bonaventure Becker, O.F.M. Cap., will be celebrated in St. Augustine's Church, Pittsburgh, at 10:15 a. m. tomorrow. Rev. Becker died Friday. A priest for over 50 years, he was 74.

A native of Pittsburgh, Father Becker entered the Capuchin Franciscan order at St. Mary's Monastery, Herman, Pa., in 1892. He entered the priesthood July 14, 1898.

Father Becker was stationed at SS. Peter and Paul Church here for several years, coming here in 1937. He served parishes at Herman, Wheeling and Charleston, W. Va. He was chaplain of St. Francis Hospital, Pittsburgh, for some years.

His body will lie in state in St. Anthony's Chapel in St. Augustine's Church until time for the service. Interment will be in St. Augustine's Cemetery, Millvale.

Subsistence Checks Due In November

Most veterans attending school in Maryland under the GI Bill will receive their first subsistence checks for the fall term early in November, W. A. Burns, officer in charge of the Cumberland Veterans Administration Office announced yesterday.

These checks will represent subsistence allowance for the period from the day the veteran enters school through October 31, he explained. The next checks will be delivered on or about December 1 to cover November allowances, and payments will be made monthly thereafter during the remainder of the school year.

In some instances, veterans will receive checks during October to cover September subsistence. This will be true where registration is completed and their papers are received by the Veterans Administration not later than September 20. However, the total of such payments is expected to be small.

Driver Who Lost Car Finds It

The man who told police he couldn't find his car Saturday night, did just that shortly after he left Police Station, according to officers.

George Blair Zufall, this city, who told police he had the same trouble before, called shortly before midnight to say he located the "lost vehicle" on Hanover Street.

In making the complaint, Zufall told police he drove a friend to Ridgeley and then returned to Cumberland and parked his car. Where he parked it was a big question for a brief period. But the answer, he told police, was "Hanover Street."

ROTC Graduates Subject To Call

Approximately 700 recent graduates of the Reserve Officers Training Corps will be ordered to active duty by the Department of Army under the 1948 Selective Service Act.

These ROTC graduates hold Reserve Commissions as 2nd Lieutenants and have had less than 90 days of continuous service. Most of them will report to duty about October 15th.

If the officer is a student of medicine or dentistry he will be allowed to complete his schooling before reporting to duty.

Area Youths To Enter Navy Airman's School

Malcolm W. Howard, Paw Paw, W. Va., and Clarence J. Shea, Jr., Frostburg, have entered the Navy for three years under the high school graduate training program, according to Torpedoman Edgar L. Schrader of the Cumberland recruiting office.

After basic training at Great Lakes Naval Training Station, the two will enter Airman's School.

Baltimore Awaits Influx Of 7,000 State Teachers

County Children Get Holiday Oct. 7, 8

About 7,000 Maryland teachers are expected to attend the 81st annual convention of the Maryland State Teachers' Association October 7, 8 and 9 in Baltimore.

Allegany County School children will have their first vacation Thursday and Friday of that week as most of the teachers from this area are planning to go to the convention to be held in the Baltimore Fifth Regiment Armory.

The highpoint of the three-day gathering will be an extensive teachers' workshop October 8. It will include teaching demonstrations, discussions concerning improvements in special branches of education and talks by experts in their particular fields.

Musical groups from all over the state will be represented in the All-State chorus and All-State band which will perform before the teachers at the general sessions.

Actual business of the general session will begin at 2 p. m. with a concert of the All-Maryland High School band in the Armory Drill Hall following which Governor William Preston Lane, Jr., will greet the assembled teachers.

Pearl S. Buck, internationally known writer and lecturer, Nobel Prize winner and president of the East and West Association, will give the main address, "America Looks at Asia," closing the first general session.

The second general session Friday at 9:30 a. m. in the Armory Drill Hall will begin with a talk by Dr. Otto F. Kraushaar, new president of Goucher College. He will speak on "Educating for International Understanding." The All-Maryland High School Chorus, directed by Dr. Lara Hoggard, choral director of Fred Waring's "Pennsylvanians," will present a concert.

John W. Vandercook, news analyst and explorer, will give a talk entitled "Is the Marshall Plan Working" at the last general session Saturday morning. The band and chorus will give a concert before convention adjournment at noon.

Sunday Movie Ban Criticized In Mt. Savage

Reed Says Open All Or None In County

"I am in favor of legislation which will open all theaters in the county on Sunday, and if this isn't possible, then I favor legislation to close them all," Lester B. Reed, Mt. Savage, member of the House of Delegates from Allegany County told a mass meeting in the Majestic Theater at Mt. Savage last night.

Over 200 residents including representatives of a dozen active organizations attended a meeting called to protest last week's action of county officials in closing or ordering closed the Majestic Theater in Mt. Savage and The Potomac Drive-In Theater at Cresaptown.

Closed Week Ago

The State's Attorney yesterday a week ago said he had told the sheriff the law was being violated by Sunday motion picture operaters outside corporate limits and last Sunday Kenneth Baker, an officer of the Potomac Drive-In was arrested and the place closed by the sheriff. During the week, George Bishields and his sister Mrs. Yolanda Bishields Hutzell, who operate the Majestic in Mt. Savage were visited by the sheriff and a deputy and told, if they opened Sunday the place would be closed and charges preferred.

Friday, Mrs. Hutzell appealed to the County Commissioners and asked permission to operate. John T. Fey, attorney to the Board and a member of the House of Delegates explained the law which permits operation of Sunday movies in incorporated towns but fails to legalize them in unincorporated areas. Fey ruled the County Commissioners have no jurisdiction and indicated he would favor amending the law at the next session of the legislature.

Says Law Discriminates

Reed, while addressing the meeting last night declared the law in its present form discriminates against people in unincorporated areas and favors those in incorporated towns. He said he is surprised the legislature permitted such a measure to reach the statute books.

Explaining he could not speak for the entire delegation, Reed said he believes all of them will favor amending the law to permit all theaters to operate on Sunday, and if the others do not favor it, he will personally sponsor a bill to eliminate the present inequity.

J. E. Crump, well known Mt. Savage citizen presided at the meeting and introduced the several speakers.

Joseph Nolan, representing Victory Post American Legion suggested that the Courts in Allegany County might be petitioned for permission to operate the theater in Mt. Savage and Cresaptown area, between now and the first of the year when the State Legislature convenes. He expressed the opinion partiality is being shown in the present situation and the law and the interpretation of the law are extremely unfair.

Wants State Ruling

John Uhl, attending as a citizen and representative of the Knights of Columbus suggested that a ruling be obtained from the Attorney General of Maryland in the situation, since it was not intended in the law to discriminate against any theater operator.

Howard Herring represented the Junior Order United American Mechanics, Edward Murry represented Old Rail Post Veterans of Foreign Wars, an P. A. Fannon, another well known Mt. Savage citizen expressed the opinion the situation is unjust and that since most people in Mt. Savage want the theater operated Sunday as it has for the past 10 years, some method should be found to permit it.

Baker, operator of the Potomac Drive-In was present. He explained the situation at Cresaptown and expressed "my sincere apologies and sympathy to the Bishieds and people of Mt. Savage for helping bring about this situation." Baker declared, "if we had not opened the Drive-In, this wouldn't have happened, and we are sorry for the trouble it has caused." He said he believes the law is unfair and inequitable and suggested that action be taken to remedy the situation. The Drive - In theater remained closed yesterday.

Plans were made to circulate petitions throughout the county calling attention to the situation and urging that the theaters be treated on the same basis as other operators. The petitions are to be printed today.

Rent Bonuses Considered Illegal Overcharges

Bonuses used to circumvent ceiling rents are subject to the present rent control law just as are direct overcharges, Area Rent Director Walter R. Heath, Baltimore, has announced.

Landlords who fix their rents at ceiling prices but who require money bonuses, a new car, the buying of furniture or any other premium as a perequisite for rental are guilty of overcharging, Mr. Heath added.

Tenants who are required to pay any bonus in order to rent a place to live have recourse to the rental office in the city postoffice or may go into court on their own.

Paul Getz Injured

Paul Getz, 40, Mt. Savage, was treated in Miners Hospital last night at 8:15 p. m. for a lacerated left eye. Attaches said the injured man was struck by an automobile in Mt. Savage.

The Weather

Yesterday was a bright, shiny storybook day. The thermometer didn't go over 88, but Cumberlanders weren't shivering as they did the night before when the temperature reached a low of 52. Late last night it was still a warmish 66. The area is promised more of the same with a nice, warm afternoon.

Pageant Will Be Part Of Program Constitution Day

To Stress Program Of Freedom Train

The Woman's Civic Club will present a pageant, "Women in American History" as part of the women's mass meeting to be held Friday at 8 p. m. in the Recreation Hall of the Centre Street Methodist Church.

The mass meeting, in observance of Constitution Day, is part of the Rededication Week Program which will precede the arrival of the Freedom Train here September 22.

Mayor Thomas S. Post has asked the women of the city to unite on Friday in a program emphasizing the great heritage of freedom for which America stands.

Miss Mary G. Walsh was named chairman of the women's committee.

Fifty-three women's organizations, spear-headed by the Cresap Chapter, Daughters of American Revolution, will participate in Friday's meeting.

Mrs. J. A. Findlay and Mrs. William Claus, co-chairmen, assisted by Mrs. Frank Armstrong, Miss Fan Lloyd and Mrs. W. L. Pierce.

Mrs. Harry Deal is chairman of the Women's Civic Club pageant and Mrs. Earl S. Gower, Sr., will be the reader.

Others participating are Mrs. G. Morgan Smith, Mrs. Benjamin W. Wright, Mrs. Charles F. Helmrich, Mrs. Mortimer C. Schaidt, Mrs. John P. Zimmerman, Mrs. Lloyd H. Buchanan, Mrs. James W. Geppert.

A committee from the Junior Woman's Civic Club will handle properties for the pageant.

Agricultural Conference At University This Week

Bankers, farmers, and other agricultural workers will converge in large numbers at the University, College Park, on September 14-15 for Maryland's first agricultural conference.

Every section of the state will be represented at the meeting, sponsored jointly by University of Maryland, Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond and Maryland Bankers Association.

Dr. H. C. Byrd, president of the University of Maryland and Edward A. Wayne, vice-president, Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond, will be principal speakers at a dinner Tuesday.

The conference will be officially opened Tuesday morning by Norman B. Boyle, president of the bankers' association and secretary-treasurer of the Westminster Savings Bank.

Former Sergeant Leaves For Officer Training

First Lt. Edward H. Walker of the Marine Reserve inspector-instructors staff said yesterday that Lt. Ray N. Carter, formerly Tech. Sgt. Carter, will leave Monday for 5th Basic Class, Quantico, Va., to begin officer's training.

Lt. Carter has been stationed with the staff here as non-commissioned officer in charge of supplies and records since June 19th. He received notification of his promotion Wednesday.

According to Lt. Walker, Lt. Carter is one of the first NCO's to be given the opportunity for advancement under the policy inaugurated by the Marine Corps in June.

So far, there is no replacement for the former assistant-instructor-inspector.

Delivery Boy Is Struck By Car

A 15-year-old Mt. Savage youth, Aden Lavin, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Aden Lavin, was reported in good condition last night in Allegany Hospital where he was admitted Saturday after being struck by a car near his home.

Witnesses said the youth was returning after delivering a grocery order for a Mt. Savage store when he was struck by the car. Attaches said he suffered a fractured right leg and lacerations of the lower extremities.

Police said the car was driven by an Altoona, Pa., man, whom they did not identify.

BODY TO ARRIVE—The body of Sgt. John J. McKenzie, 29, RFD 5, this city, who was killed February 24, 1945 near Julich, Germany, will arrive in Cumberland tomorrow. Sgt. McKenzie is the son of Mrs. Alice Robison Clayton and the late Albert McKenzie.

Reburial Set For Sgt. J. J. McKenzie

The body of Sgt. John J. McKenzie, 29, son of Mrs. Alice Robison Clayton and the late Albert McKenzie, RFD 5, this city, who was killed in action February 24, 1945 near Julich, Germany, will arrive here tomorrow for reburial.

Sgt. McKenzie was born September 20, 1915 in Cresaptown. Before entering the service May 7, 1941, he was employed by the B. A. Mason Dairy, Cresaptown. He was a member of St. Ambrose Catholic Church, Cresaptown.

After embarking for overseas duty in October, 1942 with Company F, 115th Infantry, 29th Division, Sgt. McKenzie participated in the D-Day invasion of France. He was wounded four days later.

His mother received a certificate from Major Gen. Gerhardt saying that Sgt. McKenzie had been a member of the 29th Infantry on D-day and a member continuously from June 6, 1944 until the capture of St. Lo July 18, 1944.

He was killed while acting as a squad leader on the first day of the 29th Division attack on the Ruhr River.

He is survived by his mother and step-father, Brooks Clayton, Cersaptown; four brothers, Samuel J., Thomas E., William G., and Clarence M. McKenzie, all of Cresaptown; and four sisters, Mrs. Samuel Lease, Mrs. Thornton Lease and Mrs. George Clayton, all of Cresaptown, and Miss Nellie E. McKenzie, at home.

The body will be taken to the residence of his mother upon arrival. Cresaptown Post No. 209, American Legion, will be in charge of military honors.

Local Athletes Join Air Force For A Year

Two 18-year-old local high school athletes have enlisted in the Air Force of the United States for one year, First Lt. George J. Gocke of the local recruiting office, announced yesterday.

Jack Lewis, son of Mrs. Gladys P. Lewis, 411 Elder Street, played football and baseball for Fort Hill High School before his graduation in June.

John Stotler, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John Stotler, 1021 Virginia Avenue, played basketball for LaSalle High School for two years.

Both youths will leave Wednesday for San Antonio, Texas.

Other enlistments announced by Lt. Gocke were Allen J. S. Sipes, Little Orleans, United States Air Force; John E. McKenzie, Midland, Regular Army, unassigned; Paul E. Willard, Grantsville, Regular Army, unassigned; James D. Buskirk, Midland, Airborne, unassigned, and James E. Sanders, Frostburg, Regular Army, unassigned.

600 Area Firemen Attend Bi-County Group Outing

Judge Huster Is Main Speaker

About 600 area volunteer firemen attended the all-day picnic of the Allegany-Garrett County Volunteer Firemen's Association yesterday at Smouse's Beach.

The highlight of the program was an address by Chief Judge William A. Huster, who retired as Chief Judge of the Fourth Judicial Circuit yesterday.

Judge Huster, who reached the age of 70 yesterday, was presented a large birthday cake. In his address he thanked the volunteer firemen for their service, pointing out that few men are willing to give their services so freely without any remuneration.

Other features of the outing were an artificial respiration contest and a humorous demonstration of "How Not To Put Out a Fire" by Vigilant Reel and Hose Company No. 1, Keyser, W. Va.

The festivities began with a softball game at 10 a. m., followed by a barbequed beef dinner. After the dinner, Joseph Wenrich, president of the association, gave an address of welcome.

Other speakers were William Ecton, past president of the State Firemen's Association; Landon Walston, president of the state group; David Toohey, vice president; Spencer Brown, chairman of the fire booster committee of the state association, and Paul Reid, assistant chief of the Cumberland Fire Department. William Wilson, Midland, was master of ceremonies.

The fire-man Celanese Corporation first aid team won the artificial respiration contest, beating the B. and O. Bolt and Forge team by two points.

A "patient" who was assumed to be in a gas area was dragged out by two men of the team wearing gas masks. When the rescuers had brought the patient out of the gas area the other three men began applying artificial respiration while the rescuers removed their gas masks.

Scoring on the demerit system, one demerit being scored for each mistake in procedure. The Celanese team was charged with eight demerits and the Bolt and Forge team, 10.

Judges were R. D. Baker and Joseph Marshaoek, of the United States Bureau of Mines, Fairmont, W. Va.

Horseshoes and other games were played.

Mrs. Earle Smith Heads Maryland Legion Auxiliary

Mrs. Earle Smith, Lonaconing, was elected president of the American Legion Auxiliary at the state convention of the Legion in Ocean City yesterday. She was unopposed.

Mrs. Edna Hounshell, Cresaptown, was elected Auxiliary Mountain District vice president.

John D. Carmen, Joppa, was elected state commander at the convention. He defeated Milton J. Dance, 641 to 320 on the first ballot. Just before the voting which brought the five-day annual convention of the State Department of Maryland to a close, James C. Vancherie, Havre De Grace, withdrew as a candidate for commander.

Carmen, Dance and Vancherie are all World War I veterans.

Carmen has been a member of the State Executive Committee and is chairman of the important Legion Rehabilitation Committee.

Harry S. Allen, the retiring State Commander, defeated Joseph Doyle, Baltimore, in the election for national committeeman.

C. Floyd Feete, Brunswick, was named alternate national committeeman over Frank Schamell, Baltimore, and John DeBus, Baltimore, defeated Thorwald Steen, also a Baltimorean, in the election for sergeant-at-arms.

Serves On Honored Ship

Walter M. Mott, fireman, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Mott, Keyser, W. Va., is serving aboard the aircraft carrier USS Philippine Sea which has just been awarded the Battle Efficiency Pennant and "E" for her general excellence throughout the fiscal year July 1, 1947 to July 1, 1948.

Hitch Hiker Is Arrested After Armed Robbery

Takes Watch, $8 At Point Of Gun

A gun-toting hitch hiker who spent the night hiding in Garrett County woods after robbing Junior Bachtel, 21, Red House, of a wrist watch and $8 was in Garrett County Jail last night on a "armed robbery" charge.

Authorities said Marvin Leonard Wilhelm, Kitzmiller, was taken into custody at his home yesterday afternoon by Constable Roy Sowers whom he notified "to come and arrest me."

During an all-night search in the wooded section between Swanton and Kitzmiller, Wilhelm was sighted several times and fired on by Sheriff Juniper Teats, Garrett County, who joined in the search with two state policemen and the constable.

Police Quote Victim

Bachtel was quoted by authorities as saying he picked Wilhelm up on the east end of Oakland where the man was hitch hiking shortly before midnight Saturday.

Police said Bachtel turned into a road going to Red House and drove for a short period before Wilhelm stuck a .45 caliber pistod in his face.

"Just to prove that the pistol was not a toy," police said, Wilhelm fired a shot through the car window holding the pistol in front of Bachtel's face.

After taking the victim's money and watch, the bandit forced him to drive toward Swanton but the car ran out of gasoline a short distance from Lake's Service Station.

Bachtel told authorities the holdup man forced him to walk to the service station for gas, adding that he followed closely but kept hid in brush along the road.

As the driver returned to the car with a can of gas he threw the can at Wilhelm and fled. The bandit then ran into the woods where authorities searched for him throughout the night.

Sheriff Fires At Wilhelm

Several times during the search, Wilhelm was seen and identified, but authorities were unable to catch up with him. Sheriff Teats fired "in front" of the man to force him to stop.

After being arrested yesterday afternoon, Wilhelm told authorities that he walked about 14 miles through the woods to his home.

Police said the prisoner took the clip from his pistol and gave it to his wife to take to the constable. She also told the constable that her husband said to come to the home and arrest him.

The money and watch were recovered at the home, police said. Wilhelm is being held without bond in Garrett County jail to await action of the grand jury which convenes today.

Troopers T. M. Gilmore and Robert Hemline assisted in the search.

Wind Prolongs Model Airplane Contest Here

18 Crackups In Six-Hour Meet

Yesterday's model plane meet at Fort Hill Field was termed a success by officials although the meet was plagued by 20-mile-an-hour winds which prolonged the competition to six hours.

Winds were blamed for most of the 18 crackups in the 30 trial heats and the contest was delayed several times while the contestants waited for the wind to subside.

Earl M. Nonnenmann, local model enthusiast who promoted the meet, said several events were cancelled because of the high wind, and several planes were blown into the ground.

Prize winners in the speed competition follow:

Class A—Vernon Poole, Fort Hill High School student, first prize with an average of 55.5 miles per hour over the quarter-mile course, and Bruce Hershberger, with an average of 48.4 miles per hour.

There was no competition in Class C.

Hershberger also won the stunting competition. James Cook was second and Edward Alderton third.

The meet was highlighted jointly by a crackup and by a dog's antics during one of the stunting contests.

The smashup occurred during one of the trial heats for the class D competition when Hershberger's plane, clocked at 100 miles per hour during the first five laps, "hit the dirt" on the sixt and final lap. The motor was severed from the rest of the plane just in front of the wings.

First prizes consisted of engines. Second prizes were model plane kits, and third prizes were model knife sets.

Despite the heavy toll of planes and plane parts claimed by the high winds, no casualties to contestants or onlookers took place. All planes were flown on control lines.

Vernon Smith, Pittsburgh builder and designer of model planes, was meet director and G. Wyan Brenneman was chief starter. Donald H. Smith, George A. Ruhl and Derr Golladay were timekeepers.

Liller On Persian Cruise

R. E. Liller, seaman, USN, husband of Mrs. C. M. Liller, 13 Laing Avenue, is serving aboard the amphibious command ship USS Pocono, flagship of Vice Admiral Donald B. Duncan, USN, commander of the Second Task Fleet, on the Navy's 1948 Persian Gulf Cruiser. The Pocono is one of five ships making goodwill visits to the Persian Gulf ports.

FAIR ATTRACTIONS-- A quartet of talented singers is the Beau Jesters group, (top picture) who will present music of a wide range during the four-day Cumberland fair beginning at Fairgo tomorrow. Another of the many acts that will be presented in front of the grandstand, both day and night, is the Holly Duo, (bottom picture), famous for a mimicry act. The duo presents mimicry in masks with the grace and sophistication of true artists. Many other attractions are scheduled for the entertainment of those who attended the 31st annual Cumberland Fair, which is expected to have the largest and most attractive exhibits in its history.

Crowd Small At Park Pool On Closing Day

Only about 100 persons paid admission to Constitution Park Pool yesterday on the final day of the pool's operation for this season.

Henry Gehauf, pool manager, said that although the weather was good for swimming, too few people knew the pool was open because the weather has been so unsatisfactory during the past few weeks.

Gehauf said that although figures were not wet compiled, he thought the paid admission had fallen short of last year's mark. However, total attendance since the pool opened June 7 was somewhat higher than last year's, since the pool and the local chapter of the Red Cross sponsored several swimming schools at the pool.

The pool manager said attendance for the season was "very good," considering the unfavorable weather conditions which have prevailed.

During the season, the pool employed 11 persons, including three lifeguards. The bath house, pool and fence around the pool were painted, and some changes were made in the bath house.

The Mayor and City Council authorized the City Clerk to order a new filtration and recirculation system for the park recently, at an approximate cost of $17,000. The system is expected to be installed before next season.

Street Commissioner Edgar H. Reynolds pointed out last night that although the pool has closed, the park will remain open all winter. The Casino, located on the second floor of the bath house, may remain open also, he added.

Several improvements to the park were noted by Reynolds, who pointed out that two duck ponds have been constructed and a wild-life exhibit including a fawn, a pair of racoons and a pair of red foxes was placed in the park during the summer. Several gray squirrels were also released in the park and swings were erected at one of the favorite picnic spots.

Reynolds said it is hoped that some arrangements for skiing on a slope behind the pool will be made before winter, adding that plans for other improvements are being discussed..

Capt. Stafford Returns From Summer Duty

Capt. Thomas Stafford, unit instructor for the Allegany and Garrett County Army Organized Reserved Corps, returned yesterday from Camp Knox, Ky.

Capt. Stafford has completed approximately 90 days administrative duty with the summer training program of the ORC and National Guard.

M-Sgt. William Rogers has been in charge of the office in his absence.

Local Briefs

The East Side Playground Association will meet today at 8 p. m. in the Community Building, Central Avenue. Drexel Dodge, vice president, will preside.

4-H Winners From Little Orleans

Ted Puffenberger and Jimmie Smith, Little Orleans 4-H tractor maintainence team, won a $20 first prize in their class at the State Fair at Timonium, according to Joseph M. Steger, assistant county farm agent.

Gene Teters, Allegany County champion tractor operator, placed fifth among state operators. First place was won by Baltimore County.

Among the livestock teams, Perry Shyrock, Oakland, was a prize-winner. Placing in dairy judging class were Dale Harvey, Frostburg, and Jim Miltenberger, Cumberland.

The winners were announced at a Rural 4-H banquet held Tuesday under the sponsorship of the Timonium State Fair Board.

Mr. Steger said that in addition to vegetable and handicraft exhibits, the Allegany County 4-H Club will probably show more than 20 calves at the County fair opening tomorrow at Fairgo.

Tentative entrants are Harry Johnson, this city, six Ayrshires; Fred Miltenberger, this city, three Holsteins; Jim Miltenberger, this city, two Holsteins; Mary Miltenberger, this city, one Holstein; Dale Harvey, Frostburg, two Ayrshires; Leland Harvey, Frostburg, one Guernsey; Frank Anderson, Bedford Road, this city, one Holstein; Edward Miller, Midland, two Holsteins, and Jean Miller, Midland, one Holstein.

Firemen Called To Allegany Hospital

Firemen answered three calls yesterday, one to Allegany Hospital, but reported damage in all of the blazes was negligable.

The call to the hospital came at 2:08 p. m. and firemen said a steralizer in one of the rooms was overheated. The second call at 2:42 p. m. was to 171 North Street, where paper buring in a furnace caused a false alarm to be reported.

The South End company answered the last call when grass ignited in the rear of 518 Prince George Street. No damage was reported.

Local Man Injured Playing Football

Robert William Cage, 21, 105 Fifth Street, was admitted to Allegany Hospital yesterday with a fractured left ankle suffered while playing football. His condition was "good" according to hospital employes.

Edward Milburn, 33, Paw Paw, W. Va., was admitted to Allegany Hospital yesterday for examination and X-rays after he caught his right hand in a corn sheller. He sustained several lacerations and a possible cut tendon. He was reported in "good" condition.

5-Day County Fair Opens Tomorrow

Harness Races, Farm Exhibits To Feature

Cumberland's 1948 fair will open at Fairgo Tuesday morning featuring exhibits in agriculture, horticulture, live stock, poultry and pet stock and presenting three days of harness racing, a carnival and several afternoon and night vaudeville acts.

The fair, which is expected to attract record cattle entries, an outstanding poultry show and feature much of the work of county 4-H Clubs, will close Saturday night after a feature act of auto stunt driving is presented before the grandstand during the afternoon.

The 31st annual exhibit has the most extended premium list in the fair's history, according to Clifton W. White, president and general manager of the local association. In all, the premium list will include nine departments plus displays in poultry, pigeon and pet stock.

The premium list includes:

Department A — Livestock — will have R. F. McHenry as superintendent and Clarence O. Miller as assistant superintendent. Section 1, Dairy Cattle, has Guernsey, Holstein, Jersey and Ayrshire classifications. Section 2, Sheep, has Hampshire, Shropshire, Cheviot and Oxford classifications.

Department B—Agriculture — has Albert O'Neal as superintendent and George O. Wilson as assistant superintendent. Section 1—corn—has open pollinated yellow corn, open pollinated white corn, hybrid and popcorn classifications. There will also be a premium for the best single ear of any variety, and a Sweepstakes premium for the best 10 ears in the show. Section 2 lists Grain, Seeds and Grasses. Section 3, Vegetables, will have beans, beets, cabbage, cantaloupes, carrots, cauliflower, cucumbers, onions, peppers, pumpkins, squash, tomatoes, turnips and watermelons on exhibit. Section 4—Potatoes—lists eight classifications.

Department C—Fruit—will have George O. Wilson as superintendent. Section 1 will be apples; Section 2, crabapples; Section 3, grapes; Section 4, peaches; Section 5, pears; Section 6, plums; Section 7, quinces.

Department D—Honey and Wax—will have James Lindner as superintendent. George J. Abrams, University of Maryland Apiculturist, will be judge.

Department E — Household — will have Maude A. Bean and Gloria E. Bohn as supervisors. Mrs. Arthur Phillips will be there as County Fair chairman.

Department F — Children — will show needlework of those under 10 years of age, and those from 10 to 18 years.

Many 4-H Exhibits

Department G — 4-H Girls — will have Misses Bean and Bohn as supervisors. Christine Smith and Ursula Lindner will represent the County Fair committee.

Department H — 4-H Boys — will have Joseph M. Steger as superintendent. This department has 10 sections.

Departments G and H will have special club awards to encourage participation in exhibitions.

Department I—Future Farmers of America—lists four sections. James H. House will be supervisor.

The Poultry, Pigeon and Pet Stock Department will have H. C. Weber of Hagerstown as judge. C. A. Smith is manager and show secretary. The show committee will include Charles Smith, C. W. Light, William Stevenson, Ronald Smith and Robert Kliffner.

Outstanding Entertainment

Among the variety acts which will be presented daily in front of the grandstand will be that of Florence Hin Low, Chinese contortionist dancer.

The Beau Jesters, a talented young singing quartet, will present a varied program including harmony, old fashioned and modern settings, string marching songs and the ever popular barber shop and 'singing-waiter' numbers.

The Hollys, a versatile young couple who mimic famous stage and screen stars create the illusion of actually seeing those stars in person. The couple has been featured on nationwide networks and in leading entertainment places throughout the country.

The daredevil auto thrill show will be presented Saturday afternoon by Joie Chitwood who features 27 thrilling stunts on the program.

The harness races will feature three heats each day on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday with a purse of $405 for each event.

Music for the variety program and between races will be furnished by Frank Cervone's band. The organization is one of the outstanding bands in the nation today and will present a wide and varied repertoire ranging from operatic arias to popular medleys each day.

The carnival which will spread amusements, rides and shows along the mile long midway arrived last night and will present its first performances tonight.

White said the fair promises to be the most successful ever staged here and a widespread interest has been displayed by prospective exhibitors.

Four Area Men Join Marines

Four area men have been sent to Parris Island, S. C., Marine Base for recruit training, T. Sgt. Vernon M. Debnam of the local office, announced recently.

They are Walter Clark, 711 Arundel Street, this city; John Browning, Oakland; Bruce Deneen, Hyndman, Pa., and James Standle, Emily Street, this city.

Although unlimited re-enlistments of members of the Marines and Navy may be taken, Sgt. Debnam said, the September quota for first enlistments is closed. However, applicants are now being taken to fill the October quota.

Sgt. Debnam explained that there is a wide opportunity for advancement in rank for those who re-enlist as there is a shortage of non-commissioned officers in the corps at present.

Sunday Movie Ban Criticized In Mt. Savage

Reed Says Open All Or None In County

"I am in favor of legislation which will open all theaters in the county on Sunday, and if this isn't possible, then I favor legislation to close them all," Lester B. Reed, Mt. Savage, member of the House of Delegates from Allegany County told a mass meeting in the Majestic Theater at Mt. Savage last night.

Over 200 residents including representatives of a dozen active organizations attended a meeting called to protest last week's action of county officials in closing or ordering closed the Majestic Theater in Mt. Savage and The Potomac Drive-In Theater at Cresaptown.

Closed Week Ago

The State's Attorney yesterday a week ago said he had told the sheriff the law was being violated by Sunday motion picture operaters outside corporate limits and last Sunday Kenneth Baker, an officer of the Potomac Drive-In was arrested and the place closed by the sheriff. During the week, George Bishields and his sister Mrs. Yolanda Bishields Hutzell, who operate the Majestic in Mt. Savage were visited by the sheriff and a deputy and told, if they opened Sunday the place would be closed and charges preferred.

Friday, Mrs. Hutzell appealed to the County Commissioners and asked permission to operate. John T. Fey, attorney to the Board and a member of the House of Delegates explained the law which permits operation of Sunday movies in incorporated towns but fails to legalize them in unincorporated areas. Fey ruled the County Commissioners have no jurisdiction and indicated he would favor amending the law at the next session of the legislature.

Says Law Discriminates

Reed, while addressing the meeting last night declared the law in its present form discriminates against people in unincorporated areas and favors those in incorporated towns. He said he is surprised the legislature permitted such a measure to reach the statute books.

Explaining he could not speak for the entire delegation, Reed said he believes all of them will favor amending the law to permit all theaters to operate on Sunday, and if the others do not favor it, he will personally sponsor a bill to eliminate the present inequity.

J. E. Crump, well known Mt. Savage citizen presided at the meeting and introduced the several speakers.

Joseph Nolan, representing Victory Post American Legion suggested that the Courts in Allegany County might be petitioned for permission to operate the theater in Mt. Savage and Cresaptown area, between now and the first of the year when the State Legislature convenes. He expressed the opinion partiality is being shown in the present situation and the law and the interpretation of the law are extremely unfair.

Wants State Ruling

John Uhl, attending as a citizen and representative of the Knights of Columbus suggested that a ruling be obtained from the Attorney General of Maryland in the situation, since it was not intended in the law to discriminate against any theater operator.

Howard Herring represented the Junior Order United American Mechanics, Edward Murry represented Old Rail Post Veterans of Foreign Wars, an P. A. Fannon, another well known Mt. Savage citizen expressed the opinion the situation is unjust and that since most people in Mt. Savage want the theater operated Sunday as it has for the past 10 years, some method should be found to permit it.

Baker, operator of the Potomac Drive-In was present. He explained the situation at Cresaptown and expressed "my sincere apologies and sympathy to the Bishieds and people of Mt. Savage for helping bring about this situation." Baker declared, "if we had not opened the Drive-In, this wouldn't have happened, and we are sorry for the trouble it has caused." He said he believes the law is unfair and inequitable and suggested that action be taken to remedy the situation. The Drive - In theater remained closed yesterday.

Plans were made to circulate petitions throughout the county calling attention to the situation and urging that the theaters be treated on the same basis as other operators. The petitions are to be printed today.

Pageant Will Be Part Of Program Constitution Day

To Stress Program Of Freedom Train

The Woman's Civic Club will present a pageant, "Women in American History" as part of the women's mass meeting to be held Friday at 8 p. m. in the Recreation Hall of the Centre Street Methodist Church.

The mass meeting, in observance of Constitution Day, is part of the Rededication Week Program which will precede the arrival of the Freedom Train here September 22.

Mayor Thomas S. Post has asked the women of the city to unite on Friday in a program emphasizing the great heritage of freedom for which America stands.

Miss Mary G. Walsh was named chairman of the women's committee.

Fifty-three women's organizations, spear-headed by the Cresap Chapter, Daughters of American Revolution, will participate in Friday's meeting.

Mrs. J. A. Findlay and Mrs. William Claus, co-chairmen, assisted by Mrs. Frank Armstrong, Miss Fan Lloyd and Mrs. W. L. Pierce.

Mrs. Harry Deal is chairman of the Women's Civic Club pageant and Mrs. Earl S. Gower, Sr., will be the reader.

Others participating are Mrs. G. Morgan Smith, Mrs. Benjamin W. Wright, Mrs. Charles F. Helmrich, Mrs. Mortimer C. Schaidt, Mrs. John P. Zimmerman, Mrs. Lloyd H. Buchanan, Mrs. James W. Bishop, Mrs. F. Allan Weatherholt, Mrs. John T. Shirley, Mrs. David Sigel, Mrs. John R. Wilkinson, Mrs. John O. Durst, Mrs. John W. McClure, Jr., Mrs. Richard W. Trevaskis, Jr., and Mrs. William H. Geppert.

A committee from the Junior Woman's Civic Club will handle properties for the pageant.

Agricultural Conference At University This Week

Bankers, farmers, and other agricultural workers will converge in large numbers at the University, College Park, on September 14-15 for Maryland's first agricultural conference.

Every section of the state will be represented at the meeting, sponsored jointly by University of Maryland, Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond and Maryland Bankers Association.

Dr. H. C. Byrd, president of the University of Maryland and Edward A. Wayne, vice-president, Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond, will be principal speakers at a dinner Tuesday.

The conference will be officially opened Tuesday morning by Norman B. Boyle, president of the bankers' association and secretary-treasurer of the Westminster Savings Bank.

Former Sergeant Leaves For Officer Training

First Lt. Edward H. Walker of the Marine Reserve inspector-instructors staff said yesterday that Lt. Ray N. Carter, formerly Tech. Sgt. Carter, will leave Monday for 5th Basic Class, Quantico, Va., to begin officer's training.

Lt. Carter has been stationed with the staff here as non-commissioned officer in charge of supplies and records since June 19th. He received notification of his promotion Wednesday.

According to Lt. Walker, Lt. Carter is one of the first NCO's to be given the opportunity for advancement under the policy inaugurated by the Marine Corps in June.

So far, there is no replacement for the former assistant-instructor-inspector.

Delivery Boy Is Struck By Car

A 15-year-old Mt. Savage youth, Aden Lavin, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Aden Lavin, was reported in good condition last night in Allegany Hospital where he was admitted Saturday after being struck by a car near his home.

Witnesses said the youth was returning after delivering a grocery order for a Mt. Savage store when he was struck by the car. Attaches said he suffered a fractured right leg and lacerations of the lower extremities.

Police said the car was driven by an Altoona, Pa., man, whom they did not identify.

Rent Bonuses Considered Illegal Overcharges

Bonuses used to circumvent ceiling rents are subject to the present rent control law just as are direct overcharges, Area Rent Director Walter R. Heath, Baltimore, has announced.

Landlords who fix their rents at ceiling prices but who require money bonuses, a new car, the buying of furniture or any other premium as a perequisite for rental are guilty of overcharging, Mr. Heath added.

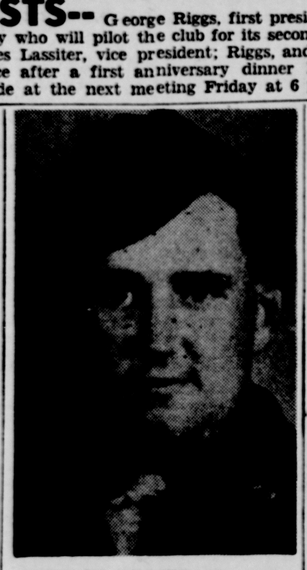
Tenants who are required to pay any bonus in order to rent a place to live have recourse to the rental office in the city postoffice or may go into court on their own.

Paul Getz Injured

Paul Getz, 40, Mt. Savage, was treated in Miners Hospital last night at 8:15 p. m. for a lacerated left eye. Attaches said the injured man was struck by an automobile in Mt. Savage.

The Weather

Yesterday was a bright, shiny storybook day. The thermometer didn't go over 88, but Cumberlanders weren't shivering as they did the night before when the temperature reached a low of 52. Late last night it was still a warmish 66. The area is promised more of the same with a nice, warm afternoon.



BODY TO ARRIVE—The body of Sgt. John J. McKenzie, 29, RFD 5, this city, who was killed February 24, 1945 near Julich, Germany, will arrive in Cumberland tomorrow. Sgt. McKenzie is the son of Mrs. Alice Robison Clayton and the late Albert McKenzie.

600 Area Firemen Attend Bi-County Group Outing

Judge Huster Is Main Speaker

About 600 area volunteer firemen attended the all-day picnic of the Allegany-Garrett County Volunteer Firemen's Association yesterday at Smouse's Beach.

The highlight of the program was an address by Chief Judge William A. Huster, who retired as Chief Judge of the Fourth Judicial Circuit yesterday.

Judge Huster, who reached the age of 70 yesterday, was presented a large birthday cake. In his address he thanked the volunteer firemen for their service, pointing out that few men are willing to give their services so freely without any remuneration.

Other features of the outing were an artificial respiration contest and a humorous demonstration of "How Not To Put Out a Fire" by Vigilant Reel and Hose Company No. 1, Keyser, W. Va.

The festivities began with a softball game at 10 a. m., followed by a barbequed beef dinner. After the dinner, Joseph Wenrich, president of the association, gave an address of welcome.

Other speakers were William Ecton, past president of the State Firemen's Association; Landon Walston, president of the state group; David Toohey, vice president; Spencer Brown, chairman of the fire booster committee of the state association, and Paul Reid, assistant chief of the Cumberland Fire Department. William Wilson, Midland, was master of ceremonies.

The fire-man Celanese Corporation first aid team won the artificial respiration contest, beating the B. and O. Bolt and Forge team by two points.

A "patient" who was assumed to be in a gas area was dragged out by two men of the team wearing gas masks. When the rescuers had brought the patient out of the gas area the other three men began applying artificial respiration while the rescuers removed their gas masks.

Scoring on the demerit system, one demerit being scored for each mistake in procedure. The Celanese team was charged with eight demerits and the Bolt and Forge team, 10.

Judges were R. D. Baker and Joseph Marshaock, of the United States Bureau of Mines, Fairmont, W. Va.

Horseshoes and other games were played.

Mrs. Earle Smith Heads Maryland Legion Auxiliary

Mrs. Earle Smith, Lonaconing, was elected president of the American Legion Auxiliary at the state convention of the Legion in Ocean City yesterday. She was unopposed.

Mrs. Edna Hounshell, Cresaptown, was elected Auxiliary Mountain District vice president.

John D. Carmen, Joppa, was elected state commander at the convention. He defeated Milton J. Dance, 641 to 320 on the first ballot. Just before the voting which brought the five-day annual convention of the State Department of Maryland to a close, James C. Vancherie, Havre De Grace, withdrew as a candidate for commander.

Carmen, Dance and Vancherie are all World War I veterans.

Carmen has been a member of the State Executive Committee and is chairman of the important Legion Rehabilitation Committee.

Harry S. Allen, the retiring State Commander, defeated Joseph Doyle, Baltimore, in the election for national committeeman.

C. Floyd Peete, Brunswick, was named alternate national committeeman over Frank Schamell, Baltimore, and John DeBus, Baltimore, defeated Thorwald Steen, also a Baltimorean, in the election for sergeant-at-arms.

Serves On Honored Ship

Walter M. Mott, fireman, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Mott, Keyser, W. Va., is serving aboard the aircraft carrier USS Philippine Sea which has just been awarded the Battle Efficiency Pennant and "E" for her general excellence throughout the fiscal year July 1, 1947 to July 1, 1948.

Hitch Hiker Is Arrested After Armed Robbery

Takes Watch, $8 At Point Of Gun

A gun-toting hitch hiker who spent the night hiding in Garrett County woods after robbing Junior Bachtel, 21, Red House, of a wrist watch and $8 was in Garrett County Jail last night on a "armed robbery" charge.

Authorities said Marvin Leonard Wilhelm, Kitzmiller, was taken into custody at his home yesterday afternoon by Constable Roy Sowers whom he notified "to come and arrest me."

During an all-night search in the wooded section between Swanton and Kitzmiller, Wilhelm was sighted several times and fired on by Sheriff Juniper Teats, Garrett County, who joined in the search with two state policemen and the constable.

Police Quote Victim

Bachtel was quoted by authorities as saying he picked Wilhelm up on the east end of Oakland where the man was hitch hiking shortly before midnight Saturday.

Police said Bachtel turned into a road going to Red House and drove for a short period before Wilhelm stuck a .45 caliber pistol in his face.

"Just to prove that the pistol was not a toy," police said, Wilhelm fired a shot through the car window holding the pistol in front of Bachtel's face.

After taking the victim's money and watch, the bandit forced him to drive toward Swanton but the car ran out of gasoline a short distance from Lake's Service Station.

Bachtel told authorities the holdup man forced him to walk to the service station for gas, adding that he followed closely but kept hid in brush along the road.

As the driver returned to the car with a can of gas he threw the can at Wilhelm and fled. The bandit then ran into the woods where authorities searched for him throughout the night.

Sheriff Fires At Wilhelm

Several times during the search, Wilhelm was seen and identified, but authorities were unable to catch up with him. Sheriff Teats fired "in front" of the man to force him to stop.

After being arrested yesterday afternoon, Wilhelm told authorities that he walked about 14 miles through the woods to his home.

Police said the prisoner took the clip from his pistol and gave it to his wife to take to the constable. She also told the constable that her husband said to come to the home and arrest him.

The money and watch were recovered at the home, police said. Wilhelm is being held without bond in Garrett County jail to await action of the grand jury which convenes today.

Troopers T. M. Gilmore and Robert Hemline assisted in the search.

Wind Prolongs Model Airplane Contest Here

18 Crackups In Six-Hour Meet

Yesterday's model plane meet at Fort Hill Field was termed a success by officials although the meet was plagued by 20-mile-an-hour winds which prolonged the competition to six hours.

Winds were blamed for most of the 18 crackups in the 30 trial heats and the contest was delayed several times while the contestants waited for the wind to subside.

Earl M. Nonnenmann, local model enthusiast who promoted the meet, said several events were cancelled because of the high wind, and several planes were blown into the ground.

Class A—Vernon Poole, Fort Hill High School student, first prize with an average of 55.5 miles per hour over the quarter-mile course, and Bruce Hershberger, with an average of 48.4 miles per hour.

There was no competition in Class C.

The smashup occurred during one of the trial heats for the class D competition when Hershberger's plane, clocked at 100 miles per hour during the first five laps, "hit the dirt" on the sixt and final lap. The motor was severed from the rest of the plane just in front of the wings.

First prizes consisted of engines. Second prizes were model plane kits, and third prizes were model knife sets.

Despite the heavy toll of planes and plane parts claimed by the high winds, no casualties to contestants or onlookers took place. All planes were flown on control lines.

Vernon Smith, Pittsburgh builder and designer of model planes, was meet director and G. Wyan Brenneman was chief starter. Donald H. Smith, George A. Ruhl and Derr Golladay were timekeepers.

Liller On Persian Cruise

R. E. Liller, seaman, USN, husband of Mrs. C. M. Liller, 13 Laing Avenue, is serving aboard the amphibious command ship USS Pocono, flagship of Vice Admiral Donald B. Duncan, USN, commander of the Second Task Fleet, on the Navy's 1948 Persian Gulf Cruiser. The Pocono is one of five ships making goodwill visits to the Persian Gulf ports.

FAIR ATTRACTIONS-- A quartet of talented singers is the Beau Jesters group, (top picture) who will present music of a wide range during the four-day Cumberland fair beginning at Fairgo tomorrow. Another of the many acts that will be presented in front of the grandstand, both day and night, is the Holly Duo, (bottom picture), famous for a mimicry act. The duo presents mimicry in masks with the grace and sophistication of true artists. Many other attractions are scheduled for the entertainment of those who attended the 31st annual Cumberland Fair, which is expected to have the largest and most attractive exhibits in its history.

Crowd Small At Park Pool On Closing Day

Only about 100 persons paid admission to Constitution Park Pool yesterday on the final day of the pool's operation for this season.

Henry Gehauf, pool manager, said that although the weather was good for swimming, too few people knew the pool was open because the weather has been so unsatisfactory during the past few weeks.

Gehauf said that although figures were not wet compiled, he thought the paid admission had fallen short of last year's mark. However, total attendance since the pool opened June 7 was somewhat higher than last year's, since the pool and the local chapter of the Red Cross sponsored several swimming schools at the pool.

The pool manager said attendance for the season was "very good," considering the unfavorable weather conditions which have prevailed.

During the season, the pool employed 11 persons, including three lifeguards. The bath house, pool and fence around the pool were painted, and some changes were made in the bath house.

The Mayor and City Council authorized the City Clerk to order a new filtration and recirculation system for the park recently, at an approximate cost of $17,000. The system is expected to be installed before next season.

Street Commissioner Edgar H. Reynolds pointed out last night that although the pool has closed, the park will remain open all winter. The Casino, located on the second floor of the bath house, may remain open also, he added.

Several improvements to the park were noted by Reynolds, who pointed out that two duck ponds have been constructed and a wild-life exhibit including a fawn, a pair of racoons and a pair of red foxes was placed in the park during the summer. Several gray squirrels were also released in the park and swings were erected at one of the favorite picnic spots.

Reynolds said it is hoped that some arrangements for skiing on a slope behind the pool will be made before winter, adding that plans for other improvements are being discussed..

Capt. Stafford Returns From Summer Duty

Capt. Thomas Stafford, unit instructor for the Allegany and Garrett County Army Organized Reserved Corps, returned yesterday from Camp Knox, Ky.

Capt. Stafford has completed approximately 90 days administrative duty with the summer training program of the ORC and National Guard.

Local Briefs

The East Side Playground Association will meet today at 8 p. m. in the Community Building, Central Avenue. Drexel Dodge, vice president, will preside.

County Tractor Team Is Tops At State Fair

4-H Winners From Little Orleans

Ted Puffenberger and Jimmie Smith, Little Orleans 4-H tractor maintainence team, won a $20 first prize in their class at the State Fair at Timonium, according to Joseph M. Steger, assistant county farm agent.

Gene Teters, Allegany County champion tractor operator, placed fifth among state operators. First place was won by Baltimore County.

Among the livestock teams, Perry Shyrock, Oakland, was a prize-winner. Placing in dairy judging class were Dale Harvey, Prostburg, and Jim Miltenberger, Cumberland.

The winners were announced at a Rural 4-H banquet held Tuesday under the sponsorship of the Timonium State Fair Board.

Mr. Steger said that in addition to vegetable and handicraft exhibits, the Allegany County 4-H Club will probably show more than 20 calves at the County fair opening tomorrow at Fairgo.

Tentative entrants are Harry Johnson, this city, six Ayrshires; Fred Miltenberger, this city, three Holsteins; Jim Miltenberger, this city, two Holsteins; Mary Miltenberger, this city, one Holstein; Dale Harvey, Prostburg, two Ayrshires; Leland Harvey, Prostburg, one Guernsey; Frank Anderson, Bedford Road, this city, one Holstein; Edward Miller, Midland, two Holsteins, and Jean Miller, Midland, one Holstein.

Firemen Called To Allegany Hospital

Firemen answered three calls yesterday, one to Allegany Hospital, but reported damage in all of the blazes was negligable.

The call to the hospital came at 2:08 p. m. and firemen said a steralizer in one of the rooms was overheated. The second call at 2:42 p. m. was to 171 North Street, where paper buring in a furnace caused a false alarm to be reported.

The South End company answered the last call when grass ignited in the rear of 518 Prince George Street. No damage was reported.

Local Man Injured Playing Football

Robert William Cag., 21, 105 Fifth Street, was admitted to Allegany Hospital yesterday with a fractured left ankle suffered while playing football. His condition was "good" according to hospital employes.

Edward Milburn, 33, Paw Paw, W. Va., was admitted to Allegany Hospital yesterday for examination and X-rays after he caught his right hand in a corn sheller. He sustained several lacerations and a possible cut tendon. He was reported in "good" condition.

5-Day County Fair Opens Tomorrow

Harness Races, Farm Exhibits To Feature

Cumberland's 1948 fair will open at Fairgo Tuesday morning featuring exhibits in agriculture, horticulture, live stock, poultry and pet stock and presenting three days of harness racing, a carnival and several afternoon and night vaudeville acts.

The fair, which is expected to attract record cattle entries, an outstanding poultry show and feature much of the work of county 4-H Clubs, will close Saturday night after a feature act of auto stunt driving is presented before the grandstand during the afternoon.

The 31st annual exhibit has the most extended premium list in the fair's history, according to Clifton W. White, president and general manager of the local association. In all, the premium list will include nine departments plus displays in poultry, pigeon and pet stock.

The premium list includes:

Department A — Livestock — will have R. F. McHenry as superintendent and Clarence O. Miller as assistant superintendent. Section 1, Dairy Cattle, has Guernsey, Holstein, Jersey and Ayrshire classifications. Section 2, Sheep, has Hampshire, Shropshire, Cheviot and Oxford classifications.

Department B—Agriculture — has Albert O'Neal as superintendent and George O. Wilson as assistant superintendent. Section 1—corn—has open pollinated yellow corn, open pollinated white corn, hybrid and popcorn classifications. There will also be a premium for the best single ear of any variety, and a Sweepstakes premium for the best 10 ears in the show. Section 2 lists Grain, Seeds and Grasses. Section 3, Vegetables, will have beans, beets, cabbage, cantaloupes, carrots, cauliflower, cucumbers, onions, peppers, pumpkins, squash, tomatoes, turnips and watermelons on exhibit. Section 4—Potatoes—lists eight classifications.

Department C—Fruit—will have George O. Wilson as superintendent. Section 1 will be apples; Section 2, crabapples; Section 3, grapes; Section 4, peaches; Section 5, pears; Section 6, plums; Section 7, quinces.

Department D—Honey and Wax—will have James Lindner as superintendent. George J. Abrams, University of Maryland Apiculturist, will be judge.

Department E — Household — will have Maude A. Bean and Gloria E. Bohn as supervisors. Mrs. Arthur Phillips will be there as County Fair chairman.

Department F — Children — will show needlework of those under 10 years of age, and those from 10 to 18 years.

Many 4-H Exhibits

Department G — 4-H Girls — will have Misses Bean and Bohn as supervisors. Christine Smith and Ursula Lindner will represent the County Fair committee.

Department H — 4-H Boys — will have Joseph M. Steger as superintendent. This department has 10 sections.

Departments G and H will have special club awards to encourage participation in exhibitions.

Department I—Future Farmers of America—lists four sections. James H. House will be supervisor.

The Poultry, Pigeon and Pet Stock Department will have H. C. Weber of Hagerstown as judge. C. A. Smith is manager and show secretary. The show committee will include Charles Smith, C. W. Light, William Stevenson, Ronald Smith and Robert Kliffner.

Outstanding Entertainment

Among the variety acts which will be presented daily in front of the grandstand will be that of Florence Hin Low, Chinese contortionist dancer.

The Beau Jesters, a talented young singing quartet, will present a varied program including harmony, old fashioned and modern settings, string marching songs and the ever popular barber shop and 'singing-waiter' numbers.

The Hollys, a versatile young couple who mimic famous stage and screen stars create the illusion of actually seeing those stars in person. The couple has been featured on nationwide networks and in leading entertainment places throughout the country.

The daredevil auto thrill show will be presented Saturday afternoon by Joie Chitwood who features 27 thrilling stunts on the program.

The harness races will feature three heats each day on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday with a purse of $405 for each event.

Music for the variety program and between races will be furnished by Frank Cervone's band. The organization is one of the outstanding bands in the nation today and will present a wide and varied repertoire ranging from operatic arias to popular medleys each day.

The carnival which will spread amusements, rides and shows along the mile long midway arrived last night and will present its first performances tonight.

White said the fair promises to be the most successful ever staged here and a widespread interest has been displayed by prospective exhibitors.

Four Area Men Join Marines

Four area men have been sent to Parris Island, S. C., Marine Base for recruit training, T. Sgt. Vernon M. Debnam of the local office, announced recently.

They are Walter Clark, 711 Arundel Street, this city; John Browning, Oakland; Bruce Deneen, Hyndman, Pa., and James Standle, Emily Street, this city.

Although unlimited re-enlistments of members of the Marines and Navy may be taken, Sgt. Debnam said, the September quota for first enlistments is closed. However, applicants are now being taken to fill the October quota.

Sgt. Debnam explained that there is a wide opportunity for advancement in rank for those who re-enlist as there is a shortage of non-commissioned officers in the corps at present.

Beall High Expands Courses, Lifts Education Advantages

Two new departments, speech correction and guidance have been added, facilities expanded in the music and auto driving department and the metal shop re-opened after closing two years because of the inability to get a qualified instructor.

Ralph Kessler, county supervisor of special education, will be here today to select students for the speech correction class. The course will be taught by Miss Ann McLuckie of the English Department and will be a part of the daily curriculum. Designed to aid those with impediments of speech, the class will be opened to students enrolled in Grade Eight or through the four high school classes. Those in need of additional instruction will be given an opportunity to study modern speech corrective measures. This is the first time that such a course has been offered locally at a public high school.

Richard Byrne, a new member of the faculty, has been assigned to the staff in the capacity of a full time guidance counselor. His office will be open daily for the benefit of students who wish to consult him on courses to pursue, occupational information and other problems deemed important to teen-agers. He will serve as a personnel director, and with the aid of adaptability tests, place students in fields of endeavor where they are best suited.

Raymond Sauder, of the Social Studies Department, will handle the automobile driving classes which heretofore has been confined to class room instruction only. This year the department, equipped with a dual-drive 1948 sedan will carry the course to final stages of practical application. Students will be taught in groups of four in the machine, equipped with duplicate driving devices to be operated from the front seat.

Professor Sauder, in addition to his work in Frostburg, will conduct classes in high schools in Lonaconing, Barton and Westernport.

The Music Department, formerly handled by one instructor, is headed by Franklin Chermock and Miss Rebecca Stotler as assistant. Courses in music as well as work in the various musical organizations, including the band, orchestra and vocal courses, will be placed in the daily school hour schedule. This addition was made to remove some of the load in the after school hour activity program. Previously a number of out-of-town students, riding school buses, were excluded from participation in various musical organizations and others interested in athletics, found after school schedules conflicting.

The metal shop opened its doors when Anthony Laus, industrial arts instructor, was assigned to the faculty. In the shop students are taught proper methods of handling lathes, shapers and milling machines, and a course in sheet metal construction.

The faculty this year reached its highest peak with 38 members. There are 906 students enrolled.

City "Dux" Loop Opens Sept. 21

The City Duck Pin League, will open September 21 with eight teams participating. The 105 matches are scheduled every Tuesday night from 7 p. m. to 9 p. m. and from 9 p. m. to 11 p. m. at the Majestic Sports Center.

Teams listed include: Majestic Sports Center, Lyric, Elks Lodge, Duchess Grill, Pecks Cafe, American Legion, Twiggs and The K. of C. The games will be played in two sets with four teams beginning at 7 p.m. and ending at 9 p.m. and the second four playing until 11 p.m.

The first four teams in the finals will roll a "Shaughnessy Roll Off" for the championship. The list of players will be announced following a meeting at Twiggs Restaurant tomorrow night.

Albert Via will serve as president of the league and Andy DiAbaldo, prominent in sports circles throughout Allegany county, will be secretary.

30 Men Report For Teachers' Soccer Squad

Coach Kenneth Babcock, Frostburg State Teachers College, started soccer practice this week with a turn out of 30 men, including ten veterans. The season at State will officially open September 25, when Black and Gold booters meet Towson State Teachers College here.

The schedule includes games with Slippery Rock, October 1, here; Lockhaven, October 8, away; Carnegie Tech, October 16, away; Penn State, October 23, here; University of Virginia, November 6, here; Indiana State Teachers College, November 13, here. October 30 is an open date.

Captain Bob Thomas is back to fill the center half position. Other members back from last year's squad include James Skidmore, fb; John Frank, g; Roy Pepper, w; Ray Wenner, il; Bill Best, rh; Charles Kershner, lh; Bill Kildow, rw; Augustine Diaz, il; Richard Fram, fb; Joe Byrnes, ir; Gene Flynn and Donald Lewis.

New men are Bill Kroll, Carl Kallmeyer, Allan Williams, John Donneley, Donald Devore, David Lewis, Dale Coleman, Gerald Conway and Charles Bowman.

The college athletic department has announced a full program of intermural sports will be conducted and include a touch football league, a tennis tournament and a soccer series.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Miller, Youngstown, Ohio and Mrs. Conrad E. Kroll, Grahamtown, are home after visiting Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Negosta, Silver Spring, Md.

Theodore Brode, Frost Avenue, Extended, is a patient in Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, where he underwent an operation Wednesday.

Grid Mountaineers To Face Allegany Friday At 8 P. M.

Coach Joseph Hoopengardner's Mountaineers of Beall High School will meet Coach Bob Pence's Allegany High Campers at Fort Hill stadium Friday night at 8 in the football curtain raiser for both schools.

Other possible starters include Robert Delaney, Ronald Lancaster, Norman Gaudio, Clarence Rice, Larry Grim, William Mills, Edward Moran, and Earl Hopkins.

Fifteen members of last year's squad are back and six will start in the Allegany game.

Other games scheduled include: October 1, Keyser, away; October 9, Berkeley Springs, away; October 30, Fort Hill, here; November 6, Charles Town, away; November 13, Romney, here; November 20, Romney here; and November 25, the annual Turkey Day game here with LaSalle.

Other members of the squad are Robert Grey, b; Ralph Garritano, g; Thomas Miller, e; Glenn Lewis, g; Ray Richardson, b; Orville Steele, b; Frank Diehl, b; Jim Moran, b; Edward Blair, b; Harry Brannon, b; John Wolfe, b; Jack Fisher, g; Richard Duncan, g; Edward Thomas, e; Sherman Black, b; Donald Sires, t; and Percy Witt, b.

Hoopengardner announced that all home games will be played at Frostburg State Teachers College field.

Absenteeism Cuts Smokes

OXFORD, England—(AP)—"An improvement of only one per cent in the absenteeism rate in British coal mines would give us an increase of around two million tons of coal a year," Alfred Robens, Parliamentary secretary to the ministry of fuel, said in a speech here.

"Every ton of coal exported brings us enough foreign exchange to buy 123 gallons of petrol or 10,000 cigarettes from the U. S. A.", he added. If Britain can exceed her coal exports target this year the secretary raised the hope that "little extras" migh be possible."

Maj. Williams Finds U. S. Customs Amazing During Visit On Leave From Nursing Duties

After a year in Canada, Major Patricia Oakley Williams, on leave from the Canadian-Polish Unit of the Nurse Corps, is completing her sight-seeing tour with an extensive visit in Frostburg, the guest of her cousin, Mrs. W. D. Reese, Beall Street.

Arriving in this country two months ago, the Frostburg visitor comes to Allegany county with an unusual insight on conditions resulting from world conflict, gained through more than a quarter century in the service of her country as a nurse on the battlefields and in hospitals, rehabilitation centers and places where only miraculous escapes saved her from enemy capture.

Finding a haven of refuge here in the mountains, untouched by the ravages of war, the Major plans to seek an extension of six months, to prolong her stay.

Participating in many dangerous encounters during World War II, Miss Williams received her commission in 1944 as Major in the Canadian-Polish Unit, Nurse Corps, for her outstanding achievements in ministering to the sick and wounded on the battlefront. In 1940, she, with her corps of nurses, was listed as missing, but after a seven day trip from Dunkirk, on a small English yacht, they succeeded in evading the torpedoes of German submarines and battleships and arrived in England.

MAJOR WILLIAMS

Miss Williams began her army career in 1921, serving as a captain in the Greco-Turkish War, with a hospital unit in Athens, Smyrna, Asia Minor and Turkey. For her heroic deeds she was awarded the Silver Cross of the Order of the Redeemer, a heart decoration of Greece.

A graduate of St. David's College in Wales, Miss Williams enrolled as a student in St. Bartholomew's School of Nursing, London, England, and completed the five-year course, the required time for nurses in that country.

Born in Solva, Pembrokeshire, South Wales, Major Williams has, since coming to this country, met and renewed acquaintances with many relatives of Welsh and English lineage who have settled in America and Canada.

Major Williams and Mrs. Reese are cousins of the Welsh writer, Richard Llewellyn, author of the novel "How Green Was My Valley."

The Major is constantly amazed, and at times astonished at the customs and fashions of the American people and marvels at the low cost of merchandise, as compared in England, and the easy-going comfortable living manners of the people.

One needs but to cast a casual glance at the Major and be instantly reminded of a staunch, active woman of remarkable ability, able to perform the duties of her profession, and come through in any emergency.

The Mission church at Acoma, N. M., has walls four to eight feet thick which keep out the cold in winter and the heat in summer.

Cigarette Hound

BERWICK, England—(AP)—A conspicuous sign in all tobacco shops says, "No cigarettes," but sometimes there are some under the counter. So the talents of Robert Beasley's dog are extremely useful in these days of tobacco famine. He has learned to "retrieve" cigarettes, going right back of the counter to forage. Beasley is smoking regularly.

Mrs. Odgers has been active in Pythian work for more than 35 years.

Catch Not Fishy

CAIRO, Ill.—(AP)—A small boy thought he had a whopper on his fishing line but hauled in a hand truck. The catch piqued the curiosity of the police and they went fishing too. They pulled in a cracked safe. It had been missing since a $400 safe burglary at a bottling firm several days ago.

Burglar Grounded

SINGAPORE—(AP)—A shot fired in the air brought a would-be burglar effectively to the ground here. He was climbing the fence into a military depot when spotted by a sentry, who fired into the air. The frightened fence-climber fell down—and fractured his leg. Now he's in the hospital.

Claims Champ Tree

PHILADELPHIA—(AP)—The Germantown Cricket Club lays claim to a new national champion— a yellow wood tree with a 13-foot trunk circumference. Russell Mathews, club grounds keeper, says the tree's girth is one foot greater than the present record yellow wood at Lawrenceville, N. J.

Love Of Outdoors Takes Local Pair Over 25,000 Miles Afoot

After more than a quarter century of exploring wonders of "Mother Nature" in the mountains and valleys of Western Maryland, Walter A. Cook and Thomas Condon plan even more extensive excursions by foot travel in an activitiy that has kept them healthy, alert and well fortified against life's usual recessions.

Included in their itinerary of hikes has been Hoyes Farm, John's Rock and other sections of Garrett county as far as Finzel, and Pocahontas, Pa.; Dan's Rock, Midlothian, Shaft, Carlos, Morantown, circling around the Y at Allegany, Borden Mines, Mt. Savage, and on to the hills surrounding Porter's Cemetery, and doubling back to come through at Clarysville, taking in a radius of approximately 25,000 miles in the 25 years excursions or 1,000 miles each year.

Cook, a former Celanese employee now retired, has two children, a son, Neil, sergeant of the Homicide Squad, Washington, D. C., and a daughter, Mrs. Gertrude Cook Frederick, and two grand-daughters, Cleveland, Ohio. He is an ardent baseball fan, attending all the local games and keeping abreast of the world of sports via radio. He has traveled by plane to different parts of the country.

Condon, brother of Joseph Condon, local business man, is a retired Baltimore and Ohio Machinist, still interested in the work at the B. and O., visiting the shops in Cumberland, and just recently returned from Chicago, where he attended the B. and O. Fair. He is a former member of the Arion Band, joining that organization when still in his youth. He is unmarried and moved to this city from Eckhart in 1922.

Both men are still active, enjoy good health, and are keeping young, attributing their vitality to their everyday outdoors life. They are now making plans to explore more distant sections of the area

State College To Begin New Year Tomorrow

Lillian C. Compton, president of Frostburg State Teachers' College, announced that resident students will register today and classes will start tomorrow.

Nurses in training at Memorial will be entertained at a luncheon tomorrow and will report for classes tomorrow, Wednesday and Friday. Allegany students will receive college instruction today and Thursday. A total of 72 nurses will be enrolled.

All freshman tests and entrance interviews were given Thursday and a number of campus activities were conducted for the new students this weekend.

President Compton announced that the womens residence hall has been redecorated. Rooms were painted, drapes supplied, tables refinished, beds re-knapped, and all floors refinished.

Other college improvements include the remodeling of class rooms in the main hall, showers painted, new lockers and asphalt tile flooring installed in the main hall, the lower hall, and in the passageway between the administration building and the main class hall. New electrical fixtures have been erected in the gymnasium.

New members of the college faculty include Dr. Glenn Lenbke, dean of instruction and education; Dr. Irvin Brune, math and physical science; Dr. R. N. Lesebre, zoology and biology; Joseph Kohout, anatomy and micro-biology; Peter Turano, American history and political science; Dr. Herrick Bawden, psychology and Miss Rosann Langhans, art and social director.

Bass vs. Beetles In Potomac River

HAGERSTOWN—(AP)—The Japanese beetle, whose life in the U.S. is made pleasant by an often-bemoaned lack of natural enemies, has found a deadly foe in the Potomac.

Fishermen here reported that Potomac bass are gorging themselves on the pests falling into the stream from trees alongside it. At least one local angler, Roy Hurd, said he had been using beetle bait with success.

Autopsies on captured bass performed by other fisherman curious to find out why the fish weren't striking well have disclosed bellyfuls of beetles. Which might give a clue to Japanese beetle control strategists. All they have to do now, it seems, is to find a way to get the beetles into bass-filled rivers or bass into beetle-filled trees.

Collector Sets Tea For Donors Of Pitchers

Miss Elizabeth Workman Nears Goal Of 200 After Three Years' Waiting

Miss Elizabeth Workman, Maple Street, will entertain with a tea at her home for guests who have been donors of pitchers in her collection after she has received 50 more of the miniature jugs. Her goal is 200 ewers, set three years ago when she made plans for the tea.

Miss Workman has received contributions from friends and relatives who have acquired unusual urns in their travels in both this and foreign countries.

The smallest one, one-fourth inch in size was made in New Mexico, and is a gift from Mrs. Margaret Watson Scott, this city. Another of unusual design is more of the antique style and was presented by Mrs. Susan Broman, Pittsburgh, Pa. Two of the smaller vessels are gifts from Miss Kathleen Wolfe and Mrs. Mary McLuckie, and one of the larger pitchers was presented by Mrs. Bessie Bannatyne Grim, East College Avenue.

When asked the worth of the pitchers, Miss Workman stated, "In cash—not a great deal; in sentiment—a fortune."

Miss Workman is a member of the faculty of Grantsville Elementary School, teaching the fourth grade for the past seventeen years and engaging in 4-H club work. She was recently awarded a scholarship for her outstanding achievements as local leader of the club and received a short course at the University of Maryland, College Park, which included a visit to the White House and a tour of the Nation's Capital. She is a Past President of the Pioneer Class of Mt. Zion Welsh Memorial Church; Past Councilor of Star of Frostburg Council, Daughters of America; Past Noble Grand of the Rebecca Degree; Past Pocahontas of Minnehaha Council; a member of Sons and Daughters of Liberty Council; Director of Baptist Training Union, and is now serving as Vice-President of Frostburg Homemakers Club and Secretary of Allegany-Garrett County Sunday School Association.

Miss Workman lives with her mother, Mrs. John R. Workman, 168 Maple Street, where her collection is on display and has been viewed by many residents of this city and surrounding towns.

PITCHER COLLECTION—Miss Elizabeth Workman is shown examining her collection of pitchers which includes many from foreign countries. She plans a tea when her goal of 200 is reached. Guests will be the many friends and relatives who have sent her items for her collection.

Over-Rich In Monuments

PARIS—(AP)—France has more historical monuments than she knows what to do with.

The Education Ministry has classified 12,000 cathedrals, chateaux, etc. as historical monuments.

Many erstwhile rich Frenchman, now fallen upon hard times, have been offering their ancient houses to the government, which has been turning them down for lack of funds to keep them up.

Ministers To Meet Tonight At Methodist Church Home

Officers are: president, the Rev. Watson Holley, pastor of the Methodist Church; and secretary-treasurer, the Rev. John Cameron Taylor, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church.

Members are Revs. Donald A. Vosseler, English Baptist Church; Walter D. Merhling, Zion Evangelical and Reformed Church; Oscar Bowman, Church of the Brethren; George Wehler, Salem Evangelical and Reformed Church; William D. Reese, former pastor of the Welsh Baptist Church; John Wesley Maybury, Church of the Nazarene; J. F. Zimmerman, First Congregational Church; Sidney Aldridge, Eckhart Baptist Church and Charles Meade, Eckhart Methodist Church.

All members as well as retired ministers and ministers who have recently come to this area are invited to attend.

Watchman Of The Night

CARMI, Ill.—(AP)—A pair of trousers and an empty wallet found on a river bank led authorities to investigate the case as a drowing. But they went to the address given in the wallet, they found the man feared drowned. The trousers, wallet and $30 were stolen while he had been sleeping. At the time, he said, he was on duty for an oil firm as a night watchman.

C. W. LAYMAN (top)
ROBERT C. HOHING

Woody Layman, Bob Hohing Keep Business Established By Family In Past Generation

Robert C. Hohing and G. Woodrow Layman are maintaining businesses here which were established by their families two or more generations ago.

Hohing, a war veteran, who endured months of deprivation as a prisoner of war, again has the Hohing name painted on a window glass on Frostburg's main drag, as did his father and grandfather before him.

"Bob", the third generation in his family to carry on the tradition, entered the business when he was still in high school in 1932, working extra for the firm, then known as Otto Hohing and Son. His father and grandfather had established the business in the Stern Building, 51 East Main Street in 1905.

As years went on Conrad and Phillip, two of the original founders withdrew to enter other fields and Otto Sr., and Jr., continued the business until the death of the elder Hohing. Otto Hohing, 2nd, continued the business with his sons, Otto, 3rd, Richard and Bob. With time, history repeated itself, and the business was in the hands of the father and one son, Bob, the present owner.

After the death of Otto Hohing II, in 1941, Bob purchased the business from the estate and continued it at 45 East Main Street.

In 1943, a going out-of-business sign appeared on its display windows. The owner sold much of his equipment and all of his stock before closing the doors on the business that had then been operated here for 43 years. He entered the Army and was assigned to the Infantry. With two years in service and only a few furloughs home, Bob, was one of those Infantrymen who fought in the Battle of the Bulge, and December, 1944, found him marching to a German prison camp while the word received here was "missing in action."

He was confined to Bad Orb for over four months. He was released and sent back to the States and taken to the Welsh Convalescent Hospital at Daytona Beach, Florida, to recuperate.

In October, 1945, he returned home to find all available business space on Main Street in use. He went to Boston and worked in a men's clothing store, and after six months, again returned to Frostburg, found a location at 53 East Main Street and set about the task of re-opening the business. By August, 1946, boxes of stock were again stacked neatly on the shelves an

C. W. LAYMAN (top)
ROBERT C. HOHING

Woody Layman, Bob Hohing Keep Business Established By Family In Past Generation

Robert C. Hohing and G. Woodrow Layman are maintaining businesses here which were established by their families two or more generations ago.

Hohing, a war veteran, who endured months of deprivation as a prisoner of war, again has the Hohing name painted on a window glass on Frostburg's main drag, as did his father and grandfather before him.

"Bob", the third generation in his family to carry on the tradition, entered the business when he was still in high school in 1932, working extra for the firm, then known as Otto Hohing and Son. His father and grandfather had established the business in the Stern Building, 51 East Main Street in 1905.

As years went on Conrad and Phillip, two of the original founders withdrew to enter other fields and Otto Sr., and Jr., continued the business until the death of the elder Hohing. Otto Hohing, 2nd, continued the business with his sons, Otto, 3rd, Richard and Bob. With time, history repeated itself, and the business was in the hands of the father and one son, Bob, the present owner.

After the death of Otto Hohing II, in 1941, Bob purchased the business from the estate and continued it at 45 East Main Street.

In 1943, a going out-of-business sign appeared on its display windows. The owner sold much of his equipment and all of his stock before closing the doors on the business that had then been operated here for 43 years. He entered the Army and was assigned to the Infantry. With two years in service and only a few furloughs home, Bob, was one of those Infantrymen who fought in the Battle of the Bulge, and December, 1944, found him marching to a German prison camp while the word received here was "missing in action."

He was confined to Bad Orb for over four months. He was released and sent back to the States and taken to the Welsh Convalescent Hospital at Daytona Beach, Florida, to recuperate.

John F. Rizer Retires From Marine Corps

After twenty years in the Marine Corps, John F. Rizer has returned home and is residing with his wife, the former Miss Lena Marten, at the home of her mother, Mrs. Emma Marten, 93 Washington Street.

Rizer, son of the Mrs. Alfred Rizer, Zihlman, retired August 1 from government service. He enlisted December 13, 1928 and served overseas, was wounded at Okinawa, and made several trips across the ocean during and after the war.

Sportsmen Back Carpenter For Game Warden Post

The Allegany-Garrett County Sportsmen's Association, meeting Tuesday at the Gunter Hotel, endorsed Paul Carpenter, a member of the club since its inception, for State Game Warden to fill the position vacated by the recent resignation of Fulcher P. Smith, of Oakland.

Following the passage of the resolution endorsing the candidacy of Carpenter, the Club secretary was instructed to send a telegram to Governor W. Preston Lane, urging his favorable consideration of Carpenter as a State Game Warden.

Recruiting Office Has Second Anniversary As Seven Local Men Volunteer For Service

Sgt. Robert Walker of the Frostburg Army Recruiting office announced today that seven local men have enlisted this month.

They are John Edward McKenzie, 17, Gilmore, three years Regular Army, unassigned; Richard Albright, 17, Frostburg, and Herbert Alexander, 19, Midland, both U. S. Airborne, unassigned for three years; Russell E. Edwards, 20, 150 Mechanic Street, and Robert Bush, 19, 144 Mechanic Street, both in the Regular Army for three years; Richard D. Fiorita, 18, Frostburg, one year, Regular Army, unassigned, James D. Buskirk, 20, Midland, ex-Marine, U. S. Airborne, unassigned, three years.

The Frostburg Recruiting Office was opened two years ago this month and in that time 2,500 applicants for the Army and Army Air Forces have been interviewed and tested. Sgt. Walker, recruiting officer in charge, announced that of this number over 400 have been approved through the Cumberland main station.

The office has been in charge of conveying Army information and building community relations with the government services. This has been done through the showing of motion pictures and speaking at civic meetings, fraternal organizations and service clubs.

The area, under the supervision of the Frostburg office two years ago consisted of Mt. Savage, Eckhart, Grantsville, Midland, Lonaconing, and Route 36 through the Tri-Towns.

T/Sgt. Wesley Welsh was recently sent here to establish an office to handle the Tri-Towns and Route 36.

In the past two years Walker has had eight assistants including, Sgt. William E. Wise, 11 years service, Cumberland; M/Sgt. Hester L. Neeley, 14 years service, New Orleans, La.; M/Sgt. Robert Springer, 7 years service, Frederick; T/3 Robert Chambers, 6 years service, Johnstown, Pa.; M/Sgt. John C Higgins, 20 years service, San Antonio, Texas; Sgt. Franklin L. Jolly, 7 years service, Cumberland; and M/Sgt. Clarence Biehn, 27 years service, Chicago, Ill.

Pfc. Carl F. Hughes, attached to the Army Air Force, San Antonio, Texas is on a ten day furlough at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hager, Borden Road. He enlisted in the army June 5.

Nets Paper $3,250,000

CARLYLE, Ill.—(AP)—Employes of the weekly Carlyle "Union Banner" found their pay envelopes fattened by $100,000 extra for each—but the "bonus" was in the highly inflated Chinese currency. The editor, Arthur Jenkins, admitted the gag had been pulled on him first. An army captain-friend in Nanking had sent with an order for a year's subscription the "payment"—$3,250,000 Chinese money.

Miss Wanda Kasecamp, an employe of Ford's Drug Store, is able to be out after being ill for the past week.

Recruiting Office Has Second Anniversary As Seven Local Men Volunteer For Service

Sgt. Robert Walker of the Frostburg Army Recruiting office announced today that seven local men have enlisted this month.

They are John Edward McKenzie, 17, Gilmore, three years Regular Army, unassigned; Richard Albright, 17, Frostburg, and Herbert Alexander, 19, Midland, both U. S. Airborne, unassigned for three years; Russell E. Edwards, 20, 150 Mechanic Street, and Robert Bush, 19, 144 Mechanic Street, both in the Regular Army for three years; Richard D. Fiorita, 18, Frostburg, one year, Regular Army, unassigned, James D. Buskirk, 20, Midland, ex-Marine, U. S. Airborne, unassigned, three years.

The Frostburg Recruiting Office was opened two years ago this month and in that time 2,500 applicants for the Army and Army Air Forces have been interviewed and tested. Sgt. Walker, recruiting officer in charge, announced that of this number over 400 have been approved through the Cumberland main station.

The office has been in charge of conveying Army information and building community relations with the government services. This has been done through the showing of motion pictures and speaking at civic meetings, fraternal organizations and service clubs.

The area, under the supervision of the Frostburg office two years ago consisted of Mt. Savage, Eckhart, Grantsville, Midland, Lonaconing, and Route 36 through the Tri-Towns.

T/Sgt. Wesley Welsh was recently sent here to establish an office to handle the Tri-Towns and Route 36.

In the past two years Walker has had eight assistants including, Sgt. William E. Wise, 11 years service, Cumberland; M/Sgt. Hester L. Neeley, 14 years service, New Orleans, La.; M/Sgt. Robert Springer, 7 years service, Frederick; T/3 Robert Chambers, 6 years service, Johnstown, Pa.; M/Sgt. John C Higgins, 20 years service, San Antonio, Texas; Sgt. Franklin L. Jolly, 7 years service, Cumberland; and M/Sgt. Clarence Biehn, 27 years service, Chicago, Ill.

Pfc. Carl F. Hughes, attached to the Army Air Force, San Antonio, Texas is on a ten day furlough at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hager, Borden Road. He enlisted in the army June 5.

Nets Paper $3,250,000

CARLYLE, Ill.—(AP)—Employes of the weekly Carlyle "Union Banner" found their pay envelopes fattened by $100,000 extra for each—but the "bonus" was in the highly inflated Chinese currency. The editor, Arthur Jenkins, admitted the gag had been pulled on him first. An army captain-friend in Nanking had sent with an order for a year's subscription the "payment"—$3,250,000 Chinese money.

Husband Invalided, Wife Out Of Job, But Couple Has Hope

With his last hope of recovery filed away in a volume of disappointments, Pearre Hanna, 29 Beall Street, an invalid for more than eight years, accepts as just another "tough break", his wife's recent furlough from her job at the Celanese plant.

To the Hannas, a sharp curtail of income means much. Mrs. Hanna, through these eight years, has not only been the bread winner in her family, but has served as nurse and companion to her invalid husband, whose spirits have never let down, even when he learned that recovery from arthritis is beyond his reach.

The disease that has crippled him to a stage of almost total helplessness, has been studied and treated by some of the country's foremost specialists, but, according to Hanna, nothing had helped as much as the daily massaging and hot baths, administered by his wife. She has never given way to self-pity but faces each day with new hope for some little break that will make their road a little easier.

Stricken years ago while working in a coal mine, Hanna, now 50, left the pits on the advice of physicians and began work as a bartender in the Eagles' Club rooms. But the disease was not to be put aside so easily and within two years, even this type of employment was to be deprived him, as his condition worsened. His long, uphill struggle for health began.

He was treated first by one physician, then another, with various methods. He traveled to Hot Springs, Arkansas, where he again submitted to treatments that failed. He went to Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, where he underwent two major operations but again faced defeat. He spent two summers at Mastic Beach, Long Island, N. Y., where baths that had worked so well on others, were just another disappointment. He returned home and tried chiropractic treatment, but again the same story, "Too late."

Resigned now to a life of helplessness and pain, Hanna's courage is inspiring to those who visit him and remembered the days when the six foot, one half inch tall, 240 pound athlete enjoyed nothing better than a ball game and a good old time jam session on "who's who in sports and politics". Daily he spends hours listening to the radio, keeping abreast with the world of sports. Despite his affliction, he is jovial and looks at the bright side of things, always pointing out that "he has nothing to gain by being depressed."

Each year as the disease made a little firmer grip, the muscles lost strength until he was unable to find power in his twisted hands and legs

LUCK ALL BAD—Her husband, Pearre Hanna, has been an invalid for more than eight years, and Mrs. Hanna recently lost her job at the Celanese plant, but the Frostburg couple considers it all just another "tough break" in a life which has seen them get their share. A sharp curtailment in income means much to this family but the spirits of both are just as high today as they were in brighter times before the former athlete was stricken. But like others plagued by ill luck, the Hannas continue to look for that "silver lining" in a sky dark with clouds.

Warned On Honks

KANSAS CITY—(AP)—The Kansas City police department is issuing notes of congratulations to altar-bound couples. But there's a catch. After reading the felicitations, the couples note that the police department does not feel that a procession of honking automobiles is a legitimate part of the wedding ceremony. The note warns that continual honking is a violation of the city's anti-noise ordinances.

PATIENT PATIENT—William J. Mooney, 87, former resident of Lonaconing and one of two men patients in Miners Hospital for over a year, manages to keep his interest in outside activities despite his confinement and delights in receiving callers. The other patient, Thomas Bevans, this city, is also kept in a wheel chair.

Long-Term Hospital Patients Keep Up On Outside Activity

William J. Mooney, 87, confined to Miners Hospital since July 1, 1947, is currently the hospital's longest resident patient, a victim of age infirmities.

Mooney, former resident of Lonaconing, is well known to residents of the George's Creek section. He owned and operated his tailor shop on Main Street in that city for more than forty years.

Another patient, Thomas "Buck" Bevans, this city, was admitted July 15 last year, released November 9, and re-admitted November 12. On December 13, 1947, it was necesary to amputate his left leg near the knee joint, but he is again able to be about in a wheel chair and receive visitors.

Both of the men have their dark moments, but usually there is a smile when visited by the people who have remembered them with cards, books and delicious tid-bits.

Still interested in outside activities, they anxiously await the daily papers, keeping abreast of sports and politics, while living their own lives, secluded by hospital walls.

Buyers Of Homes Prefer Comforts

NEW YORK—(AP)—The cute little house down the street may be some family's dream home, but it won't have much sales appeal for the 1948 home buyer unless it has a large living room, dinette instead of dining room, and more than one tiled bathroom.

Current home buying demand stresses comfort, according to Herman O. Walther, former president of the American Institute of Real Estate Appraisers. Americans no longer consider the home just a place to sleep. It must be a machine for pleasant living, Walther says.

$100 Offered For Cat

MONTEREY, Calif.—(AP)—There's a hot cat in the hills here, worth $100 to the hunter who brings him in. He's a large male mountain lion seen in the Carmel Valley, and cattlemen offer to double the $50 state bounty.

to permit performance of even the slightest task. Unlike many diseases that cripple, but with the damage done, Hanna continues to suffer and his attempts to walk with the aid of crutches are always accompanied by additional pain. From the time he gets dressed in the morning until evening, his feet and legs are in the process of swelling, until it is quite a task to remove his socks that stretch over the swollen flesh.

Once an ardent gardener, he still gets much pleasure from his chair on the porch, where he watches the flowers and vegetables grow.

Hanna is the son of the late Ulysses Hanna, a former postmaster of Frostburg, who once served as city treasurer and judge of the Orphans Court.

Sullivan To Visit Sisters For First Time In 42 Years

John C. Sullivan, 58 East College Avenue, accompanied by his son, John, Jr., is on an extensive trip to Iowa and Minnesota to visit his sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth Orris and Mrs. Mary Fenton.

This is the first meeting of Sullivan and his sisters since 1906. For many years the trio had lost contact with each other, but recently resumed correspondence and plans were made for the reunion.

Sullivan, who is blind, was born November 11, 1877, at Borden Mines, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Sullivan. Blind for more than 45 years, he tends his own vegetable garden, rising early in the morning to begin his daily chores.

With the assistance of his wife, the former Lydia Eisel, many of the garden vegetables, such as tomatoes, beans, beets, carrots, cabbage and peppers, are canned and stored in the cellar. There is always a sufficient amount of potatoes, onions and parsley for family use.

Sullivan's sight was nearly destroyed when he was employed as a railroad boss. He was investigating a charge of dynamite, which had failed to explode. As he was examining the fuse the charge exploded and he received the full impact. For a short time a little vision remained but for 45 years Sullivan has been totally blind.

PATIENT PATIENT—William J. Mooney, 87, former resident of Lonaconing and one of two men patients in Miners Hospital for over a year, manages to keep his interest in outside activities despite his confinement and delights in receiving callers. The other patient, Thomas Bevans, this city, is also kept in a wheel chair.

Long-Term Hospital Patients Keep Up On Outside Activity

William J. Mooney, 87, confined to Miners Hospital since July 1, 1947, is currently the hospital's longest resident patient, a victim of age infirmities.

Mooney, former resident of Lonaconing, is well known to residents of the George's Creek section. He owned and operated his tailor shop on Main Street in that city for more than forty years.

Many friends have visited him during his long period of illness.

Another patient, Thomas "Buck" Bevans, this city, was admitted July 15 last year, released November 9, and re-admitted November 12. On December 13, 1947, it was necesary to amputate his left leg near the knee joint, but he is again able to be about in a wheel chair and receive visitors.

Both of the men have their dark moments, but usually there is a smile when visited by the people who have remembered them with cards, books and delicious tid-bits.

Still interested in outside activities, they anxiously await the daily papers, keeping abreast of sports and politics, while living their own lives, secluded by hospital walls.

Buyers Of Homes Prefer Comforts

NEW YORK—(AP)—The cute little house down the street may be some family's dream home, but it won't have much sales appeal for the 1948 home buyer unless it has a large living room, dinette instead of dining room, and more than one tiled bathroom.

Current home buying demand stresses comfort, according to Herman O. Walther, former president of the American Institute of Real Estate Appraisers. Americans no longer consider the home just a place to sleep. It must be a machine for pleasant living, Walther says.

$100 Offered For Cat

MONTEREY, Calif.—(AP)—There's a hot cat in the hills here, worth $100 to the hunter who brings him in. He's a large male mountain lion seen in the Carmel Valley, and cattlemen offer to double the $50 state bounty.

to permit performance of even the slightest task. Unlike many diseases that cripple, but with the damage done, Hanna continues to suffer and his attempts to walk with the aid of crutches are always accompanied by additional pain. From the time he gets dressed in the morning until evening, his feet and legs are in the process of swelling, until it is quite a task to remove his socks that stretch over the swollen flesh.

Once an ardent gardener, he still gets much pleasure from his chair on the porch, where he watches the flowers and vegetables grow.

Hanna is the son of the late Ulysses Hanna, a former postmaster of Frostburg, who once served as city treasurer and judge of the Orphans Court.

Sullivan To Visit Sisters For First Time In 42 Years

John C. Sullivan, 58 East College Avenue, accompanied by his son, John, Jr., is on an extensive trip to Iowa and Minnesota to visit his sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth Orris and Mrs. Mary Fenton.

This is the first meeting of Sullivan and his sisters since 1906. For many years the trio had lost contact with each other, but recently resumed correspondence and plans were made for the reunion.

Sullivan, who is blind, was born November 11, 1877, at Borden Mines, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Sullivan. Blind for more than 45 years, he tends his own vegetable garden, rising early in the morning to begin his daily chores.

With the assistance of his wife, the former Lydia Eisel, many of the garden vegetables, such as tomatoes, beans, beets, carrots, cabbage and peppers, are canned and stored in the cellar. There is always a sufficient amount of potatoes, onions and parsley for family use.

Sullivan's sight was nearly destroyed when he was employed as a railroad boss. He was investigating a charge of dynamite, which had failed to explode. As he was examining the fuse the charge exploded and he received the full impact. For a short time a little vision remained but for 45 years Sullivan has been totally blind.

His hobby is flower gardening, a work of art, consisting of zinnias, marigolds, nasturtium and cosmos,

Hunters' Sons Pursue Career As Physicians

Two Of Three Brothers Hang Shingles; Third Is Now In College

Few, if any families in the county, can claim a distinction such as is being established by the family of Prof. J. Stanley Hunter, 70 East College Avenue.

The Hunters are the parents of three children, Dr. James S. Hunter, Dr. Robert Carl Hunter and Samuel Hunter, who is also preparing to prefix his name with the familiar family title "Doctor". Just how it came about that the three brothers, all chose the same profession, is not the usual story of something planned from childhood but rather a progressive movement that gained momentum as the youths completed high school courses.

James Stanley, 30, the eldest, had mastered the more difficult years of study, when Robert, 25, the second son, decided "if James can do it so can I". With Samuel, who will be 19 Sunday, the decision was a little harder to make, for "Sammy" (as he is known) is quite an accomplished musician and friends urged him to go on with his music and develop his talent as a pianist and an organist.

Despite the influence of those who recognized his musical ability, the chosen work of his two brothers had left a deep impression and he too had found most interesting their discussions on medical science. So Sammy did not break the chain.

He entered Johns Hopkins University last year and has now completed his first year's work as a premedical student. He is continuing with his music, but it is secondary and Sammy plans to keep it there and use it for a diversion.

All three, the two doctors and the young pre-med student, graduated from Beall High school as honor students.

Dr. James S. Hunter, Jr., is now at the Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minn., where he is the holder of a fellowship and continuing in specialized training in obstetrics and gynecology. After graduating from high school, he entered McGill University, Montreal, Canada, where he took the four year pre-med course. After graduating from the Canadian university he entered the University of Maryland's Medical School at Baltimore, where he graduated with a degree in medical science in 1941 and began serving an internship. This work was interrupted when he entered the Navy in 1942, serving as a surgeon in both the Atlantic and Pacific theatres of operations. After four years in service, when he had gained the commission of a lieutenant commander, he was honorably discharged and resumed his internship at the University of Maryland Medical School. Last year he went to the Mayo clinic where he plans to remain for two years. He is married and resides in Rochester, Minn.

Dr. Robert Carl Hunter took his pre-medical course at the University of Maryland and graduated from Medical school in 1947. He is now completing a two year internship in Baltimore. He is also married and resides in Baltimore. Both brothers' wives are registered nurses.

Sammy's plans are still indefinite. He has the long years ahead required to get the Medical degree before he decides on a field of specialization.

Prof. and Mrs. Stanley Hunter came to Frostburg more than 30 years ago from Reading, Pa., when Prof. Hunter accepted a position on the Beall High school faculty. He heads its manual arts department.

A veteran of the first world war, Prof. Hunter is well known here in sports circles. While an athletic coach at the high school, he was credited with turning out some of the most successful teams as well as developing outstanding athletes in the county. He is a graduate of Carnegie Tech, Pittsburgh.

DOCTORS THREE—It's not an oddity to have three sons, but it is when all three follow a medical career. That's the case in the family of Mr. and Mrs. J. Stanley Hunter, extreme left. Their three sons, J. Stanley Hunter, Jr., Robert Carl Hunter and Samuel Hunter have selected medicine as their life's work. J. Stanley and Robert Carl have affixed "Dr." to their names while Samuel is in medical school. The latter, also an accomplished musician, was urged to continue study in that field but decided, instead, to follow in his brothers' footsteps.

Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Purbaugh, Route 1, announce the birth of a son Saturday morning in Miners' Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Broadwater, 33 Beall Street, announce the birth of a son Saturday morning in Miners' Hospital. Mrs. Broadwater is the former Miss Joan Kreider, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Kreider.

Former Residents Visit Frostburg

The Rev. and Mrs. Roy Yund, Huntington, Long Island; Mr. and Mrs. William Woods, Pittsburgh, and Mrs. Harry Munsie, Detroit, Mich., have been guests this week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph K Patterson, 141 Hill Street. Mrs. Yund, the former Miss Ruth Brode; Mrs. Woods, the former Miss Alice Brode, and Mrs. Munsie, the former Miss Sarah Brode, are daughters of the late Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Brode, Borden Shaft.

Rev. Yund, an Air Force chaplain since 1942 with service in the ETO and the Italian and North African Campaign, as well as in various camps in this country, was recently honorably discharged from the service and is preparing to accept a civilian parish of the Lutheran Church. He will preach Sunday at Christ Lutheran Church, Sipesville, near Somerset, Pa.

Rev. and Mrs. Yund are former residents of Liberia, where their eldest son, Lowell, was born. They went to Africa as missionaries after Rev. Yund graduated from the Lutheran Theological Seminary.

Their son Lowell, a graduate of Muhlenberg College, Allentown, Pa., and the medical school of the University of Pennsylvania with the class of 1946, will be married September 25 at St. Matthew's Lutheran Church, Reading, Pa., to Miss Ruth Frick, an x-ray technician and a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Frick, of Reading. The marriage will be performed by the father of the prospective bridegroom.

Dr. Yund, chief house physician at the Reading, Pa., Hospital, is planning to relinquish his work in Reading. He and his bride have decided to go to Liberia as medical missionaries.

The Session of the First Presbyterian Church will hold its monthly meeting on Tuesday, September 13, 1948, at 7:30 p. m., in the Presbyterian Manse, 33 Broadway.

Hunters' Sons Pursue Career As Physicians

Two Of Three Brothers Hang Shingles; Third Is Now In College

Few, if any families in the county, can claim a distinction such as is being established by the family of Prof. J. Stanley Hunter, 70 East College Avenue.

The Hunters are the parents of three children, Dr. James S. Hunter, Dr. Robert Carl Hunter and Samuel Hunter, who is also preparing to prefix his name with the familiar family title "Doctor". Just how it came about that the three brothers, all chose the same profession, is not the usual story of something planned from childhood but rather a progressive movement that gained momentum as the youths completed high school courses.

James Stanley, 30, the eldest, had mastered the more difficult years of study, when Robert, 25, the second son, decided "if James can do it so can I". With Samuel, who will be 19 Sunday, the decision was a little harder to make, for "Sammy" (as he is known) is quite an accomplished musician and friends urged him to go on with his music and develop his talent as a pianist and an organist.

Despite the influence of those who recognized his musical ability, the chosen work of his two brothers had left a deep impression and he too had found most interesting their discussions on medical science. So Sammy did not break the chain.

He entered Johns Hopkins University last year and has now completed his first year's work as a pre-medical student. He is continuing with his music, but it is secondary and Sammy plans to keep it there and use it for a diversion.

All three, the two doctors and the young pre-med student, graduated from Beall High school as honor students.

Dr. James S. Hunter, Jr., is now at the Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minn., where he is the holder of a fellowship and continuing in specialized training in obstetrics and gynecology. After graduating from high school, he entered McGill University, Montreal, Canada, where he took the four year pre-med course. After graduating from the Canadian university he entered the University of Maryland's Medical School at Baltimore, where he graduated with a degree in medical science in 1941 and began serving an internship. This work was interrupted when he entered the Navy in 1942, serving as a surgeon in both the Atlantic and Pacific theatres of operations. After four years in service, when he had gained the commission of a lieutenant commander, he was honorably discharged and resumed his internship at the University of Maryland Medical School. Last year he went to the Mayo clinic where he plans to remain for two years. He is married and resides in Rochester, Minn.

Dr. Robert Carl Hunter took his pre-medical course at the University of Maryland and graduated from Medical school in 1947. He is now completing a two year internship in Baltimore. He is also married and resides in Baltimore. Both brothers' wives are registered nurses.

Sammy's plans are still indefinite. He has the long years ahead required to get the Medical degree before he decides on a field of specialization.

Prof. and Mrs. Stanley Hunter came to Frostburg more than 30 years ago from Reading, Pa., when Prof. Hunter accepted a position on the Beall High school faculty. He heads its manual arts depariment.

A veteran of the first world war, Prof. Hunter is well known here in sports circles. While an athletic coach at the high school, he was credited with turning out some of the most successful teams as well as developing outstanding athletes in the county. He is a graduate of Carnegie Tech, Pittsburgh.

DOCTORS THREE—It's not an oddity to have three sons, but it is when all three follow a medical career. That's the case in the family of Mr. and Mrs. J. Stanley Hunter, extreme left. Their three sons, J. Stanley Hunter, Jr., Robert Carl Hunter and Samuel Hunter have selected medicine as their life's work. J. Stanley and Robert Carl have affixed "Dr." to their names while Samuel is in medical school. The latter, also an accomplished musician, was urged to continue study in that field but decided, instead, to follow in his brothers' footsteps.

Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Purbaugh, Rqute 1, announce the birth of a son Saturday morning in Miners' Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Broadwater, 33 Beall Street, announce the birth of a son Saturday morning in Miners' Hospital. Mrs. Broadwater is the former Miss Joan Kreider, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Kreider.

Former Residents Visit Frostburg

The Rev. and Mrs. Roy Yund, Huntington, Long Island; Mr. and Mrs. William Woods, Pittsburgh, and Mrs. Harry Munsie, Detroit, Mich., have been guests this week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph K Patterson, 141 Hill Street. Mrs. Yund, the former Miss Ruth Brode; Mrs. Woods, the former Miss Alice Brode, and Mrs. Munsie, the former Miss Sarah Brode, are daughters of the late Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Brode, Borden Shaft.

Rev. Yund, an Air Force chaplain since 1942 with service in the ETO and the Italian and North African Campaign, as well as in various camps in this country, was recently honorably discharged from the service and is preparing to accept a civilian parish of the Lutheran Church. He will preach Sunday at Christ Lutheran Church, Sipesville, near Somerset, Pa.

Rev. and Mrs. Yund are former residents of Liberia, where their eldest son, Lowell, was born. They went to Africa as missionaries after Rev. Yund graduated from the Lutheran Theological Seminary.

Their son Lowell, a graduate of Muhlenberg College, Allentown, Pa., and the medical school of the University of Pennsylvania with the class of 1946, will be married September 25 at St. Matthew's Lutheran Church, Reading, Pa., to Miss Ruth Frick, an x-ray technician and a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Frick, of Reading. The marriage will be performed by the father of the prospective bridegroom.

Dr. Yund, chief house physician at the Reading, Pa., Hospital, is planning to relinquish his work in Reading. He and his bride have decided to go to Liberia as medical missionaries.

The Session of the First Presbyterian Church will hold its monthly meeting on Tuesday, September 12, 1948, at 7:30 p. m., in the Presbyterian Manse, 33 Broadway.

LaPorta Will Begin Studies For Priesthood

Gerald LaPorta, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ross LaPorta, Broadway, will leave Wednesday for St. Charles College, Catonsville, to begin studies for the Catholic priesthood. Gerald, the youngest son of the LaPortas, is following in the footsteps of his brother, Ross A. LaPorta, who will be ordained in the Catholic clergy in 1951 at St. Mary's, Roland Park, Baltimore.

While at St. Charles he will pursue a general college course for two years. Following this his studies will include philosophy and theology making a total of eight years schooling beyond high school.

LaPorta is a graduate of LaSalle High School, Cumberland, Class of 1948, and a graduate of St. Michael's Parochial School Class of '44. During his high school career he was a member of St. De LaSalle Choir and participated in all of the spring and Christmas musicales. During his senior year he served as president of the Catholic Students Mission Crusade.

Mrs. Myrtle Misore and Mrs. E. Schickling, Brooklyn, N. Y., and Robert Lammert were guests of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Lammert last week.

Keeping abreast of the world news and sports, Sullivan listens regularly to radio programs, enjoying baseball broadcasts in the summer, and football in the winter.

The Sullivans are the parents of three children, John Jr., William F., this city, and Mrs. Martha Downey, Baltimore, and have three grandchildren.

The Ladies Guild of St. Paul's Lutheran Church will meet tonight, 7:30 o'clock, at the home of Mrs. James H. Close, Sand Spring.

Mrs. Nell Kennedy, secretary, will present a membership ring as a personal gift to the member who secures the largest number of new members.

The Roung Women's Auxiliary of the Young Men's Republican Club will hold its regular monthly card party in the club rooms, East Main Street, tomorrow at 8 p. m. Hostesses will be Mrs. Charlotte Zeller, Mrs. Margaret Richardson and Mrs. Sarah Dolder.

Pythian Sisters' Official Returns

Mrs. Elizabeth Odgers, past supreme representative of Grand Temple of Maryland, Pythian Sisters, and a member of Calanthe Temple No. 3, this city, has returned to her home, 133 East College Avenue after a five weeks visit with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Odgers, Dallas, Texas.

While there Mrs. Odgers was the guest of Mrs. Fannie Gordon, who was elected supreme junior at the supreme session held in Milwaukee, Wis., last month. She, with Mrs. Gordon, visited the Pythian home, Weather Fort, Tex., which is under the jurisdiction of the Texas Knights of Pythias and Pythian Sisters and managed by Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Horseman, of that city, members of the Pythian Order. She was a guest at the reception honoring Mrs. Gordon in the Century Room of the Adolphus Hotel, Dallas, visited Oakcliff and Victory Temples and San Angelo and New Mexico.

Sleemans Celebrate Birthday And Anniversary With Dinner

Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan Sleeman, Eckhart Flat, entertained recently at their summer home on the South Branch of the Potomac with a dinner party in celebration of Mr. Sleeman's sixty-fifth birthday and their thirty-fifth wedding anniversary.

Sleeman, a former member of the House of Delegates, cut the large two tier birthday cake, that was illuminated with 65 candles. A social hour followed dinner with William Claus as master of ceremonies.

Mrs. Sleeman is the former Miss Mildred Henry of Vale Summit. They have one adopted daughter, Miss Mildred Cookerly.

Others attending were Mr. and Mrs. James Sleeman, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Sleeman, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Sleeman, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Sleeman, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Cookerly, Mr. and Mrs. William Jenkins, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. George Sturtz, Mr. and Mrs. James Morton, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Harriett, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Hunter, Mr. and Mrs. George Burdett, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Henry and daughter, Patricia, Mesdames William Claus, Jean Loar, Gladys Porter, Miss Agnes Howat, Messrs. William Downey, William Kear, Arthur Gray and Alvin Loar.

Woody Layman

Hohing was back in business. He changed the name to Bob Hohing Men's Wear.

Bob plans to expand his business and has added many new features. He is a member of Frostburg Lodge No. 470, B. P. O. Elks, Veterans of Foreign Wars; American Legion; Disabled Veterans; Lions Club and is active in the Frostburg Business Association.

His wife is the former Miss Ruth Gerson, and they have one son, Lawrence. They reside in the Jeffries Apartment, Broadway.

Layman Also Vet

Layman, 35, a war veteran, is now his father's partner in the firm, known as the Layman Hardware Company and founded here in 1919 by R. O. Layman.

The elder Layman, who had never worked in a store, prior to venturing into business for himself, still takes an active interest in the concern that has grown from the original one-man enterprise to one of Frostburg's largest firms with seven employees.

Layman started in business in the Dufty Building on Broadway, where he remained four years, handling only a limited stock of hardware and other items. He and his wife, the former Miss Margaret Rodda, now a retired businesswoman, purchased the Thomas Building on East Main Street and moved the business to its present location. The building has since been remodeled several times with two floors added above for apartments.

"Woody", as he is known to both his business associates and personal friends, went to work for his father when he was seventeen, and from the beginning took an unusual interest in the work. The business continued to grow, but expansion plans were halted and Mr. Layman, who had been "taking it easier", was forced to resume a heavier schedule, when his son left in 1943, to enter the armed forces.

After basic training and short stay in the states, Woody was assigned to the combat Engineers and went overseas for seventeen months. He participated in five major campaigns. He escaped serious injury, and the news of Germany's surrender reached his outfit when in the midst of another campaign in the German Alps near Hitler's summer home. His one reprieve, overseas, came when he was taken ill at Bavaria, and removed to a general hospital in Nancy, France, where he was confined for seven weeks.

Discharged in November, 1945, he returned and resumed work in his father's store. A few months later he became a partner in the firm, and since that time extensive expansion plans have been completed. A large addition was erected to the rear of the building providing the store and display room with an area of about 25 by 170 feet.

An active member of the Frostburg Business Association, Layman is another example of the aggressive young business men who are promoting Frostburg's trading potentialities. He is chief of the Frostburg Fire Department, a Mason, and a member of the American Legion and Veteran of Foreign Wars posts. In addition, he is active in the city's civic and fraternal organizations and was recently named to the official board of the First Methodist Church.
